Lehigh, Princeton and Massachusetts at the Amherst Regional last week. There, the Cardinal succeeded in winning its fifth regional title, defeating UMass, 6-0, in a rainy championship game on Sunday, behind a no-hitter by pitching ace Missy Penna. Stanford went 3-1 at the regional and shut out opponents in all three of its wins.

POSTSEASON FACTS: Stanford will playing in an NCAA Super Regional for the third time in the four years since the tournament was structured to include them. The Cardinal is participating in the NCAA Tournament for the 11th consecutive time, dating back to 1998 when the program made its first-ever postseason appearance under second-year head coach John Rittman. Stanford has won five regional titles, and made appearances in the Women's College World Series in 2001 and 2004. The Cardinal holds a 28-24 all-time record in NCAA Tournament games, yet is 0-4 so far in Super Regionals.

TOUGH COMPETITION: Stanford played 31 games against the 2008 NCAA Tournament field during the regular-season, and won 19 of those. All 12 of Stanford's losses were to teams that made the field, all 12 were to ranked teams and nine of the 12 were to teams that earned a top-eight seed. Stanford is 4-10 against the other 15 teams remaining in the tournament.

WHAT'S NEXT: The eight Super Regional winners will earn a spot in the 2008 Women's College World Series at ASA Hall of Fame Stadium in Oklahoma City, May 29 through Jun. 4. Stanford is looking to make it to the WCWS for the third time in school history.

TRAVEL WEARY: Stanford traveled more than 3,000 miles to reach the Amherst Regional last week, further than any team in the tournament. Stanford is the only Super Regional team that has had to travel more than 400 miles to both of its NCAA Tournament destinations so far. Combined, Stanford will travel nearly 10,000 round-trip miles to its two sites, at least 4,000 miles more than every other Super Regional team. The Cardinal, which has been on the road since Apr. 27, could make three separate postseason road trips for the first time in school history this year.

PAC-10 RUNDOWN: Stanford (11-10) finished fourth in the Pac-10 this season, its highest finish since capturing a share of the conference title in 2005. Stanford also finished above .500 in the conference for the first time since that 2005 season. Arizona State claimed its first Pac-10 title with an 18-3 record, while UCLA took the runner-up spot at 17-4. Seven of the eight Pac-10 teams were chosen to participate in the NCAA Tournament, the tenth consecutive year that the league has sent at least seven of its teams to the postseason. Five of those teams are still alive in Super Regionals, the most of any conference. The Pac-10 has claimed 19 of the 26 all-time NCAA softball titles, and landed a team in the national title game 24 times.

FORCE BEHIND THE PLATE: Stanford's Rosey Neill was named the Pac-10 Co-Defensive Player of the Year last week, the third Stanford player in four years to earn the award. Neill leads the league with 505 putouts this season, is among the league's best with a .994 fielding percentage and is third in the conference with 11 runners caught stealing.

REGIONAL ALL-STARS: Stanford had four players earn All-Pacific Region honors last week. With spots on the first team, Maddy Coon, Rosey Neill and Alissa Haber were deemed the best in the region at their respective positions, while Missy Penna was named one of the four best pitchers in the region with a second-team honor. Accounting for a quarter of the 12-player field, Stanford's three first-team picks were second only to Pac-10 Champion Arizona State's five selections and matched the most in school history, a feat also accomplished in 1999 and 2001.

PAC-10 PICKS: Eight Cardinal players were honored when the Pac-10 announced its annual awards last week. Alissa Haber, Missy Penna and Rosey Neill were named to the All-Pac-10 First Team, while Maddy Coon earned a spot on the second team. Seniors Erin Howe, Tricia Aggabao and Michelle Smith earned honorable mention, and Smith became the 11th player in school history to earn conference honors all four years. Freshman Melisa Koutz was named to the 14-player Pac-10 All-Freshman Team in its inaugural year.

RECORD NUMBER OF HOMERS: Sophomore catcher Rosey Neill belted her 19th homerun of the year on Sunday, tying teammate Michelle Smith's school record from 2005. With one more bomb this weekend, she could have that record all to herself. Neill, who leads the Pac-10 in the category, homered at least once in each of the first nine weekends of 2008. Thanks in part to all of those bombs, she owns one of the nation's best slugging percentages (.732).

NO-HITTER CHATTER: Junior Missy Penna threw her fourth career no-hitter, and second of the season, in Stanford's win over Massachusetts in the regional title game. Penna also threw a no-hitter against San Diego in the season-opener to earn USA Softball's National Player of the Week award. Penna was the fifth Stanford player to earn a national weekly honor, joining Lauren Lappin, Dana Sorensen, Jessica Mendoza and Sarah Beeson. Her four career no-hitters are second only to Sorensen in the Stanford record books.

AMONG THE PAC-10'S ELITE: Junior pitcher Missy Penna nabbed her 400th strikeout of the year against UMass last Sunday, and now has 411 on the year. Penna is just the eighth pitcher in Pac-10 history, and the first at Stanford, to register 400 or more K's in a single season.

800 IN THE BOOKS, 900 ON THE HORIZON: Missy Penna struck out the 800th batter of her career against Washington on Apr. 25, and now is just two K's away from 900. Penna would become just the second pitcher in school history to reach the 900-K milestone (three-time All-American Dana Sorensen was the other). The Stanford ace has reached double-figures 20 times this season, including her remarkable 17-K game against Arizona State on May 8. With a school-record and Pac-10-high 327.2 innings under her belt this year, Penna owns a 1.00 ERA, averages 8.8 strikeouts per game and carries a .156 opposing average.

THE RECORDS ARE FALLING!: Junior pitcher Missy Penna took down three Stanford pitching records on May 8 as the Cardinal upended No. 2/2 Arizona State. Record #1: Penna began the memorable night by shattering Dana Sorensen's single-season strikeout record (358) in the fourth inning. She now has a school-record 411 K's this season, and is the first Stanford player to hit 400. Record #2: Penna struck out a school-record 17 batters against the Pac-10's best offensive team. Prior to that performance, Penna and Sorensen held the record with one 16-K game apiece. Record #3: Penna's final strikeout of the night sealed her 34th win of the year, matching Sorensen's school record for single-season wins.

LOTS OF W'S: Missy Penna, the Pac-10's leader in wins and the third-winningest pitcher in the nation, continues to rack up the W's. After pitching four more complete games last weekend, Penna now has 84 career victories, second only to Dana Sorensen (105) on the program's career list. She also holds a school record with 37 victories this season alone. Penna has pitched more innings this year than anyone in the Pac-10.

