TAKING THE PROGRAM TO NEW HEIGHTS

Stanford head softball coach John Rittman has seen his share of outstanding players graduate from Stanford University. Each year a talented number of players leave The Farm after taking the Cardinal program to new heights. Last year's team chalked up a 42-18 record and a trip to the NCAA Super Regional. From that squad, Stanford lost two All-Americans, outfielder Catalina Morris and shortstop Lauren Lappin, along with pitcher Laura Severson, infielder Megan Bordelon, and outfielder Shoney Hixon. "Losing players of that caliber is always difficult," said Rittman, "However if you look at our returners and the talent of the freshmen class, I think we have the ability to be very good."

In 2007 Stanford returns ten outstanding letter winners and adds four talented freshmen who should keep Stanford among the top collegiate teams in the nation. Among the returners are All Pac-10 performers infielders Maddy Coon and Michelle Smith, outfielder Jackie Rhinehart, and pitchers Becky McCullough and Missy Penna. "We had a great year last year, however the year did not end how we would have liked. The expectation level of this program is very high. We expect to succeed, and to have a winning program. Our goal is to get to the Women's College World Series and to win a national championship. Our program has been very consistent, and there are things we learned from last year that will benefit us in 2007."

In 2007 Stanford's expectations are very high and another trip to the Women's College World Series is not out of the question. "This year we probably have as good a balance and depth as we have ever had," said Rittman, who has chalked up a 430-199-1 record in ten seasons on The Farm. "We still have players who are incredibly versatile and still have the ability to play the short game, have power in the middle of our lineup, as well as speed at the top and bottom of our lineup. Our team can be interchangeable both offensively and defensively, we have a lot of tools and weapons to choose from depending on what players are hot."

With Stanford's versatility, look for the team to use several different lineups during the first half of the season. "That's what makes this team unique. We have only 14 players on the roster but within that 14 players we have a lot of talent and versatility. The competitiveness from within our program is what makes it so successful."

Stanford will open the season with its usual tough pre-conference schedule. The team will compete in the Kajikawa Classic in Tempe, Arizona, the FIU Addidas Invitational in Miami, Florida, and the Worth Classic in Fullerton, California. The Cardinal will also host the Stanford Classic and two Invitational Tournaments. Stanford's schedule will help prepare the Cardinal for the rigors of competing in the toughest collegiate conference in the nation, the Pac-10. "We play one of the toughest schedules in the country and this year is no exception. The level of competition we face prior to conference helps prepare us for playing in the Pac-10, the toughest conference in the country."

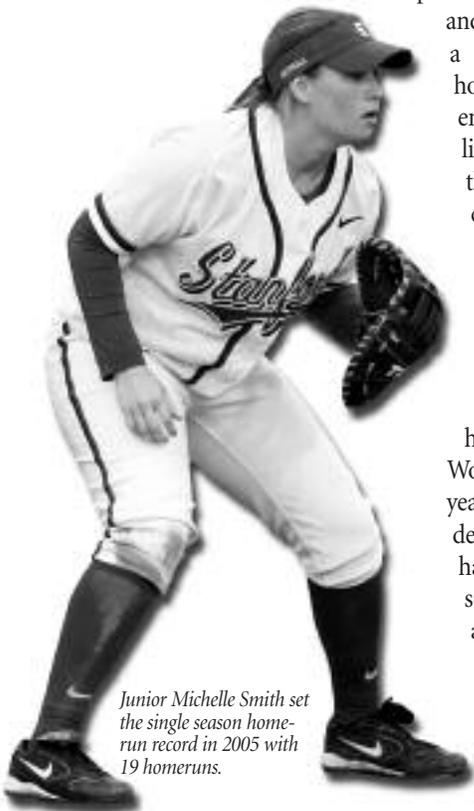

Success is an integral part of the Cardinal softball program. During Rittman's tenure as head coach at Stanford, the Cardinal has been to the post-season nine straight years, and during that time has made two trips to the Women's College World Series. "The loss at Super Regionals last year was very tough on our team, however it will make us stronger this year. All of our returners are very hungry, and have worked extremely hard in the off-season. I see a high level of commitment and focus on this team."

The Cardinal return three players who hit above .317 last season. Maddy Coon and Jackie Rhinehart started all 60 games in 2006 while Tricia Aggabao was a starter in 44 of 49 games. Coon, a sophomore, leads all returning players with a .353 average which was good enough for her to gain second team All Pac-10 honors. In addition to her ability to hit for power and average in the middle of the lineup, Coon will be a stabilizing force either at third base or shortstop. Rhinehart, a senior, has been a starter since she arrived on The Farm in 2004. Rhinehart, who hit .352 last year, has been a consistent performer in the outfield and offensively has a lot of versatility.

