S STANFORD UNIVERSITY

THE NATION'S PREMIER UNIVERSITY

The world all at once: Limitless possibilities are at the heart of Stanford University.

Global positioning systems and gene splicing, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and The Grapes of Wrath, the football huddle and the T-formation, Yahoo! and Google—all bear the mark of a Stanford individual. At Stanford, you will find the entire universe of what humankind knows and is endeavoring to know. From your first days on campus, this universe will be yours to explore, yours to discover. Stanford will ask that intellectual curiosity be your compass, that excellence be your true north.

Along the way, you will have the guidance of extraordinary faculty mentors who are at the forefront of advancing the world's understanding of subjects ranging from geophysics to history to bioscience to musical composition. You will also have the friendship of fellow students who will awe and inspire you as much for their humanity as for their talents. As you pursue the questions that interest you most, your mentors and friends will give you the freedom to risk temporary failure as you push yourself both intellectually and personally—along with the freedom and encouragement to pursue what you love.

Your reward will be the exhilaration of discovery—the exhilaration of true excellence.

S STANFORD AND THE NATIONAL TEAM

Some of the greatest moments in United States women's national team history have a Stanford connection. Julie Foudy (class of '93), a four-time first-team All-American at Stanford, remains one of the greatest and most influential players in American history, among men and women. Foudy collected 271 caps while playing for the national team from 1987-2004, and served as captain for 13 of those years. Foudy, a two-time Olympic gold medalist, was a key figure on the U.S. team that captured the 1999 World Cup and provided a seminal moment in the evolution of women's sports on a global scale.

Stanford has created a partnership of sorts with the national team program, with eight current players active in U.S. national-team player pools. Altogether, 13 current or former Stanford players are active national-team players, including three – Nicole Barnhart (U.S.), Rachel Buehler (U.S.) and Ali Riley (New Zealand) – who participated in the 2008 Beijing Olympics. Barnhart and Buehler each collected gold.

Here is the complete list of active players with Stanford ties and the national teams they represent:

STANFORD AND WOMEN'S PROFESSIONAL SOCCER

On March 29, 2009, the advent of Women's Professional Soccer rekindled the dreams of young women around the country who wish to make a living playing the sport they love. That day, the launch of the seven-team league took on a decidedly Stanford flavor. Watching her creation take form was WPS Commissioner and founder Tonya Antonucci, who played for Stanford from 1986-89 and twice led the Cardinal in goals. And scoring the historic first goal, on a header off a free kick in the seventh minute for the hometown Los Angeles Sol, was Allison Falk, another former Stanford standout.

THE STANFORD INFLUENCE

"Looking back my Stanford experience did in fact inform the vision for WPS in some key ways. First, as a student-athlete at Stanford you have the opportunity to play alongside, or sit next to in the classroom, some of the most amazingly talented, bright and charismatic people you'll ever know in life. It can be fairly intimidating, but also inspiring.

"Looking back on that experience and the motivational environment, I think it fostered a desire to see something special evolve in pro sports: a continuum of that concept of sports heroes taking their athletic talents into other realms as smart, engaging people and leaders off the field as well. To me, that is what the WPS athlete stands for. She is just as compelling and passionate off the soccer field, as she is on it, and that is one of the unique facets of WPS."

— Tonya Antonucci, WPS Commissioner and founder and former Stanford scoring leader

2009 Stanford Women's Soccer Outlook

Cup of Opportunity

There is a danger in having a season as successful as the Stanford women's soccer team had in 2008. Expectations grow.

Stanford set single-season records in victories and goals scored, and ventured as deep into the NCAA Tournament as it ever has, reaching the College Cup semifinals.

But what emerged from such success was not necessarily satisfaction, but increased anticipation. The Cardinal believes it can do better. And why not?

- Stanford returns nine of 11 starters and 17 letterwinners from a 22-2-1 team.
- The Cardinal returns 69 of last year's 71 goals.
- The 10-player freshman class includes the national high school player of the year and some of the most sought-after recruits in the nation.
- Stanford is the Pac-10 favorite and ranked No. 2 in the nation, according to preseason coaches' polls.

"That was the beautiful thing about that team," said coach Paul Ratcliffe of the evolution of his 2008 squad. "They still were trying to prove something. We honestly felt we were still trying to get to our peak. I don't think we got there. Another month and we would have been even better. That's what I hope for this season."