KOPLITZ ON FIRE: Sophomore Shannon Koplitz hit better than she has all season at the Amherst Regional. The sophomore went 6-for-12 with a team-high three RBI, and came up with clutch hit after clutch hit. Koplitz hit in every single game, and was responsible for two hits that proved instrumental in the team's win over UMass on Saturday. Three of the sophomore's six multi-hit games have come in the month of May, and she is on a team-high five-game hitting streak.

QUICK STRIKE: All four of Stanford's NCAA Regional games were decided in the first inning last week, not uncommon for the early-striking Cardinal. Stanford has scored in the first inning 24 times this year, and is 22-2 when scoring in the opening inning. The Cardinal has scored 62 runs in the first frame this year, more than in any other stage of the game. Stanford is 36-2 when scoring before its opponent.

WHOLE LOTTA HITS FOR HABER: Sophomore Alissa Haber added five hits to her season total last weekend and now has 76 this year. Haber is one of three Pac-10 players with 70 or more hits this season, and could join Jackie Rinehart and Jessica Mendoza this weekend as the only players in school history record an 80-hit season.

WALKING TO VICTORY: The 2008 team has already established itself as by far the most patient in school history. The squad has walked a school-record 243 times, 45 more than the previous school best. Junior Maddy Coon has walked a school-record 47 times this year, and Erin Howe's 37 walks are second only to Coon's current total in the single-season record books. Three Stanford players (Howe, Coon and Alissa Haber) rank among the conference's top-10 in walks.

RUNNIN' AROUND: Three Stanford players - Tricia Aggabao, Maddy Coon and Alissa Haber - have all scored more than 40 times this season. Coon and Haber are already among the school's single-season top-10 in the category, while Aggabao is three runs away from joining them. Haber, the leader of the group, needs to score just twice more to become the fifth player in school history to score 50 or more runs in a season.

HOWE STEPS IT UP: Senior Erin Howe has stepped up her game at the right time of the season. The squad's designated player hit .283 in Pac-10 games, second best on the team, and was the only Stanford player to keep up her overall season average during the toughest part of the year. Howe went 4-for-12 (.333) in last week's NCAA Regional.

ALREADY AT 40, LOOKING FOR 50: Stanford won its 40th game of the year on Apr. 19, clinching the program's tenth 40-win season under Head Coach John Rittman. Notably, the Cardinal hit No. 40 before the month of May for just the second time in school history. The 2001 WCWS team that won a school-record 54 games was the only other Stanford team to do so. This weekend, Stanford could join that 2001 team as the only Stanford squads to hit 50 wins.

SOLID AVERAGE: With a .378 batting average this season, sophomore Alissa Haber is currently keeping a up clip that ranks among the school's single-season top-10. Haber's career average to date (.372) is second only to Olympic gold medalist Jessica Mendoza (.416).

BRINGING 'EM AROUND: While all of the focus is on her homerun total, sophomore Rosey Neill is also posting impressive numbers in the RBI column. Against Massachusetts on Saturday, Neill became just the sixth player in school history to notch 50 or more RBI in one season. Teammate Michelle Smith accomplished the feat in 2005.

RITTMAN NABS 500: With Stanford's decisive 10-1 win over Oregon State on Apr. 11, Head Coach John Rittman collected his 500th career win. Rittman entered the 2008 season as one of the top-25 winningest all-time Division I coaches with a .674 winning percentage in his 11 seasons as a head coach. He has boosted his record to 514-237-3 (.684) since the 2008 season began.

12 STRAIGHT WINNING SEASONS: Head Coach John Rittman has already ensured that his team will record its 12th straight winning season this year. With a 49-13 record (.790), Stanford has been guaranteed to finish over .500 since late March.

THE LONG...: Stanford played six extra-inning games in Pac-10 play, and weathered all of them on the back of pitcher Missy Penna. Penna won a battle with Arizona State in her latest extra-long escapade on May 8. The 13 innings thrown by Penna in another game against the Sun Devils on Mar. 30 matched a program-record for innings thrown in a single contest. Before conference play, Stanford's only extra-inning game came on Feb. 21 against Florida Atlantic. Stanford is 5-2 in extra-inning games this year.

...AND SHORT OF IT: Stanford has won 14 games by eight or more runs this season. By run-ruling Santa Clara on Apr. 15, the team set a new school record for run-rule wins in a single season (previous record was 13 in 1999 and 2005). Last year, the team run-ruled just eight opponents.

DOUBLE DUTY: Sophomore Alissa Haber has 16 doubles this year, one of the ten best single-season totals in school history. In just her second year of collegiate play, Haber is two doubles short of etching her name on the school's career top-10 list. The Newark, Calif. native, who led Stanford in nearly every offensive category last year with a .365 average, 65 hits, 40 runs and 15 doubles, has already surpassed all of her impressive rookie numbers this year (.378 average, 76 hits, 48 runs, 16 doubles).

ACADEMIC ALL-STAR: Junior pitcher Missy Penna was named to the ESPN Academic All-District First Team, when the College Sports Information Directors of America announced the selections earlier this month. Penna, a civil engineering major, is now in contention to become Stanford's second Academic All-American.

THE BEST TEAM EVER?: With its efforts so far this year, the 2008 Cardinal has put itself in the company of the greatest Stanford squads ever. The team's current batting average (.279) is one of the five best in school history, and its ERA (1.20) ties for the best to date. The team is just the second at Stanford to hit 50 or more homeruns, and the second to strike out 500 or more opposing batters. The team has already shattered the school walk record with 243 on the year, while its current .973 fielding percentage is only six points below the program's all-time best mark.

AMONG THE DEFENSIVE GREATS: Senior Michelle Smith joined a group of the greatest defensive players in school history last month. On Apr. 12, the Cardinal third baseman recorded her 400th career assist, joining Lauren Lappin, Michelle Schneider and Robin Walker as the only players in school history to reach the 400-assist landmark.

QUADRUPLE 100 FOR COON: Against San Jose State on Apr. 22, shortstop Maddy Coon's three-run homer earned her her 100th career RBI. Two weeks prior, she scored her 100th career run and became the second player in school history to reach 100 career walks. With 100 hits already under her belt as well, Coon is just the second player in school history to register 100 in four different offensive categories (Sarah Beeson is the other).

RIGHT OFF THE BAT: When sophomore Alissa Haber goes deep, she doesn't waste time. The Cardinal center fielder has six homeruns this year, and four of those have come on Stanford's first at bat of the game. One of her two triples also came on Stanford's opening at bat. The Cardinal is 22-2 when scoring in the first inning. Haber been the one to score that first run in 19 of those games.

GOING THE EXTRA MILE: The Stanford team has already combined for 85 doubles, five triples and 51 homeruns this season. With a total of 141 extra-base hits, the Cardinal is averaging more than two per game! How does that stack up? Stanford has already surpassed both its double and homerun totals from last year and become just the second team in school history to hit 50 or more homeruns (2005 was the other). Sophomore Alissa Haber leads the team with 16 doubles, while fellow sophomore Rosey Neill paces the squad with 19 homeruns. Stanford has recorded at least one extra-base hit in 55 out of its 62 contests so far.