Aggabao not only hit for a .317 average last year, but the two-year starter showed outstanding improvement defensively at second base. Her passion for the game of softball makes her one of the team's leaders.

The list of other top returning hitters include Michelle Smith, Anna Beardman, Lindsay Key and Erin Howe. Smith, who set the single season homerun mark in 2005 with 19 homeruns, has played in and started 119 games during her two previous seasons at Stanford. Defense is one of her fortes for a player who has played at first base and third base. Two seasons ago, Smith, now a junior, gained first team All Pac-10 honors and second team All-American accolades with a .322 average. Her ability to hit for power and average make her a dangerous offensive weapon in the middle of the lineup for the Cardinal. Beardman, a junior, started all 60 games last year. Her five triples was just one short of the school record. Beardman underwent arm surgery during the off-season and when healthy, gives the Cardinal great speed and power from both sides of the plate. Key, a senior, has the ability to play several positions including second base, shortstop and even in the outfield. The coaching staff refers to Key as the ultimate team player; someone who will do whatever it takes to make the team better. Howe, a junior, has started 98 of 110 games the past two seasons at first base and behind the plate. Howe gives Stanford a strong bat from the left side of the plate.

The Cardinal pitching staff returns three outstanding players. Missy Penna had a successful year as a freshman, and her enormous talent bodes well for an outstanding season in 2007. Last year, Penna led the team in innings pitched (196.2) and her 179 strikeouts ranked her sixth on the Stanford's single season strikeouts list. Penna won 22 of Stanford's 42 games and her five shutouts and six combined shutouts helped chisel an excellent 2.35 era. Penna can also hit (.280 last year) and play first base. Her ability to be an outstanding pitcher and her ability to drive in runs as a hitter spells success for Stanford this year. Becky McCullough has chalked up a 31-14 record in two seasons at Stanford, good enough to gain All Pac-10 Honorable Mention honors during that time. McCullough has been a stabilizing force in the circle for the Cardinal the past two seasons, and is looking to build on her first two years of success. Lauren Nydam is a two-year veteran who is hoping to return to her freshman season success when she chalked up a 7-2 record with a 1.62 era.

The Stanford coaching staff recruited one of the top freshman classes in the nation, and this year's group of four standouts should make an immediate impact on the Cardinal fortunes in 2007. Heading the list of newcomers will be Alissa Haber and Rosey Neill. Haber and Neill recently returned from the United States Junior National team where they both played an integral part of the team winning the Junior Pan American Games championship in Puerto Rico. Haber can play outfield or first base and will provide the Cardinal with great speed and power. Neill will battle for a starting position at catcher. Her outstanding arm and power offensively will be tough to keep her out of the starting lineup. Shannon Koplitz is a versatile player who can play shortstop, second base and the outfield. Michelle Schroeder has great range in the outfield and possesses a strong offensive game.

"We have proven players who are returning in addition to an excellent pitching staff and an outstanding freshmen class who will create a lot of energy and excitement," said Rittman. "The last two years we have made it to the Super Regionals. We're ready to knock down the door, get back to the College World Series, and put ourselves in a position to win a national championship. That's our ultimate goal."

John Rittman

Head Coach
Eleventh Season

John Rittman begins his eleventh season at the helm of the Stanford women's softball program after being named head coach on July 12, 1996. During that time, Rittman has brought the Stanford softball program from a non-scholarship club-level program to a fully-funded championship contender.

Under Rittman, the Cardinal have recorded ten consecutive 40-win seasons and 2006 marked their tenth-straight postseason appearance. Rittman has accumulated a 430-199-1 overall mark. In 2006, Stanford chalked up a 42-18 record and a trip to the NCAA Super Regionals.

In 2006, Rittman served as an assistant coach on the United States National team that won the World Championships in Beijing, China. Rittman also served on the U.S. team that won the World Cup in Oklahoma City and the Japan Cup in Yokohama. One of the team's top members was former Stanford All-American Jessica Mendoza.

Rittman coached the Cardinal to Stanford's first-ever Co-Pac-10 Championship in 2005. Stanford ended the season 43-16, 13-8 in the Pac-10, a trip to the NCAA Super Regionals, and ranked 10th nationally. Catalina Morris and Michelle Smith were honored as NFCA Second Team All-Americans, while Lauren Lappin was named to the NFCA Third Team. Lappin was named Pac-10 Defensive Player of the Year in the award's first year of existence.

Rittman coached the USA Elite Team that won the 2005 Intercontinental Cup in Madrid, Spain. Former Stanford players Catalina Morris and Lauren Lappin were members of Rittman's USA Elite Team, as well as former Cardinal great Dana Sorensen.