Said senior forward Kelley O'Hara, "Every year, our end goal is the national championship, and this year is no different."

That goal is within reach. The front line of O'Hara, Christen Press and Lindsay Taylor combined for 45 goals and 26 assists last year. Their combined 116 points was unmatched by any trio in the country. Each ranked among the nation's top 50 scorers, another feat no other school could claim. And all are back.

So are Teresa Noyola and Camille Levin, standouts in the midfield who provided another 12 goals, 14 assists, 38 points, and vital playmaking.

Add an offensive force on the back line in New Zealand national teamer Ali Riley, the team's fastest player and a onetime All-Pac-10 forward, and freshman Courtney Verloo, the third-leading scorer in the 2008 FIFA Under-17 World Cup, and Stanford has more scoring threats than defenses may be able to account for.

It's easy to assume the newcomers will blend seamlessly with the veterans and mold into a cohesive unit. After all, that's the way it worked last year. Noyola and Taylor were first-team All-Americans – the only freshmen selected – and were joined by Levin on Soccer America's All-Freshman team.

It could very well happen again. But each individual must find common ground, and this year's team must do so while replacing its two rocks in the central defense, Marisa Abegg and Allison Falk, each of whom moved on to Women's Professional Soccer.

Lindsay Taylor earned first-team All-America honors as a freshman.

SEASON PREVIEW

2009 STANFORD WOMEN'S SOCCER

The solution may not be simple. Both Abegg and Falk were physically dominant, outstanding leaders and will be difficult to replace. Instead, Ratcliffe may play a different style of defense, with backliners who may not be as dominant in the air, but skillful at playing the ball with their feet and building the attack.

Ratcliffe cannot even be sure of Stanford's formation until he makes judgments on the freshmen and their roles. Those decisions could have a far-reaching scope because they will also affect the veterans. Ali Riley, for instance, could return to forward, and several others will be tested at a variety of positions.

Yes, the Cardinal has much in its favor, but that doesn't mean it enters the season as a polished product.

"Last year, we played a 4-3-3," Ratcliffe said. "This year, I'm not sure. We'll take a look at the freshmen and see what system fits this group."

Here is how the team breaks down, position by position:

Goalkeepers

Kira Maker, a junior, already has 35 starts, 16 shutouts and a career goals-against average of 0.47. Those figures put her on pace for one of the finest careers in school history. Last season, Maker posted a 0.33 GAA, the second-best ever at Stanford.

Despite her accomplishments, Maker will be pushed for playing time by freshmen Lindsay Dickerson, a high school All-American at nearby St. Francis of Mountain View, and Aly Gleason.

Defenders

The losses of Abegg and Falk to graduation leave a gap in experience in the central defense. Each was a co-captain who started in every match over their collegiate careers.

Ratcliffe will look at different combinations to fill those spots: including the possibility of moving midfielder Allison McCann, or outside defenders Ali Riley and Alicia Jenkins. Freshmen Alina Garciamendez, Madeleine Thompson and Nina Watkins will be given looks along with Katie Riley, out for the past two years with injuries, and Kristy Zurmuhlen, a reserve midfielder last season.

The outside back tandem of Ali Riley and Jenkins should remain unchanged unless either is asked to move to another position. Riley, described by Ratcliffe as "one of the best outside backs in the country," could even wind up on the wing depending on how freshmen Verloo and Rachel Quon, teammates on the U.S. Under-17 World Cup team, perform.

The defense has traditionally been a stronghold for the program. In each of the past eight years, Stanford has held opponents to an average of under a goal per game.

Midfielders

Once the back four is organized, Ratcliffe will work toward cementing the midfield and forward lines.

Noyola (six goals, 10 assists), an attacking midfielder, is a player who simply makes her teammates better and leads a group that has strong depth at the position. Levin stepped into the central midfield role last season to start every match. And Kristin Stannard, Hillary Heath and McCann combined for 32 starts last season.

In addition, Shira Averbuch and Katie Finley seem poised for breakthrough seasons. Junior Morgan Redman, with seven goals and six assists mostly as a reserve, is a constant scoring threat. Zurmuhlen has excelled in a defensive midfield role, and freshmen Mariah Nogueira, Watkins, and Quon could step in and contribute immediately.

Forwards

Stanford can break a defense down in many ways through many individuals. Such is the depth of the Cardinal attack that O'Hara, Stanford's leading scorer in 2006 and '07, set a career-high with 13 goals last season and still was surpassed by Taylor and Press, who each scored 16.