A PRESEASON TO REMEMBER: Stanford recorded arguably its best preseason in school history this year, setting a number of program bests. The Cardinal won its first 15 games, the best start in school history and the program's second-longest winning streak overall. The squad went on to nab its 30th win on Mar. 22, hitting the milestone at the earliest date in program history (and for just the third time before the month of April). Despite playing a schedule that included five nationally-ranked teams, Stanford entered Pac-10 play with its best winning percentage in school history (.941). Finally, the squad scored in a program-record 35 straight games before being shut out.

PICK YOUR PITCH: Maddy Coon broke the program's single-season walk record before the first week of Pac-10 play was even complete, and has gone on to simply obliterate that record. Coon has now had walked a whopping 47 times. Her record tops the previous 33-walk mark set in 2002 by Sarah Beeson. Just a junior, she is second only to Beeson in career walks with 105 (to Beeson's 115).

On Feb. 29 against St. John's, Coon walked a school-record four times. In the latest national rankings, Coon was listed 12th in walks per game. Senior Erin Howe isn't far behind. Her 37 walks also top Beeson's previous single-season record, and are second only to Coon's 47 this year.

SOPHOMORE SLUMP? NOT EVEN CLOSE...: The Stanford sophomore class has provided the biggest jolt of offense for the Cardinal this season. Rosey Neill and Alissa Haber are pacing the team with batting averages of .352 and .378, respectively, and are two of the top offensive players in the Pac-10. Combined, the sophomore class has tallied 112 runs (38 percent), 184 hits (42 percent), 36 doubles (42 percent) and 29 homeruns (57 percent). A sophomore has scored a run in 52 of the team's 62 games, and recorded a hit in 60 of them.

OVER THE FENCE, OVER AND OVER: Stanford already has 51 homeruns this year, the second-highest team total in program history. Sophomore Rosey Neill has accounted for 19 of those, matching teammate Michelle Smith's single-season record (19 in 2005). Smith, who has eight homeruns this year, stands second only to Mendoza on the school's career homerun chart (39 HR's), and one short of becoming the second player in school history to hit 40. Notably, three of the top-10 long ball hitters in program history (Smith, Neill and Maddy Coon) are on of the current roster. Sophomore Alissa Haber and senior Erin Howe are just two homeruns shy of joining them.

THERE WHEN YOU NEED 'EM: Who's best to have at the plate when the team needs it most? Sophomore Alissa Haber has been most consistent in pressure situations, hitting .394 with runners on, .391 with runners in scoring position and .377 with two outs. Rosey Neill paces the squad with 22 two-out RBI, while freshman Melisa Koutz has provided the game-winning hit in three of the team's Pac-10 wins and is a team-best 6-for-11 (.545) with bases loaded.

LEAVING 'EM EMPTY-HANDED: As a team, Stanford has shut out 23 opponents this season and held 19 more to just a single run. On the flip side, Stanford has only been shut out five times this year, and has scored five or more runs 28 times. The Cardinal averages 4.8 runs per game, and holds opponents to just 1.5.

CATCH US IF YOU CAN: Stanford players have stolen 60 bases this year, already the fourth-best team total in school history. Senior Tricia Aggabao paces the Cardinal with 16 stolen bases on the season. Having already more than doubled her career total this year alone, Aggabao is the seventh-best base-stealer on the program's career chart (25). Fellow senior Anna Beardman joined Aggabao on the chart against UC Davis on Mar. 26, and currently holds the tenth spot on the list with 21. Aggabao's 16 steals in 2008 are second only to seasons posted by Katherine Hoffman and Olympic gold medalist Jessica Mendoza in the Stanford record books.

PERFECTLY DONE: Freshman pitcher Ashley Chinn has thrown two no-hitters in her 11 complete games for the Cardinal this year. On Apr. 15, the rookie threw the school's 16th no-hitter against Santa Clara, and pitched the school's seventh perfect game against Princeton on Mar. 22. Prior to Chinn, Dana Sorensen was the last player to throw a perfect game, doing so against Hawaii on Mar. 28, 2004. The Cardinal newcomer owns an 11-2 record, and boasts a 1.92 ERA.

2007 IN REVIEW: In 2007, Stanford posted its 11th consecutive winning season with a 35-21-1 overall record, earned an NCAA berth for the tenth-straight time and advanced to the Stanford Regional championship game. Newcomer Alissa Haber led the Cardinal with a .365 batting average, while pitcher Missy Penna notched 12 shutouts, 25 wins and 308 strikeouts. The Cardinal won two games at the NCAA Regional at Smith Family Stadium, but was eliminated by the LSU Tigers in the regional championship game.

TEAM USA TIES: Head Coach John Rittman was recently named to the coaching staff for the U.S. Olympic Team, where two former Cardinal standouts, Jessica Mendoza and Lauren Lapin, are currently training for the 2008 Beijing Games. Current Stanford sophomores Rosey Neill and Alissa Haber were both members of the USA Junior National Team that won a gold medal at the ISF Junior World Championship in Enschede, Netherlands last summer.

RITTMAN SIGNS ANOTHER ONE: John Rittman and his staff have signed yet another top-notch recruiting class for the 2008-09 school year. The class is headlined by Ashley Hansen (Tempe, Ariz.) who was the only high school player invited to the U.S. National Team tryouts in September. Additionally, Rittman has signed Jenna Becerra (Westlake Village, Calif.), Christina Goswiler (Manhattan Beach, Calif.), Maya Burns (San Francisco, Calif.), Sarah Hassman (Cupertino, Calif.) and Mary Kate Smith (Tampa, Fla.).

NATIONAL POLLS: This week, the Cardinal stands at No. 8/9 in the USA Today/NFCA poll and the ESPN.com/USA Softball poll, respectively. Stanford has been ranked in every regular-season NFCA poll for the last decade, dating back to Feb. 25, 1998. The squad reached a program-high No. 2 national ranking on two occasions during the 2002 season.

SCOUTING TEXAS A&M: Texas A&M, the Big 12 regular-season and tournament champion, enters this weekend's Super Regional with a 52-7 overall record. The Aggies played 26 games against eventual NCAA Tournament teams in 2008, and won 21 of those games. Texas A&M swept its own regional last week to advance to this weekend's round of 16. Senior All-American Amanda Scarborough paces the team with a .447 batting average, while pitcher Megan Gibson brings the power with 13 homeruns, 14 doubles and 47 RBI. In the circle, Gibson is 36-1 with a 0.92 ERA, 19 shutouts and 304 strikeouts.