The 2004 campaign saw the Cardinal's return to the Women's College World Series and a 49-19 overall record. Stanford tied for third at the CWS in their second trip to Oklahoma City, Okla. The 2004 squad ended the season ranked fourth nationally and posted their best Pac-10 finish in the program's history, tying for second. Senior Dana Sorensen was honored as a first-team All-American while senior Jessica Allister and sophomore Lauren Lappin were second-team All-America selections. For his efforts, Rittman was tabbed Pac-10 Coach of the Year for the second time in his career.

Rittman served as the assistant coach for the 2004 USA Olympic Team that won a gold medal in Athens, Greece. He was also a part of the '03 team that won a gold medal at the Pan American Games in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic as well as a gold at the the U.S. Cup. Rittman was also the assistant coach for the 2002 USA National Softball Team won the 2002 US Cup, Canada Cup, Japan Cup and the World Championships. In 2001 Rittman coached the USA Red Team that won the gold medal at the US Cup and also competed in the Canada Cup and USA Softball Shootout.

In 2003, Rittman's team posted a 41-26 record and a sixth consecutive berth in the NCAA Regional Championships. Catalina Morris was named a Third-Team All-American by the National Fastpitch Coaches Association.

Rittman's 2002 squad finished 44-20 overall and earned a sixth-place finish in the Pac-10 Conference. On May 3, 2002, Rittman picked up his 250th career victory in Stanford's 9-1 win over Arizona State. Stanford also achieved the highest ranking in program history, a No. 2 standing in the NFCA/USA Today Poll. The 2002 team produced two All-Americans in Jessica Mendoza and Sarah Beeson. Mendoza made history becoming the program's first four-time First-Team All-American.

The 2001 season was the most impressive campaign during Rittman's tenure, as the Cardinal finished with its best single-season overall record at 54-16-1. After going 4-1 on its way to winning the NCAA Regional championship on its home field, the Cardinal made its first appearance in the College World Series and finished with a 2-2 mark. The Cardinal outscored its opponents 290-104 on the year and posted a school record 33 shutouts in 71 games. Rittman was named Pac-10 co-Coach of the Year, while three Stanford athletes were awarded First Team All-America status (Sarah Beeson, Jessica Mendoza, Dana Sorensen)- the first time Stanford has had multiple first-team selections in the same year.

In 2000, the Cardinal went 45-18 overall and earned a third-straight berth in the NCAA tournament. Despite the fact that the Cardinal had never been nationally ranked prior to the 1998 season, Stanford spent every week of 2000 in the top 25, and set a single-season record with its 45 victories. Sophomore Jessica Mendoza was selected as the Pac-10 Player of the Year selection 2000. Mendoza also made history by becoming the first back-to-back first-team All-Pac-10 selection.

In 1999, the Cardinal went 40-25 overall and earned its second-straight trip to the NCAA tournament. Rittman's teams broke 34 individual and team school records. Among them were the first three perfect games in school history, the first-ever win over Arizona, and the program's initial first-team All-American, Jessica Mendoza.

In 1998, Rittman presided over Stanford softball's coming-out party. The Cardinal posted a 41-18 record and earned the program's first NCAA appearance, where the squad advanced to the regional championship game. Stanford finished third in the Pac-10, while consistently appearing in the Top-25 of the NFCA Coaches Poll, where it finished ranked 12th in country. Three Cardinal players were named third-team All-Americans, becoming the first All-Americans in school history. Numerous others earned all-region, all-Pac-10 and all-tournament honors. For his efforts, Rittman was named the 1998 NCAA Pacific Region Coach of the Year.

In his first season at Stanford, Rittman led Stanford to its first-ever 30-win season, posting a 30-27-1 record. Although Stanford fell just short of earning an NCAA berth, the Cardinal received postseason consideration following a solid performance down the stretch. Over the course of the 1997 season, Rittman's squad recorded nine wins over ranked opponents, including four over teams ranked in the Top 10. Stanford defeated conference and national powerhouses UCLA and Washington for the first time in school history. The Cardinal also defeated two ranked squads en route to a second-place finish at the Campbell/Cartier Softball Classic. Two of Rittman's players earned Pac-10 All-Conference recognition, while two individuals were named to the All-Pacific Region team.

Prior to being named head coach at Stanford, Rittman spent four seasons as the assistant coach at Washington. With the Huskies, he was responsible for teaching the fundamentals of hitting as well as defensive play. In just four seasons, the Husky team earned a No. 1 national ranking, the 1996 Pac-10 Championship, Title, three NCAA Tournament appearances and a second-place finish in its first College World Series appearance. Washington became the first team since Texas A&M (1983) to advance to the championship game in its first appearance at the CWS.