"In the past, we've had one or two scoring threats," Ratcliffe said. "Now, we have four or five."

There's also Verloo, who has excelled for the U.S. in youth international play and captained the U.S. team at the U-17 World Cup last winter. Finley, a redshirt freshman, is a skillful offensive player who is looking for her opportunity, and fifth-year senior Heath and freshman Marjani Hing-Glover bring a physical presence into the attack.

For the 2009 Stanford Cardinal, the talent is in place, the objectives are set, and the team is confident. The season awaits.

Christen Press led Stanford in scoring in 2008.

Paul Ratcliffe

Head Coach
Seventh Season
UCLA '94

National coach of the year Paul Ratcliffe has built Stanford into one of the nation's elite and continues to draw the program closer to a national championship. In six seasons, Ratcliffe has never failed to direct the Cardinal to the NCAA Tournament. Now, the team has pulled itself into the realm of perennial title contender.

After guiding Stanford into the 2008 NCAA College Cup semifinals and a No. 4 final national ranking, Ratcliffe swept Coach of the Year honors from the NSCAA, Soccer America and Soccer Buzz. The Cardinal earned a school-record 22 victories, and shattered another all-time mark with 71 goals.

Ratcliffe now heads into his seventh season, which makes him the longest-tenured head coach in program history, and his 85-33-16 record makes him the winningest as well. Ratcliffe has never had a losing season at Stanford, or anywhere else since his first collegiate head-coaching season, at Saint Mary's in 1998.

His career record is 140-67-23 and his winning percentage of .659, ranks 30th on the all-time NCAA list of Division I coaches. No other active coach has 140 victories in 11 or fewer seasons.

The talent he has helped develop is impressive. At Stanford, Ratcliffe has coached four first-team All-Americans (seven in all), 18 all-conference players, 36 Pac-10 All-Academic selections and three Olympians.

Seven of his players have been named to the Hermann Trophy Watch List, including three – Teresa Noyola, Kelley O'Hara, and Lindsay Taylor – who helped the Cardinal post a 22-2-1 record last season and reach the College Cup for the first time since 1993.

The Cardinal finished with the nation's second-best goals-against average (0.317) and shutout percentage (0.68), and sixth-best scoring offense (2.84 goals per game).

Ratcliffe earned college soccer's highest coaching award, the NSCAA/adidas National Coach of the Year, as well as the Pac-10 and West Region Coach of the Year. On Oct.

24, 2008, with a 3-1 victory over Arizona, Ratcliffe earned his 78th victory and became Stanford's winningest coach.

Furthermore, Stanford seems well positioned to be successful for years to come. He has successfully recruited the past two Gatorade National High School Players of the Year – Noyola and Rachel Quon.

Noyola and Taylor were first-team All-Americans as freshmen and joined Camille Levin on Soccer America's All-Freshman team. This year's freshman class includes six players rated among the nation's top 60 recruits by Top Drawer Soccer.

Before arriving at Stanford, Ratcliffe spent five seasons as head coach at Saint Mary's, leading the Gaels to a 55-34-7 overall record. He was a three-time West Coast Conference Coach of the Year. In 2001, he earned West Region Coach of the Year honors when the Gaels – with only one senior in the starting lineup – reached its highest-ever national ranking, of 7th, had a 13-game win streak and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Before coming to Moraga, Ratcliffe was an assistant at his alma mater, UCLA, from 1994-97. The Bruins posted an undefeated 1997 season, won the Pac-10 title and reached the NCAA quarterfinals. Ratcliffe also served as UCLA's interim head coach from January through August of 1996.

Ratcliffe earned his National "A" License from the United States Soccer Federation in 1999. A 1994 UCLA graduate, Ratcliffe earned his degree in sociology with a specialization in business administration. Ratcliffe, a midfielder, was a four-year letterman, scoring 30 points in 73 matches, and was a member of the 1990 national championship team.

Ratcliffe went on to play professionally for the Los Angeles United and Anaheim Splash of the Continental Indoor Soccer League in 1993 and 1994.

Ratcliffe and his wife, Amy, live in San Jose and have two daughters, Elena and Chloe.

COACHING STAFF

2009 STANFORD WOMEN'S SOCCER

Jay Cooney

Assistant Coach
Seventh Season

Under Jay Cooney's direction, Stanford's goalkeeping annually has been among the best in the country, achieving the nation's best goals-against average in 2004 (0.43) and second-best in 2008 (0.32).