THE SERIES WITH THE AGGIES: Stanford and Texas A&M have met just once before, when the Aggies came out to the 2003 Stanford Classic. In that game, Texas A&M surged to score seven runs in the final two innings, and earn a 7-3 come-from-behind win over the Cardinal. Junior Jessica Allister, now Stanford's assistant coach, recorded two of the three Cardinal RBI and belted a homerun in that game.

HEAD COACH JOHN RITTMAN: In his 12th season at the helm of the Cardinal, Head Coach John Rittman is one of the winningest coaches in collegiate softball, boasting a 514-237-3 (.684) career record. Since stepping onto the Farm in July 1996, he has coached the team to 12 consecutive winning seasons, 11 straight NCAA Tournament appearances and ten 40-win seasons. Under Rittman, Stanford has claimed a share of its first conference championship and made two appearances in the Women's College World Series. Recently, Rittman, who has been a member of the U.S. National Team coaching staff since 2001, was named an assistant coach for the 2008 USA Olympic Team that will compete at the Games in Beijing, China this summer.

Chinn Has Found Her Groove At Stanford

Glenn Reeves, San Mateo County Times

March 19, 2008

Ashley Chinn is easing into her groove, making adjustments, feeling a little more at home in college softball.

Chinn was incredibly dominant as a high school pitcher at Carlmont. She went 73-8 with 64 shutouts and was named County Player of the Year her final three years as a Scot.

Now in her freshman season at Stanford, Chinn is the Cardinal's No. 2 starter. She is 9-0 with a 1.31 ERA. And she's getting better almost every time out.

She threw her first career shutout the last time she pitched, against Campbell on March 8, had a five-inning complete game against College of Charleston on March 7, and had her first 11-strikeout game March 4 against Boston College. Those last three outings were all three-hitters.

"It took a while to get used to the level of play, to the pace of the game," Chinn said. "It took me a while to understand the presence a pitcher needs to have at this level. I'm starting to feel a lot more confident and comfortable."

That she's contributing in her first year at Stanford is quite an honor in itself. The No.5 ranked Cardinal is off to a 27-2 start.

"She's a pleasure to coach and to be around at practice," Stanford coach John Rittman said.

"I'm happy with the amount of time I'm getting as a freshman pitcher," Chinn said. "I've had a great opportunity to get out there and prove myself."

In high school Chinn usually had to bear down for one or two batters in an opposing lineup. That's not the case at the NCAA Division I level. Every player in every lineup was a high school standout.

"You have to go in with a different mentality," Chinn said. "It was kind of intimidating at first. Every lineup is solid, one through nine."

"Being able to throw a changeup for strikes at this level is huge," Rittman said.

Missy Penna, a junior, is Stanford's No.1 pitcher. She is 17-2 with a 0.97 ERA.

"Missy is such a great pitcher, you don't realize how hard she works," Chinn said. "Her bullpens go on for an hour to an hour and a half. She sets a real good example for me. When I watch her I always pick up something."

In picking Stanford, Chinn is close enough for family and friends to watch her pitch. She's also out on her own for the first time. It's her first exposure to softball as a way of life.

"Academically it was a hard adjustment at first," Chinn said. "In high school you had six classes every day. Here softball is more of a job. Some days I'm on the field at 1 o'clock and don't get back to the dorm until 8:30. And the amount of study required is a lot more than in high school."

She plans on pursuing a major in psychology.

"I've always been so interested in thinking about the way people act, why they act the way they do, what influences the way people socially interact with each other," Chinn said. "And psychology is a pretty broad subject. I can apply it to a lot of different career paths."

As for now she'll content herself with psyching out opposing batters.

It's Already A Special Season For Stanford Softball Team

Keith Peters, Palo Alto Weekly

March 27, 2008

John Rittman is inching closer to a coaching milestone with his Stanford softball team. Three more victories will give him 500 for his career.

Stanford's next three games, however, will be against defending national champion Arizona and the nation's current No. 1 team, Arizona State.

In any other season, trying to sweep those teams would have been near impossible. After all, Stanford's career record against Arizona State is 19-25 while the Cardinal is just 5-41 all-time against Arizona.

So, it would be easy to forget about that weekend sweep and 500th career win for Rittman. Yet, the Cardinal is 32-2, off to its best start in school history and ranked No. 5 in the nation after beating visiting UC Davis, 2-0, in a nonconference game Wednesday.

"We're finding different ways to win games," Rittman explained. "Whether it's our offense, or defense or pitching. Last night was a classic example. We had only four hits, but our pitching and defense made the difference. Any time you can do that, you have a pretty good team."

Stanford certainly fits that description this season. The team's health is good. The pitching depth is there, along with a productive offense and solid defense -- all the components that add to a successful season.

The Cardinal didn't win its 32nd game last season until May 6, thus is way ahead of schedule. In fact, when Stanford went 54-16-1 in 2001 and reached the Women's College World Series (finishing third), the team was 31-3 after its first 34 games. The Cardinal went 11-10 in the Pac-10 that year.

Stanford went just 7-13-1 in Pac-10 play a year ago, but Rittman sees a big improvement in 2008 despite not wanting to look too far ahead.

"You really can't start looking at the future too much, not with the parity in college softball," Rittman said. "Every game we play in this conference is a tough one. This conference is absolutely crazy. You don't have an opponent that you can relax against at all."

Certainly not against Arizona and Arizona State.

"If we don't bring our 'A' game against those teams, we're going to get beat," said Rittman, whose squad has yet to be shut out this season.

Nationally No. 5-ranked Stanford opens its Pac-10 season on Friday against visiting No. 10 Arizona at 7 p.m., then takes on No. 1 Arizona State Saturday (1 p.m.) and Sunday (noon).

"The rankings mean absolutely nothing now," Rittman said. "In softball, it's how you match up." Stanford will be facing two teams that are experienced and used to contending for national titles. Rittman hopes his team will reach that level this season.

"The good thing is that this conference prepares us for the postseason," said Rittman, whose eventual goal is to win a national championship.

Every win is a step in that direction. Stanford took another positive step Wednesday with its win over UC Davis.

Sophomore catcher Rosey Neill, the reigning Pac-10 Player of the Week, drove in a run and junior Missy Penna took a no-hitter into the seventh inning -- settling for a one-hit shutout. Alissa Haber was 2-for-3 and raised her average to .415.

Penna struck out 13 and walked two in beating the Aggies and improving her record to 21-2 with a 0.86 ERA. She has 201 strikeouts in 147 innings.

Neill leads Stanford with a .421 batting average, 14 home runs and 41 RBI. She won Player of the Week honors after hitting four home runs and recording five extra-base hits to lead the fifth-ranked Cardinal to four victories last week in its own Stanford Invitational II.