Prior to his appointment at Washington, Rittman spent two seasons as an assistant at Minnesota. During his second year, the Gophers won the Big Ten Conference with a 20-4 league record. The team batting average jumped from .235 to .269 and the Gophers set team and individual records in almost every offensive category. The Minnesota squad also led the nation in hits and total bases en route to a No. 15 ranking. Rittman also helped produce two All-Americans.

Rittman had a three-year stay as assistant coach at Oregon from 1988-90. While with Oregon, the Ducks played in the 1989 College World Series. During Rittman's stay, the Ducks set several team and individual offensive records while Rittman again saw one of his pupils earn All-America recognition.

Rittman graduated from New Mexico State with a degree in journalism in 1986. He was a three-year letterwinner in baseball as an outfielder at NMSU after transferring from Yavapai Junior College in Prescott, Ariz. Rittman played two years of semi-pro baseball and fast-pitch softball after his collegiate career.

Rittman and his wife Lorie, a former softball player at Oklahoma, are the parents of Justin Riley (11), and Jacob Dean (7).

Trisha Ford

Assistant Coach

Trisha Ford begins her fourth year as an assistant softball coach for the Stanford University softball program. The past two years, Trisha has helped Stanford to consecutive Super Regional berths. In 2004, she helped the Cardinal return to the Women's College World Series where they tied for third.

Prior to coming to The Farm, Ford spent two seasons as head softball coach at Saint Mary's College in Moraga. Ford's squad finished the 2003 campaign with 25-27 record and a .481 winning percentage, which is the highest in school history. In 2007, she will be inducted into the St. Mary's Hall of Fame.

"Trisha is an outstanding coach and does a tremendous job working with our pitching staff and defense," noted head coach John Rittman. "She brings a lot of enthusiasm and energy to our coaching staff and has an amazing work ethic. We're proud to have someone of her caliber working with our program."

Prior to being named the head coach, Ford served as an assistant at Saint Mary's from 1999-2000 and worked with pitchers and infielders.

Ford was one of the best softball players ever at Saint Mary's, and is the only female athlete in school history to have had her number (9) retired. The 1999 graduate still holds career records in batting average (.364), hits (230), and doubles (62). In 1998 alone, Ford led the nation with 25 doubles and set a new school single season batting average record (.435).

Ford, who graduated from SMC with a degree in politics, is a native of Fremont, California. Formerly Trisha Dean, she married Eddie Ford on July 10, 2005.

Jessica Allister

Assistant Coach

Former Cardinal All-American Jessica Allister begins her first year as an assistant coach. She will work primarily with the catchers, while also serving as the first base coach and assisting with all other aspects of the program.

Allister joins the Cardinal program after spending the past two seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Georgia.

"We are very excited to have Jessica on our staff," said Rittman. "She has experienced softball at the highest level. Her knowledge and enthusiasm for the game will be a tremendous asset to the program."

Allister is a 2004 graduate of Stanford University with a degree in Economics. A four-year starter behind the plate for the Cardinal, Allister earned All-America and All-Pac-10 honors after helping lead Stanford to a Women's College World Series appearance as a senior. She finished the season with a team-high 12 home runs, 55 RBI, a .631 slugging percentage and a .404 on-base percentage. Allister also led the Pac-10 conference in fielding percentage at the catcher position in both her junior and senior campaigns after posting only three errors. Allister was also a member of the 2001 Stanford squad that earned the school's first appearance in the Women's College World Series. She concluded her career at Stanford as the school's second in career home runs (32) and third in RBIs (162).

A native of Nacogdoches, Texas, Allister was a two-time All-American at Nacogdoches High School. She has played professionally as a member of the New England Riptide of the National Pro Fastpitch League in 2004 and 2005.

Mick Myrback

Volunteer Assistant Coach

Mick Myrback returns for his third season as a volunteer assistant coach for the Stanford Softball Team.

Prior to joining the Cardinal softball program, Myrback spent four years as the top assistant at Santa Clara University where he helped lead the squad to two conference championships, establishing school records for most wins (30) in program history two years in a row. While at Santa Clara, Myrback helped solidify the defense of the team while coaching both the infielders and outfielders.

Myrback was also an assistant coach at Presentation High School for three seasons, helping guide the team to a second place finish in the Central Coast Section Division II finals. Myrback has coached several ASA softball teams from U-12 through U-18, developing fundamental softball skills in young players.

Myrback graduated from UC Davis in 1975 with a degree in Biological Sciences and currently performs research for several pharmaceutical companies. His wife Nancy works at the Career Center at Santa Clara University. Myrback's daughter, Lindsay, a graduate from Santa Clara University, now works at the Lucile Packard Foundation while his son, Scott, is a senior at CSU Chico.