Cooney, in his seventh season as goalkeepers' coach, helped develop Nicole Barnhart into a two-time All-American, Olympic gold medalist and national-team veteran. Barnhart, a volunteer assistant at Stanford, was third in the nation in GAA (0.44) in 2004 and holds Stanford career records in GAA (0.45) and shutouts (35).

Last year, Kira Maker helped Stanford to 17 shutout victories and to the NCAA College Cup. She was second in GAA (0.33) and 13th in save percentage (.862). In two years as a starter, Maker, now a junior, carries a career GAA of 0.47.

Every starting goalkeeper Cooney has coached at Stanford has held opponents under 1.00 goals per game. All four – Barnhart, Alex Gamble, Erica Holland and Maker – are among the leaders on Stanford's all-time career shutout list.

Cooney also coaches goalkeepers for FC Gold Pride of Women's Professional Soccer. It's Cooney's second coaching stint with a professional women's franchise. He arrived at Stanford after serving as goalkeeper coach for the San Jose CyberRays, the 2001 Women's United Soccer Association champion. Under Cooney's guidance, San Jose goalkeeper LaKeysia Beene was honored as the 2001 WUSA Goalkeeper of the Year.

Before coming to the South Bay, Cooney served as an assistant coach at William and Mary and as assistant director of Soccer Plus, a goalkeepers' school owned by Tony DiCicco, coach of the 1999 U.S. Women's World Cup team.

In 1999, Cooney was an assistant coach at Providence College and for the Under-18 and U-19 Greater Boston Bolts, and practice goalkeeper for the A-League's Boston Bulldogs. Previously, he was the head coach of the Wellesley (Mass.) High School boys (1993-98) and was the 1998 Bay State Coach of the Year.

Cooney's mother, Marge, founded Wellesley United, a girls' soccer club and has been a huge influence and inspiration to her son.

Cooney and his wife, Greta, live in Menlo Park. The couple has two sons, Finn and Hayes.

Theresa Wagner

Assistant Coach
Second Season

Theresa Wagner has had great success as a player and a coach, and brings her expertise to all phases of the game as a second-year Stanford assistant.

Wagner helped the Cardinal to a record 22 victories last season. Before that, she spent five seasons as an assistant at University of San Diego, helping the Toreros to three NCAA Tournament appearances and their best-ever season, in 2007. She also was head coach of the San Diego Surf, which earned a No. 1 national club ranking and captured State Cup and regional championships.

This is the second stint on the Stanford staff for Wagner, who handles much of the recruiting duties. She was a volunteer assistant on the 2002 Pac-10 championship team that went 21-1-1 – the best record in school history.

Wagner was a standout player, winning a championship with the San Jose CyberRays during the first of her three seasons in the Women's United Soccer Association following a stellar career at University of Washington.

Wagner continues to hold Husky single-game records for goals (four) and assists (four) and was a four-time All-Pac-10 selection and three-time Pac-10 All-Academic choice. Wagner earned first-team honors in both in 2000, when she led the Huskies to their first Pac-10 title, and finished her career as the school record-holder in career points (80).

Wagner is a native of Edmonds, Wash., and was a three-sport star at Lakeside High School, setting a state 2A record with 120 career goals and earning All-Metro honors in basketball and winning a state tennis championship. She was the 1995 Seattle Times Female Athlete of the Year.

Wagner graduated from Washington in 2001, earning a B.A. in business with a 3.5 GPA.

Nicole Barnhart

Volunteer Assistant Coach
Fourth Season

Nicole Barnhart is an Olympic gold medalist, U.S. national team veteran and a current professional goalkeeper who returns to Stanford as a volunteer assistant coach.

Barnhart, now with FC Gold Pride of Women's Professional Soccer, was on both the 2007 Women's World Cup and 2008 Olympic teams. She previously was a Stanford volunteer assistant from 2005-07.

A two-time first-team All-American, Barnhart continues to hold Stanford career records for goals-against average (0.45) and shutouts (35), as well as single-season marks in both categories (0.19 and 18, respectively).

Barnhart graduated from Stanford in 2004 with a double degree in studio art and psychology.

Marisa Abegg

Student Assistant Coach
First Season

Marisa Abegg, a stalwart at center back and a Stanford team captain during its 2008 College Cup season, returns to the Cardinal as a student assistant coach.