Neill hit .545 with nine RBI and an impressive slugging percentage of 1.727 as Stanford reach 30 wins at the earliest date in school history. Defensively, Neill also caught the seventh perfect game in school history for freshman Ashley Chinn, a five-inning affair.

Stanford is patiently waiting for the first collegiate triple from sophomore catcher Rosey Neill. In the meantime, it will settle for her powerful home run swing.

Neill has 16 round-trippers in 41 games this season, three short of the school's single-season home run record owned by senior teammate Michelle Smith, who belted 19 home runs as a freshman in 2005. Neill continues her pursuit of Smith this Friday when the eighth-ranked Cardinal hosts Oregon State at 7 p.m. in a Pac-10 game at Boyd and Jill Smith Family Stadium. Stanford (34-7, 1-5 Pac-10) has Oregon in town Saturday and Sunday.

When the Cardinal was in a preseason tournament at Fullerton in late February and early March, Neill and Smith played their version of Home Run Derby. Smith has seven home runs this season, 38 in her career.

"Smitty and I had kind of home run contest," Neill said. "She would hit one, then I would hit one. Then I would hit one, then she would hit one. A week ago, she told me, 'The game is no fun when you're running away with it.'"

Neill hit one home run, in particular, at Fullerton which literally made quite an impression on a fan seated in the right field bleachers - watching a different game. The fan was a mother of a Purdue player who was playing on an adjacent field.

"There was another field past the right field side," said Neill, out of Laguna Hills High. "I actually hit one of the other fans in the head. She sent me an e-mail to my coach the next day about how proud she was as a 'softball mom' to see a girl hit a ball that far."

Neill hit seven home runs her entire freshman season.

"I'm a lot more consistent than I was last year," said Neill, who bats fourth for John Rittman's club. "I have a different approach. This year, I've done a much better job of sitting on the pitch that I want to hit. I'm more comfortable in the box, more comfortable with my swing. One more year is always going to help that. I'm just seeing the ball, which is nice."

"Rosey has matured as a hitter," Rittman said. "Once she realized to hit the ball to all fields, she gained more power."

Neill can handle herself behind the plate, as well. She has made only three errors this season in 350 chances, a fielding percentage of .991.

"Rosey has worked well with our pitchers," Rittman said. "She's a team leader on defense for us."

Stanford, with 38 home runs on the season, needs just nine home runs to move into second place for single-season homers hit by a Stanford team. The Cardinal hit 67 four-baggers Smith's freshman season, No. 1 all-time at Stanford.

"Power is one of our strengths," Neill said. "One through nine in our lineup all have a good amount of power. Our leadoff hitter, Alissa Haber, has several home runs. Our No. 2 batter, Tricia Aggabao, hit her first collegiate home run this year."

Quite a slugger

Neill is batting .373, second on the team. With eight doubles and her conference-leading 16 clouts, her slugging percentage is a lofty .847, placing Neill among the nation's top 10. With 16 walks and one hit-by-pitch, Neill has an on-base percentage of .452. While most of Neill's power spree took place in the preseason when the Cardinal got off to a best-ever 32-2 start, Neill expects Pac-10 pitching to be another story altogether. Stanford has scored just six runs in its six Pac-10 games.

"It's always a different game going into the Pac-10," Neill said. "When you're hitting against Pac-10 pitching, they all throw well. They're going to hit their spots and throw you what they want to throw you. Certain pitchers have certain go-to's. If you sit on that pitch, you know that you'll get at least one of those during an at-bat."

Last year, Neill rated Arizona's Katie Burkhart as the best pitcher she has faced in college. This year, it's UCLA's Angelica Selden who has caught Neill's attention.

"I was impressed with Selden," Neill said. "She has improved a substantial amount from last year. She has gotten a lot stronger."

Neill believes the Pac-10 is the strongest conference in the country.

"You can't compete with the Pac-10," Neill said. "The pitching, the hitting. Every team has a solid game. There are no weak teams in the conference. There are no teams where you can just look past."

The Cardinal relies on ace Missy Penna (23-6, 1.02 ERA) and former Carlmont-Belmont star Ashley Chinn (10-1, 1.48 ERA) for the bulk of its pitching.

"I love catching Missy," said Neill, who along with Penna is one of 25 finalists on the latest USA Softball Collegiate Player of the Year Watch List. "She's one of my favorite pitchers I have ever caught for. It's fun to call pitches for her because even the balls that miss still have a dirty, dirty break. Ashley has a lot of spunk. She's a real sass. It's fun. She's a competitor, a great teammate."

Neill has only one ritual.

"I get into the box the same way every time," Neill said. "I have the same sort of bat waggle. I tap my right foot before I step in. I try to keep superstitions to a minimum. There are so many variables in this game. I don't want to add another one."

As for hitting a triple before she is through, Neill isn't holding her breath.

"There are lot of players on my team who are really good at hitting triples, and I'm not one of them," said Neill, with a laugh. "It requires a little more speed than I have in me. I've hit triples in high school before, but those were usually home runs with no fences that I couldn't quite leg out."

No need for triples when one can hit the ball over the fence like Neill, who is making quite an impression with her long-distance homers.

Stanford Ace Penna Will Throw The Screwball

Tom FitzGerald, San Francisco Chronicle

April 18, 2008

Missy Penna, who's on her way to becoming one of the top softball pitchers in Stanford history, is a terrific student who like the rest of her nine siblings was homeschooled by her mother in Miami. She's majoring in civil engineering.

OK, so she does have a zany side.

"She's kind of a goofball," said third baseman Michelle Smith. "She's funny."

"We have our own Missy dictionary in the bullpen," said assistant coach Trisha Ford. "When she misses a spot (with a pitch), she says her 'position' is wrong. She has a nickname for all her pitches."

Her screwball, for instance, is "El Diablo."

And yes, she forgot her cleats before the season opener.

"She's a little bit off the ball," said head coach John Rittman.

There's no question that Penna's head is in the game. Between innings, though, it might wander. During a 2-0 shutout of Brigham Young, she had two runners on but struck out a dangerous hitter to end the inning. She returned to the dugout wondering aloud if Miami was going to beat Texas the next day in the NCAA men's basketball tournament.

The Cardinal, ranked seventh nationally, had a rough start in Pac-10 play, losing their first five games, but have bounced back with four straight wins going into this weekend's series against No. 21 Cal.

The three games will pit Penna (26-6, 0.96 ERA) against Cal ace Marissa Drewrey (22-10, 1.68). The series also will feature three of the top hitters in the conference - Stanford sophomores Alissa Haber (.397, .488 on-base percentage) and Rosey Neil (.380, 17 homers, 45 RBIs) and Cal freshman Sanoe Kehahuna (.363, 43 RBIs).

Penna collected three wins last weekend against the Oregon schools. Her 73 career wins were surpassed in Stanford annals only by Dana Sorensen, who had 105 and who holds the season record of 34 in 2004. And Penna has a year to go.