Stanford Softball Home Run Club

The HRC is growing in size every year and is a huge part of our softball program. We appreciate any donation you may send. This important group of people provides the softball team with financial support.

Once you have donated to the HRC, as a member you will receive four issues of the HRC newsletter. This newsletter includes statistical information along with game by game highlights of tournaments and games. You will be invited to the annual HRC barbeque and other special events.

For information about becoming a member, please call (650) 725-2631.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDING

Stanford's Scholarship Funding

Two sources provide scholarship funds for Stanford's student athletes: the Athletic Department's scholarship endowment and the Buck/Cardinal Club.

The Buck/Cardinal Club

Nearly $3 million is raised annually in scholarship funds through the gift of the Club's 6,000 members. Over 250 volunteers assist the Athletic Department in its annual fund raising efforts.

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are large sums of money that have been invested in the University's endowment and generate significant interest income each year. A portion of the income is spent on student aid and the remainder is reinvested in the principle.

The following scholarships, named for the donor or for someone the donor wishes to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 2007 women's softball team:

- The Ann T. and Robert M. Bass Family Scholarship
- The Judy and Bill Dailey Scholarship
- The John C. and Laura Grant Gamble Athletic Scholarship
- The John and Marian Gilbert Family Scholarship
- The Rachford and Carlota A. Harris Scholarship
- The W. Ruel and Jane Johnson Scholarship
- The Sara and Bill Kimball Endowed Athletic Scholarship
- The Monica Kitterman Shockro Scholarship
- The Roger M. Laverty Jr. Scholarship II
- The Clarke and Elizabeth Nelson Scholarship
- The Ralph "Jim" Reynolds Memorial Scholarship
- The Diane and Karl Wustrack Athletic Scholarship

Stanford Softball thanks our key sponsors!

Jimmy V's Sports Cafe

Marcy Crouch Class of 1999

I feel very fortunate to have represented Stanford University as a softball student-athlete. I remember when I was in high school and the word started to spread that Stanford was going to fully fund their softball program; I knew this was the place for me.

My experience as a student-athlete lived up to my expectations. My teammates are still my closest friends, and I loved that the Stanford culture promoted athletics along with academics. Even more exciting was that my teammates and I were an integral part of the growth of the Stanford softball program. My freshman year we were below .500, but the next three years we finished above .500 every year, made two Regional appearances, and were ranked nationally in the top 10. I am proud to have been a part of that growth, and look forward to supporting the team for years to come.

My Stanford experience also prepared me well to enter the workforce. After graduating in 1999, I was named the head softball coach at Santa Clara University. After a successful 5-year run, and with an MBA under my belt, I headed out to explore. I spent one year in Boston, coaching at Boston University and earning another masters, this time in counseling. I am now back on The Farm, working as a Leland Intern in the Athletic Department. I still walk around the campus admiring the beauty of this place, and reminiscing about the glory days as a student-athlete. I am proud of this University, of its ability to think outside of the box and to foster some of the greatest student-athletes in the world. It truly is a special place. Go Cardinal!

Lauren Lappin Class of 2006

When I decided to sign a letter of intent to Stanford University I knew that I was making the right decision, but I had no idea that it would impact my life as it has. At the risk of stating the obvious, I cannot speak of the Stanford experience without mentioning the combination of world class academics and an athletic department whose success is unmatched. While I was aware that this institution possessed these qualities when I first came to the farm, my four years as a Stanford student-athlete was more than I could have ever anticipated. There is a humble pride that exists within the professors, students, coaches and athletes. This pride permeates the campus and cannot be resisted as you walk through the quad, sit down for lecture, hang out in your dorm room or step onto the playing field. My journey as a Stanford student has been the most enriching experience of my life. Each person on this campus comes with their own story and passion, all of which have inspired me to continue to appreciate my past and always invest in the future. Furthermore, being a member of the Stanford Softball program provided me with a family away from home. I could not have chosen a better group of people to be surrounded by for four years. I learned so much from every one of my coaches and teammates and will be forever thankful for the player and person they have helped me become and the lasting memories and friendships that being a Stanford softball player has provided me with. Our teams were able to achieve many successes on the field but, what I am most proud of is to be associated with Stanford Softball players and coaches of the past, present and future.

Jessica Mendoza Class of 2002

Attending Stanford University was truly the most influential experience of my life. I stepped onto Stanford's campus for the first time unsure of who I was or what I wanted to do. The only thing I was sure about was that I played softball.

One of the first things Stanford provided me was realizing how many different aspects of life and opportunities there were in the world. I was able to learn so much on the field from my coaches and teammates, but was also able to learn much more from the most remarkable professors in the world and some of the most unique students I did and ever will meet.

There are very few institutions you can walk away from feeling that you were influenced by so many different aspects of life: coaches, teammates, athletics, astounding classes, and so many amazing experiences that have influenced me into the person I am today.