Abegg, now a defender for FC Gold Pride of Women's Professional Soccer, started all 90 matches during her Stanford career. She was an NSCAA second-team All-American as a senior, a two-time All-Pac-10 first-team selection, and a semifinalist for the Hermann Trophy, college soccer's highest honor.

Abegg was vital to a Stanford defense that had 17 shutouts in 2008 and held opponents to a 0.32 goals-against average.

Stanford University at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country; many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold of greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

Nearly 116 years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanford's generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is less than hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few minutes north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, tremendous sports and recreation facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Australia, Beijing, Berlin, Cape Town, Florence, Kyoto, Madrid, Moscow, Oxford, Paris, and Santiago.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers 1,874 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. As of the June of 2009, the faculty included 16 Nobel Laureates, four Pulitzer Prize winners, 23 MacArthur Fellows, 19 recipients of the National Medal of Science, two National Medal of Technology recipients, 244 members of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 136 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 83 National Academy of Engineering members, 46 American Philosophical Society members, 27 members of the National Academy of Education, eight Wolf Foundation Prize winners, six winners of the Koret Foundation Prize and three Presidential Medal of Freedom winners. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently, 15,140 students, of which 6,812 are undergraduates, study on campus. A little more than 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and 8 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, approximately 55 percent are African American, Asian American, International, Mexican American, Native American, Native Hawaiian or Other Hispanic in ethnicity. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished.

Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class with 89% of those admitted finishing in the top 10% of their high school class. Ninety-eight Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 78 have been selected Marshall Award winners, and 53 have been chosen Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in many community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 35 Division I varsity sports. Of Stanford's 97 NCAA titles (111 national), 57 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Forty-nine Stanford-affiliated athletes competed in the 2008 Olympics in Beijing, collecting a school-record 25 medals (eight gold, 13 silver and four bronze. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,300 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program is more than 4,600, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care."

Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day . . . At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research."

Bob Bowsby

The Jaquish & Kenninger
Director of Athletics

One of the most respected athletic administrators in the nation, Bob Bowsby enters his fourth full year as the Jaquish & Kenninger Director of Athletics at Stanford University, a position he was appointed to on April 25, 2006 after spending 15 years at the helm of the University of Iowa's athletic program.

In his initial three years in the position, Stanford has continued its well-earned reputation of fielding the most successful and wide-ranging Division I-A athletic programs in the nation.

As Stanford's sixth athletic director, Bowsby succeeds Ted Leland (1991-2005), Andy Geiger (1979-90), Joe Ruetz (1972-78), Chuck Taylor (1963-71) and Al Masters (1925-63). He directs a department that includes 35 intercollegiate varsity teams – 15 men's, 19 women's and one coed – plus the physical education department, intramurals, club sports, open recreation and the Stanford Golf Course.

Under his administrative guidance, Stanford claimed its unprecedented 15th straight Learfield Sports Director's Cup last spring, emblematic of the top overall program in the country. Ten Stanford teams boasted Top 10 finishes, winning national championships in men's gymnastics and women's rowing.

Stanford's student-athletes were also highly-decorated last year. Folukey Akinradewo (women's volleyball) earned her second straight national player of the year honor while eight student-athletes earned conference player of the year marks. In addition, Erik Shoji men's volleyball earned national freshmen of the year accolades.

Two Stanford coaches--Thom Glielmi (men's gymnastics) and Yaz Farooq (women's rowing) earned national coach of the year marks.

Throughout his career, Bowsby has emerged as a national leader in intercollegiate and amateur athletics. He was named in February, 2007, to the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors.

He has previously served as President of the NCAA Division I-A Athletic Directors' Association (2002-03), Chair of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee for two years (2003-05) and a committee member for five years, Chair of the Big Ten Administrator's Council (2002-04) and Chair of the NCAA Management Council.

Bowsby was appointed by President George Bush as a member of the Commission on Opportunities in Athletics in 2002-03. The committee was led by U.S. Secretary of Education Rod Paige.

Bowsby was elected chair of the NCAA Olympic Sports Liaison Committee and represented the NCAA as one of two voting members on the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors. He served as a member of the NCAA/U.S. Olympic Committee Task Force chaired by Cedric Dempsey and George Steinbrenner.