Even in defeat, she has been impressive. She lost 4-1 to defending national champion Arizona in an extra-inning game. In a 13-inning marathon against No. 1 Arizona State, the longest pitching stint in Stanford history, she battled for 212 pitches and didn't give up an earned run. But a three-run homer following a two-out error in the 13th gave the Sun Devils a 3-0 win.

Penna, a junior right-hander, stands 5-foot-10 and can throw up to 68 mph, which is somewhat like facing a big-league heater when you're standing only 45 feet away. She has 275 strikeouts in 2111/3 innings. Others may throw even harder, but what sets her apart is her repertoire and the movement she puts on each selection. She came to Stanford with a fine rise ball, but her best pitch now is her drop.

"She's not overpowering, but she hits her spots well," BYU coach Gordon Eakin said. "She's a complete pitcher. She'll take her team far this year."

A few hours before the season opener against host San Diego, she discovered she had left her cleats back at Stanford. Ford hustled off to buy replacements, and Penna used them in the third no-hitter of her career.

The complete sports exploits of the Penna clan cannot be explored here for space reasons. Her father, Robert, wrestled at Florida. Brother Robert played college baseball and sister Leanne plays softball at Columbia.

With 10 kids, "there's never a want of excitement - or fighting," said Missy, the fourth oldest. "It's fun and you never get bored. All of us were home-schooled (in elementary grades). The oldest is 26, the youngest is 6."

Rittman was glad she was willing to leave the family behind. She may have her oddball moments, but the coach, who recently picked up his 500th career win in 12 years at Stanford, said, "She works as hard as anybody we've had in this program, if not more."

A Most Favorable Spin

Diane Rogers, Stanford Magazine
May-June, 2008

Are those calluses on the tips of Missy Penna's fingers?

"Yeah. It's the constant friction."

That would be the blast-off friction of a fastball leaving Penna's hand, bound for the catcher's mitt at some 65 miles per hour.

A Penna pitch is a study in minimalism. The second pitcher in the history of Stanford softball to record 600 career strikeouts will tug gently at her red visor, rock back slightly and push off with her right leg, ripping a windmill launch that ends in a neon-yellow blur in the strike zone. Penna opened the season with her third career no-hitter and threw five straight shutouts, earning USA Softball National Player of the Week honors. Going into Pac-10 play, the No. 5 Cardinal had won its first 15 games. The 5-foot-10 junior right-hander was the winning pitcher in 11 of those games, notching 9.4 strikeouts per game and an ERA of 0.90. She led the Pac-10 with 11 wins and 94 strikeouts.

Penna started her rec league career in hometown Miami as a catcher, but didn't much like getting hit by wild pitches. So she stepped into the circle at age 12, and began to hurl rise balls, drops, curves and screws. The changeup, she says, is a more elusive success. "You need to be more relaxed. It takes more finesse, and you have to trick the batter. I'm still working on it."

Before each game, Penna warms up for 30 minutes, throwing soft then getting her spins going. "Pitching is very mental, and you have to go out there and pretend you just had the best bullpen," she says of the days when she may not feel on top of her game. "You have to have the mindset, 'Okay, maybe my drop ball isn't working today, but my rise ball is going to be.'"

There's the occasional stoop to scoop up a handful of dirt in the circle, "when my hand is a little slick." And there's the rarer up-and-down shift of both shoulders. "That's to remind me to end up sideways to the batter, to come together smooth and relaxed," Penna explains. "Because if you stay open to the batter, you just lose power."

When Penna is pitching, she knows she has to stay smart: "It's not just harder, harder, but more about location and spin." When she's not pitching, Penna helps keep her teammates pumped by cheering them on from the dugout. On a full count, she'll yell, "Base hit, perambulate."

As the strikeout count continues, what milestone matters most to Penna? "What it all comes down to is the College World Series. But I have a game to play today, one pitch at a time."

Catcher Neill Gives Stanford A Boost At Bat And Behind Plate

Michelle Smith, San Francisco Chronicle

May 15, 2008

If Stanford sophomore catcher Rosey Neill were surprised by the success she has had this season, she would consider that a bad thing.

"I have to believe that as long as I keep working hard, results are going to come. Thinking anything else wouldn't be optimistic," Neill said. "I'd like to think it doesn't surprise me."

As Stanford prepares to open play as a No. 1 seed in one of 16 regionals (and the No. 12 seed overall in the 64-team field), Neill is leading the way.

She is hitting .348, the second-best average on the Cardinal squad, with 18 homers, making her the Pac-10 leader. Neill is one homer short of the school record established by teammate Michelle Smith in 2005.

"I don't go up there trying to hit home runs," Neill said. "I'm trying to put the ball on the ground and make things happen for my team. But I guess with the nature of my swing, it goes over the fence occasionally. And when that happens, it's definitely fun."

The Cardinal (46-12) open play against Lehigh at 11:30 a.m. PDT Friday in Amherst, Mass., the program's 11th consecutive NCAA appearance. Coach John Rittman said his high-energy catcher has had a "phenomenal" season, a significant jump from last year's .235 average with seven homers.

"She's caught pretty much every game for us this year, and last year really," Rittman said. "After being with the USA junior national team last summer, I think she came in with a little more confidence and she works extremely hard."

In addition to her time with the U.S. junior team, Neill also had offseason surgery on her right knee. She said it did not change her approach to her sophomore season.

"I'm not going to let a knee injury affect anything," Neill said. "I had to work hard to get back into shape, but as a catcher, you know you will always have suspect knees and this was the first time I'd had anything legitimately repaired."

Neill said she is more "comfortable" with her swing this season.

"We shortened it and I think that's helped my power numbers," Neill said. "I'm strong enough that if I get a good swing, it's going out."

Neill has missed only one start in two seasons behind the plate for the Cardinal, a case of food poisoning knocking her out of a game as a freshman.

Stanford pitcher Missy Penna characterized her catcher as "ready for anything."

"There was a game when she didn't get a hit and she came back to the dugout, and I told her she'd get it the next game, and she said to me, 'Don't worry, it's a one-day thing,' " Penna said. "You always know she's going to come out ready tomorrow. She knows what she can do."

Rittman said Neill has been as valuable defensively as she has at the plate. She has formed a strong partnership with Penna, in particular, and works diligently with coaches on scouting reports before the next game.

"She calls a great game, she retains a lot of information and defensively, she's as good as they come," Rittman said. "We are not afraid to call any pitch with a runner on third."

Neill said it's all part of the deal, no big surprise there, either.

"You can't be a passive catcher and expect to do well," Neill said.

NCAA Regionals

-- Regionals are double eliminations, with winners advancing to super regionals, May 23-24. The College World Series is in Oklahoma City, May 29-June 4.