Dana Sorensen Class of 2004

For me playing for Stanford was more than anything I could imagine. From the moment I stepped on campus I had a family, a group of people I could count on and who could count on me. It didn't take long to realize that Stanford is a truly unique place; in my five years on the farm I not only grew as an athlete and student but a person as well. I quickly learned my freshman year that I was surrounded by greatness, not just amazing athletes, but amazing students, coaches, and professors.

There is a mystique about Stanford, something that just can't be replicated by anyone else, the more time I spend away from here, the more compelled I am to return. Stanford isn't just about the superior academics, or the unparalleled athletics, but rather the whole package. It's about the people you meet, the relationships you develop, and the experiences you have. I have left Stanford having established life long friendships, and take with me more memories than I will ever realize.

My time on the softball team was nothing short of amazing. I was lucky enough to be a part of the first Stanford Softball team to make the trip to Oklahoma for the Women's College World Series. For myself, and my teammates, there was no single great achievement than knocking down that door for the first time. I know that there were so many great players along the way that helped get Stanford Softball to where it is now, and they were just as much a part of our success in the past as they are in the future.

As I keep up with the current softball teams, and watch them continue the legacy that only just begun, I am proud to know that there will be many more Pac 10 titles, World Series trips, and some day soon a national championship.

BOYD AND JILL SMITH FAMILY STADIUM

The Stanford women's softball team plays its home games at the Boyd and Jill Smith Family Stadium, located just south of Sunken Diamond (baseball stadium). Phase One of the construction was completed prior to the 1997 season while Phase Two, completed in the spring of 2001, included permanent seating, restroom facilities, a new batting cage, and a press box.

The stadium has a fixed seating capacity of 820. The facility has a capacity of 1,500 and is scaleable to 3,500. The stadium has fixed, theater-style seating with individual seats. Wheelchair seating is located throughout the facility. Gates open one hour prior to the first pitch.

The field surface is a Bermuda Rye Blend, mowed to one inch.

Head coach John Rittman represented the United States at the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece.

Jackie Rinehart competed on the USA Schutt Elite Team,

Lauren Lappin was named to the 2006 National Training Team.

Dana Sorensen was named to the 2005 Women's Elite Team.

Current and former Cardinal softball greats have enjoyed a consistent presence on USA National Teams. One of the more heralded members of the USA team is former Cardinal Jessica Mendoza, a 2002 Stanford graduate.

During the summer of 2006, Mendoza started in leftfield for Team USA and Stanford head coach John Rittman served as an Assistant Coach on the team that won the World Championships in Beijing, China. The USA team also won the gold medal at the World Cup in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and the Japan Cup in Yokohama. The United States Olympic Committee honored Mendoza as its July Athlete of the Month.

Also during the summer of 2006, former Cardinal standout Lauren Lappin and current Stanford player Jackie Rinehart helped the United States to the World University Games gold medal in Taiwan. Lappin and Mendoza have both been selected to the 2007 National Training Team.

Freshmen Alissa Haber and Rosey Neill were members of the 2006 United States Junior Team that won the Junior Pan American Qualifier in Puerto Rico. The two will also represent Team USA at the Junior World Championships in Poland this summer.

During the summer of 2005, Mendoza played with the USA National Team and Cardinal head coach John Rittman was selected as an assistant coach for the National team. That summer former Stanford players Dana Sorensen, Lauren Lappin and Catalina Morris were named to the USA Women's Elite Team. That team went on to win the Intercontinental Cup in Madrid, Spain. Rittman also served as a coach on that team.

Mendoza, a four-time Stanford All-American, and Rittman represented the United States at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece, bringing home the gold medal. Lappin served as an alternate on the squad. During the summer of 2004, Morris and Rinehart competed on the USA Elite Team that participated in the Canada Cup and Champion's Cup. That fall, Morris was selected to the USA Elite Team that won gold at the first annual World University Games in Florida.

Mendoza and Rittman were members of the USA National Team that won the gold medal at the 2003 Pan American Games in the Dominican Republic. Lappin led the USA Elite Team to the gold medal at the 2003 Canada Cup and a sweep of Olympic bronze medalist Australia in the Pacific Challenge. She was also part of the Junior Olympic National Team. Mendoza and Rittman were also on the team that won the 2002 U.S. Cup, Canada Cup, Japan Cup and the World Championships in Saskatchewan, Canada. Former All-American Sarah Beeson was a member of the 2002 USA Elite Team that finished second at the Canada Cup.

In 2001, Mendoza and Rittman were selected by USA Softball as a part of 32 elite athletes and six coaches who participated on two separate National teams during the summer. Mendoza was selected to the USA Red team as a player, and Rittman joined the team as one of three coaches.