In addition, Bowsby served as chair of the NCAA Wrestling Committee and has served on NCAA committees on Financial Aid and Amateurism, the Special Committee to Review Amateurism Issues and the Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Athletics.

Bowsby has also served as an Executive Committee member with both the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Division I-A Athletic Directors Association and served as President of the I-A organization for two years.

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) named Bowsby in 2001-02 as Central Region Athletic Director of the Year and Sports Business Journal selected him from the four regional award winners as the National Athletics Director of the Year. The award highlights the efforts of the athletic directors for their commitment and positive contributions to campuses and their surrounding communities.

As the chief administrator for Iowa's athletic department from 1991-2006, Bowsby earned a reputation as one of the most admired, energetic and ambitious athletic administrators in the nation. Bowsby guided and supervised the merger of the Hawkeye's women's and men's athletics departments while enabling Iowa to maintain its standing as one of the most visible and successful Division I athletic programs.

Under his leadership, Iowa enjoyed unprecedented success and growth in the area of fund raising and facilities. Bowsby and the UI Development staff put in place $25 million in endowments to help support Hawkeye student-athlete scholarship aid. In addition, he managed the planning and construction of $120 million in facility projects on campus, including an $87 million renovation to Kinnick Stadium.

A native of Waterloo, Iowa, Bowsby became Iowa's 10th Athletic Director in June, 1991, after serving in the same role at the University of Northern Iowa since 1984. Bowsby earned his bachelor's degree from Moorhead State University (Minnesota) in 1975 and his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1978.

Bob and his wife, Candice, have four children: Lisa, Matt, Rachel and Kyle.

Principles That Guide Us

Department of Athletics, Physical Education, and Recreation

Department of Athletics, Physical Education, and Recreation

MISSION STATEMENT

From its founding in 1891, Stanford University's leaders have believed that physical activity is valuable for its own sake and that vigorous exercise is complementary to the educational purposes of the university. Within this context for human development, it is the mission of Stanford's Department of Athletics, Physical Education and Recreation to offer a wide range of high quality programs which will encourage and facilitate all participants to realize opportunities for championship athletic participation, physical fitness, health and well being.

We Will Teach

- By encouraging our student-athletes to capture all the joy, power and extraordinary personal growth that comes to those who compete and support athletic excellence.
- By hiring and retaining the best coaches and staff members available and arming them with the tools to achieve at the highest level.
- By fostering and nurturing a coaching, physical education and recreation staff that is committed to teaching with integrity & ambition and that performs in a manner which is consistent with the academic priorities of Stanford University.
- By recognizing the need to work as a team while valuing each individual's unique characteristics and abilities.

- By committing ourselves to the personal development and well being of our student-athletes and staff. Those who participate at all levels will learn the benefits of teamwork, discipline, goal setting, physical fitness, healthy lifestyles, character development, self confidence, sportsmanship, and an appreciation for lifelong learning.

We Will Lead

- By being the model of success, of universal opportunity, and of unwavering commitment to the ideal of the scholar-athlete.
- By operating with integrity as we follow the spirit and the letter of each rule. Integrity will be displayed in our policies, performances and programs.
- By continuing our long history of conference and national prominence through a commitment to cutting edge involvement in athletic issues.

We Will Win

- By maximizing our effort in every competition, on every team and in every setting where skill, determination and hard work combine to achieve singularly successful results.
- By having an uncompromising commitment to Conference and National championships and by providing each student-athlete with the tools necessary to be successful at the highest levels of both academic and athletic performance.

- By creating a commitment to a university-wide wellness culture that will allow Stanford students, faculty and staff to maximize their health and fitness opportunities throughout their lives.

We Will Serve

- By respecting, honoring and responding to the needs of our student-athletes, coaches, colleagues, advocates and members of our larger community.
- By encouraging innovation and creativity. We will harness technology to extend our reach and to interface with our various internal and external constituencies.
- Through fiscal responsibility in all elements of departmental operations.
- By advancing outreach as a fundamental component of the department, we will strive to enhance the overall mission of the University through competitive excellence, effective outreach and an on-going commitment to customer service.
- By utilizing the department resources and physical facilities to serve the campus community, our alumni and our supporters throughout the world.
- By valuing our heritage, and in doing so we commit ourselves to championship caliber athletic achievement and the on-going enhancement of the traditions of Stanford Athletics, including leadership, individual and team achievement & intense pride and loyalty.

Stanford's National Titles