-- Cal (40-24) is in Fresno. It plays San Diego State (43-15) at 5 p.m. Friday. Sixteenth-seeded Fresno State (51-11) and Sacramento State (32-19) are also in the regional.

-- No. 12-seed Stanford (46-12) is in Amherst, Mass. It plays Lehigh (38-15-1) at 11:30 a.m. Friday. UMass (39-11) and Princeton (25-22) are the other teams in the regional.

Teammates, Roommates

Daniel Bohm, The Stanford Daily
May 15, 2008

Mirrieles is like most upper class residence halls on campus: if you wander the halls you will find a motley crew of different social niches. Football players living across the hall from a cappella singers and engineers next door to ballet dancers. In one corner of the third floor, however, you will find room 320, a room occupied by three Stanford softball players: Maddy Coon, Alissa Haber and Rosey Neill.

Aside from the five Stanford softball posters on the wall, the room could be that of anyone else in the four-story complex. There are dirty dishes in the sink, a half-empty refrigerator and clothes strewn all over the floor.

This room is different, however. It's not a coincidence that three of Stanford's best players — the entire trio were named First Team All-Pacific Region — all live together. Each one has her own role, and together the three are able to enjoy the excitement of starting the season a school record 15-0. And together they have overcome the hardship of losing the first five games of the Pac-10 season.

Neill, a sophomore catcher who is enjoying a breakout season at the plate, is the cook of the bunch, and also the one who makes sure that everyone does what they need to get done.

To say she is the leader of the group would be a stretch, however, with junior shortstop Maddy Coon in the same room. Coon is not only the field general on the diamond, but she has lived like this before and understands how it works. As a sophomore she lived with softball players, and she is able to show Haber and Neill how to balance school with softball and a social life.

The decision to live together was made last year on a random evening when Coon and Haber decided it made sense for them to be roommates. Not long after, Neill joined the crew and it was set.

Although the girls may not always realize it, it could not have turned out better. They all make sacrifices — Haber gave up her claim to the single bedroom in Spring Quarter to give it to Rosey, while Maddy offered to take the top bunk because she sometimes enjoys the seclusion it provides her.

By living with one another they are also able to enjoy each other outside the context of softball, and live a somewhat normal Stanford life when they are not on road trips.

“The room is good to provide us with anything that doesn't involve softball,” Coon explained.

It is for that reason that at any given time you could find neighbors from across the hall sitting on the futon with the girls watching “America's Next Top Model” or “Family Guy.”

“It's impossible to get work done in here,” said Neill, sounding a lot like any other Stanford student would.

These girls are not any other Stanford students, however. All three have flourished since moving in with one another.

Coon is enjoying her best season since coming to Stanford, batting .281 with eight homeruns and 38 RBIs. She is also second on the team in on-base percentage, trailing only Haber, with a .456 mark.

Haber was an all-American last year as a freshman playing centerfield, but she is having an even better season this year. Haber leads the team hitting .380 with six homeruns and a team-high 44 runs scored.

Neill is having a monstrous year for the Cardinal hitting in the cleanup spot. After an inconsistent freshman year, she is batting .348 as a sophomore with a team-leading 18 homeruns and 49 RBIs.

Despite the accomplishments of its three tenants, Haber insists that the room is perfectly normal.

“This is a typical room; I wouldn’t say any of us are clean or anything,” she said.

“But there are more important things in this world than a clean room,” Neill added.

“Like winning a championship,” Coon finished.

They all have that goal in mind, and they will take it with them to Amherst, Mass. for Regionals and the beginning of the NCAA tournament this weekend.

Stanford Pitcher Is The Greatest

John Reid, Palo Alto Daily News

May 17, 2008

Whenever Stanford ace Missy Penna takes the mound these days, she breaks another record.

The junior Penna shut out Lehigh 4-0 Friday in a first-round NCAA regional softball game in Amherst, Mass. It was Penna's 17th shutout of the season.

In picking up the complete-game victory, she became the school's single-season record-holder for wins with 35, breaking Dana Sorensen's 2004 total of 34. Penna added to her single-season strikeout mark, fanning 14 batters, including eight in succession, giving her 386 strikeouts in 2008. Her seven innings worked means yet another Stanford record for Penna - innings pitched in a season - for she now has 306 2/3. Sorensen held the old mark of 303 innings, set in '04.

On May 8, Penna broke her own single-game strikeout record with 17 against then-No. 2 Arizona State, snapping the school's single-season strikeout record that same evening. With 82 career victories, Penna is second behind Sorensen's 105 with another year to go. Pending disaster, it would be safe to say that she should own the majority of the pitching records at Stanford by the time she is through.

"I guess that's good," said Penna, who was recently named to the all-Pac-10 first team. "It doesn't really mean anything. Someone can have an awful year and make it to regionals and go from there. I'm hoping our team can continue playing well. Getting to the College World Series is our goal."

The Cardinal (47-12) hasn't been to the Women's College World Series since 2004. The school's other appearance was in 2001. To get to Oklahoma City this season, Stanford would have to win the Amherst Regional, then win a super regional at Texas A&M, should the Aggies win their regional. Stanford would host a super regional if a team besides Texas A&M comes out of College Station this weekend.

"First, we have to get out of the regional," Penna said. "It's never easy. There are three other teams who are going to be out there playing their best. We'll see. If we play our 'A' game, we will crush."

Penna says "We will crush" with a Soviet accent, not unlike Boris Badenov from the old Rocky and Bullwinkle cartoon series. That happens to be the team's motto, also. Penna isn't averse to having a little fun with her teammates. When she forgot her cleats for a game in the Cardinal's first tournament of the season, she had to buy new ones. That earned her the nickname "Slasher," the brand name of the cleats. When Penna is out on the mound, her teammates sometimes chant, "Slasher."

"We have a great group of girls," Penna said. "Every time we get together, we have fun on or off the field. It's fun to win. We're having a good year."

Quite a year

Penna is having more than a good year, sporting a 35-10 win-loss ledger with a 1.07 ERA.

"Penna has been phenomenal through the year for us," Stanford coach John Rittman said. "She has matured from being a thrower to being a very good pitcher. She stays composed and has learned to fight through things if they don't go well for her."

"Penna is a fun pitcher to catch for," Cardinal catcher Rosey Neill said. "She has worked so hard."

Neill calls the pitches for Penna, who rarely shakes her catcher off.

"She'll call me off every now and then," Neill said. "We're usually on the same page. Usually when she calls me off, it's not that she disagrees with the call, it's just that she feels better throwing a different pitch. Her dropball is one of her go-tos. It falls off the table. On a real good day, the ball drops six to eight inches."

"Penna's dropball is her best pitch," Rittman said. "It opens up her riseball, screwball and curve and she can mix in her changeup."