Stanford's four-time All-American outfielder Jessica Mendoza helped the United States bring home a gold medal from the 2004 Summer Olympics in Athens, Greece.

Catalina Morris was named to the 2005 Women's Elite Team.

Kellie Wiginton was a member of the 1995 Junior World Team.

Rosey Neill (LR) and Allisa Haber were members of the 2006 U.S. Junior National team.

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Stanford University The University at a Glance

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is an hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few miles north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, sports facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Paris, Kyoto, Santiago, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, and Moscow.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers approximately 1,700 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. It includes 16 Nobel laureates, 4 Pulitzer Prize winners, 21 National Medal of Science winners, 132 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 223 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 80 members of the National Academy of Engineering, and 23 members of the National Academy of Education. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Eighty-four Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 66 have been named Marshall Scholars, and 48 have been named Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 35 Division I varsity sports – equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 104 national team titles, 52 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games, 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney – by far the most of any university in the nation – and 42 Stanford athletes competed at the 2004 Games in Athens. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care." Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day. . . . At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research."

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

Stanford Athletics Home of Champions

“Home of Champions.” Those are the bywords for the Stanford University Athletic Department.

And for good reason. No athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished since the 1980’s. NCAA team champions. NCAA individual champions. Olympic medalists. Stanford University athletes have been all over the world capturing championships.

The statistics speak for themselves: Stanford University has won 75 NCAA team championships since 1980, the most in the nation; Cardinal athletes have won 52 NCAA championships since 1990 – again the most in the nation. Stanford has brought home 31 NCAA championship trophies the past eight years, including an unprecedented six NCAA team titles in 1996-97. In 1991-92, Stanford athletes took home 29 individual NCAA titles – an NCAA record. Cardinal athletes won 21 individual championships during the 1992-93 season, the second most in history.

Even more impressive is Stanford’s string of 12 consecutive Directors’ Cup titles (1995-2006). The award honors the nation’s top overall athletic program and with 12 straight victories in the competition, it is no wonder Stanford is considered the dominant athletic program in the nation.

Stanford captured its 12th straight Directors’ Cup in 2005-06. The Cardinal won a total of three national team crowns (two NCAA) in synchronized swimming (U.S. Collegiate), women’s tennis and women’s cross country. Stanford had a total of 20 Top 10 finishes with men’s water polo, women’s basketball, men’s swimming, women’s swimming, men’s gymnastics, women’s indoor track, men’s crew, women’s sailing, men’s tennis and women’s water polo joining the national champions in the Top Five. The Cardinal also picked up six individual national titles (two NCAA) and 13 team conference championships.

Stanford has now won at least one NCAA team championship for 30 straight years. Cardinal teams have also won four or more NCAA team titles in a single year nine times, an NCAA best.

All totaled, Stanford has won 104 collegiate team titles (92 NCAA championships) and 395 NCAA individual titles. Cardinal women have won an NCAA-best 35 team championships while men’s teams have captured 57 NCAA team titles, third-best in the nation. Overall, Stanford’s 92 NCAA team championships rank second in the nation.

In the last 10 years (since 1996-97), Stanford has claimed 33 national team championships and 29 NCAA team titles – the best in the country.

The best athletic year in school history arguably came in 1996-97 when Cardinal teams set an NCAA record by winning six NCAA team championships in a single academic year: men’s and women’s cross country; men’s and women’s volleyball; and

The Stanford women’s tennis team has captured five of the past six NCAA titles.

No other athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished.

Tiger Woods is one of the PGA’s most successful golfers with victories in all four Major events.

men's and women's tennis. Nine other teams finished in the Top Four nationally, including second-place finishes in women's swimming, men's swimming, men's water polo and women's synchronized swimming. Stanford also posted third-place finishes in women's basketball, baseball and fencing, as well as fourth place finishes in women's golf and women's water polo. In addition, the Stanford co-ed sailing team added a ICYRA national championship.

The 1996-97 school year also saw the Cardinal football team advance to the Sun Bowl, the women's basketball team return to the Final Four, the baseball team qualify for the College World Series and the men's basketball team advance to the Sweet Sixteen of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since it won the 1942 NCAA title.

Not only has the Cardinal won an NCAA record six NCAA team championships in a single season (1996-97), but it has also won five NCAA titles in a single year on three occasions: 1991-92, '94-95 and '97-98. Cardinal teams have won four championships in a single academic year on five occasions: 1985-86, '86-87, '92-93, '93-94 and 2001-02.

Stanford has won 186 conference or regional titles since 1991, again the best in the country. Cardinal teams won a record 18 conference or regional championships in 1998-99 – by far the best performance of any school in the nation.