Penna is also an outstanding fielder.

"Penna fields her position real well," Rittman said. "She's like a fifth infielder out there. She has caught a lot of hard-hit ground balls. She's one of the best fielding pitchers that has played at Stanford."

When Penna was a freshman, she got hit by a pitch at Cal and had to miss 10 days of action. That could be one reason that Rittman has let Penna bat only 12 times this season after 287 at-bats her first two seasons, when she collected seven homers.

"With so few pitchers in the lineup, when one gets hurt, it's going to affect the whole team," Penna said. "It's not like baseball where you have 10 pitchers available. Every pitcher that goes down, it's more responsibility for the other pitchers."

Florida prep days

Penna is arguably the greatest softball pitcher to come out of the state of Florida. Playing for Southwest Miami High, she finished with 85 career wins and 1,255 strikeouts, including an astonishing 32 strikeouts in one game. A standout volleyball and basketball player, Penna was a two-time Miami Herald female athlete of the year and a two-time Florida Class 6A pitcher of the year.

Penna came from a family of 10 children, giving her an instant fan club. Her sister, Leanne, plays softball for Columbia University in New York City. Her brother, Robert, played baseball for Barry University in Miami Shores. Penna's father, Robert, wrestled for the University of Florida.

Missy Penna is majoring in civil engineering and hopes to work on bridges some day. One would not be surprised if that bridge is of record scale.

With Penna In The Circle, Things Are Looking Up For Stanford

Graham Hays, ESPN.com

May 19, 2008

Things are looking up for Missy Penna and Stanford as the Cardinal pursue their first trip to the Women's College World Series since 2004.

Missy Penna brings a new attitude to the circle for Stanford.

Then again, people are always looking up around a pitcher who is frequently found scaling trees in pursuit of fresh produce on campus in Palo Alto with far more success than the opposing hitters have climbing the ladder in hopeless pursuit of her rise ball.

In her third season with the Cardinal, Penna now stands shoulder to shoulder with the best pitchers in college softball. But she has long stood alone as one of the sport's most appealingly intriguing personalities.

"She's definitely the adventurous type," explained Stanford senior Tricia Aggabao, one of Penna's closest friends on the team. "She's a real, genuine, down-to-earth person. [She's] very low-maintenance; she doesn't need too much. She's definitely unique."

And about that orange tree near the post office on campus -- does one of the premier athletes at a school littered with All-Americans of every sporting variety ever get strange looks when she leaves terra firma to pilfer some truly organic Vitamin C?

"One time I encountered another athlete we knew, and she was like, 'What are you doing up there?'" Penna said. "But no, because I think other people do it too ... or they see me and they're like, 'Hey, can you get me some?'"

A native Floridian who is one of only a handful of East Coast players competing in the Pac-10 -- softball's equivalent of an American playing soccer in the English Premier League -- Penna has always looked to expand her horizons on her own terms. Growing up in Miami as one of 10 children, she didn't necessarily spend a lot of one-on-one time in the wild beyond an occasional summer camping trip, but she hypothesized that a childhood spent playing sports outdoors instilled a desire to get out and do things. Things like making the four-hour bike trip from Stanford to San Francisco with Aggabao or spending more than a week hiking a nearly 100-mile stretch of the Appalachian Trail in Georgia with two of her sisters and a friend.

In a sport in which pitching aces sometimes comport themselves as if they were Aretha Franklin fronting eight glove-wielding backup singers, Penna is closer in archetype to a quirky indie rock lead singer like fellow Floridian Jolie Lindholm.

"You can't figure Missy out," coach John Rittman said. "She's a free spirit; she's got a lot of energy. Off the field -- she's a civil engineering major at Stanford, so she balances life extremely well. And I think coming from a large family helps keep things in perspective. She's not selfish at all. She's really a giving person. She has a fun side to her; she enjoys life."

All of which would make for an interesting world view in any college athlete. But Penna's story is also noteworthy at this time of year because it comes as part of a package that could play a significant role in determining the national championship.

Seeded No. 12 in the NCAA tournament, Stanford will head to the College Station Super Regional as an underdog against No. 5 Texas A&M. The Aggies have their own ace in player-of-the-year candidate Megan Gibson and are themselves eager to return to the World Series for the second consecutive season. But based on how Penna mowed down the field at the Amherst Regional, much as she had during Pac-10 play, the Cardinal are serious contenders to win in College Station and in the College World Series.

Missy Penna and Rosey Neill have teamed up for a few impressive performances.

Penna didn't allow an earned run in four starts in Amherst and finished off her stay with a no-hitter against Massachusetts. She also became just the eighth pitcher in the long and illustrious history of the Pac-10 to reach 400 strikeouts in a season, and heads to Texas with a 37-8 record, 411 strikeouts and 1.00 ERA. Sunday's no-hitter came 30 minutes after Penna went the distance in a 2-1 loss in which both runs for the Minutewomen were unearned. And as good as Penna's signature rise was time and again against Massachusetts, it was the poise the junior showed in bouncing back after the loss and her command of a complete arsenal of pitches that carried the day.

"I think Missy, if you track her career, she was very good, very young," Rittman said. "And she's pitched internationally for a long time [she pitched against Rittman and the United States last summer as a member of the Dominican national team], so she's got a lot of experience. But I don't know if Missy was truly a pitcher; she was more of a thrower. She threw a lot of rise balls and struck a lot of people out with rise balls in high school. When she got to college, specifically the Pac-10 conference, other teams laid off the rise ball. So she had to develop some other pitches."

In a career-high 327.1 innings so far this season, she's allowed just 77 walks and a career-low 18 home runs. Big innings, wherein Penna would walk a hitter or two and then watch a flat rise sail out of the park, were often her downfall during her first two seasons (although with a 47-23 record those two seasons, "often" might be a relative term).

"I think a big difference is probably just experience," Penna said with a note of self-deprecation. "I've learned the hard way in many instances, like if I put it down the middle, they're going to hit a home run."

It's appropriate that the most recent leg of Penna's trek toward the peak of her sport took her to within a few miles of the same Appalachian Trail she traveled many miles to the south. A civil engineering major at one of the nation's most prestigious schools who yearns to take wilderness survival classes and forages for food while other students hit vending machines, she is unlike any stereotype of a softball ace. But when it comes to her success on the field, Penna is starting to closely resemble many of the aces who made the trip to Oklahoma City before her.

And her teammates are ready to follow her there, even if the woods remain hers to travel alone.

"There are probably a few who don't like the idea of cooking their own food and being hungry and going to the bathroom in the wilderness behind a tree," Penna allowed. "But usually they just laugh when I tell them about the stories."

They probably roll their eyes skyward while they laugh. Everything always seem to turn out looking up when Penna's involved.