The Stanford women's basketball team has been a consistent top finisher in the Pac-10, advancing well into the NCAA tournament for years.

Another memorable moment came in 1999-2000 when the Cardinal football, men's basketball and baseball teams won at least a share of their respective Pac-10 titles for the first time in school history.

Stanford has simply dominated in several sports. The Cardinal men's tennis team has won 17 NCAA titles while the women's squad has hauled in 16 national titles. Other programs to have brought in at least five national titles include men's water polo (11), women's swimming (9), men's swimming (8), men's golf (7) and women's volleyball (6).

Stanford has also enjoyed unequalled success in Olympic competition. Stanford was represented by 43 affiliates at the most recent Olympic Games that took place in 2004 in Athens, Greece. The Cardinal totaled 17 medals (three gold, seven silver, seven bronze).

At the 2000 Summer Games in Sydney, Australia, Stanford was represented by a total of 34 athletes and coaches. The Cardinal contingent won a total of 10 medals – four gold, three silver and three bronze.

At the 1996 Games in Atlanta, Stanford placed 49 coaches and athletes on Olympic teams, including three head United States Olympic coaches (Tara VanDerveer, women's basketball; Richard Stanford's women's cross country team has won two of the past three NCAA titles.

Quick, women's swimming; Skip Kenney, men's swimming). Stanford athletes accounted for 16 gold medals, one silver and one bronze in Atlanta.

At the 1992 Games in Barcelona, Cardinal athletes earned 19 medals – 10 gold, four silver and five bronze. If Stanford were a country, it would've placed 13th in the world with its 19 medals and ninth with 10 golds. Thirty-eight Stanford-affiliated athletes and coaches participated in Barcelona while 41 members of the Cardinal family took part in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea.

Olympic gold medalists are numerous on The Farm. Former Cardinal standout Bob Mathias won back-to-back Olympic decathlon gold medals in 1948 and '52, while swimmers Pablo Morales, Jenny Thompson, Summer Sanders, Janet Evans and Misty Hyman have become household names in the swimming world.

Morales, who helped Stanford win three straight NCAA team championships (1985-87), won three medals at the 1984 Games in Los Angeles (one gold, two silver) and two more gold medals at the 1992 Games in Barcelona. Evans won three golds in the 1988 Games in Seoul, and one gold and one silver in Barcelona, while Sanders won four medals in Barcelona; two gold, one silver and one bronze. Thompson is the most decorated athlete in Olympic history with 12 medals (eight gold, three silver, one bronze).

Hyman added her name to the list of Stanford swimming greats by winning the 2000 Olympic gold medal in the 200 meter butterfly to pull off one of the biggest upsets of the Sydney Olympiad.

A list of the great student-athletes in the history of Stanford Athletics would be difficult to even come close to compiling but a few of the great names in the amazing history of Stanford Athletics include Tom Watson and Tiger Woods (golf); Tim Mayotte, John McEnroe and Roscoe Tanner (men's tennis); Keri Walsh, Ogonna Nnamani, Kim Oden and Logan Tom (women's volleyball); Kristin Folk (women's basketball/volleyball); Jack McDowell and Mike Mussina (baseball); Julie Foudy (women's soccer); Hank Luisetti, Brevin Knight and Mark Madsen (men's basketball); Jennifer Azzi, Nicole Powell and Kate Starbird (women's basketball); Tony Azevedo (men's water polo); Jim Plunkett, John Elway and Troy Walters (football); Debi Thomas (figure skating); Eric Heiden (speed skating) and the great Ernie Nevers (football); just to name a few.

It's no wonder Stanford University is often referred to as the "NCAA's Champion of Champions."

Stanford's National Titles

Home of Champions

The Stanford women's tennis team has won a record 15 out of 25 possible NCAA titles since 1982.

NCAA championships are commonplace at Stanford University. Cardinal teams have won NCAA championships at an unprecedented rate, including a national-best 75 since 1980 and 52 titles since 1990. Stanford has won at least one NCAA team championship for 30 consecutive years and has won at least four national titles in a single season nine times – again an NCAA best.

Stanford has won 18 national titles in men's tennis, 16 in women's tennis, 11 in men's water polo, nine in women's swimming, eight in men's swimming and seven in men's golf, among others. Nineteen Cardinal teams have won national championships.

Stanford Athletics has won 104 national championships. In NCAA competition, Cardinal teams have won 92 team titles, including 57 men's championships and an NCAA-best 35 women's titles.

STANFORD SOFTBALL

Stanford University's 8,800 acre campus boasts state-of-the-art facilities set with breathtaking beauty in the nation's most desirable location.

Stanford Athletics is regarded as the finest collegiate program in the country - capturing the Directors' Cup during each of the last 12 years.
