Avery Aquatic Center

The recently rebuilt and remodeled Avery Aquatic Center is home to Stanford water polo, swimming and diving, and women's synchronized swimming. It is widely regarded as the finest outdoor facility in the United States, and one of the best in the world.

One of the highlights of the facility is a 37-meter and 14-foot deep competition pool, which can seat 2,530 spectators in a stadium-like setting. The facility also features a 25-meter diving well with a 10-meter diving tower. The variety of pools within the entire facility gives Stanford athletes and coaches tremendous flexibility when designing training programs and scheduling practices and competitions for all five home teams.

The Avery Aquatic Center was host to the first-ever NCAA Women's Water Polo Championship in May of 2001, and most recently hosted the 2004 Men's Water Polo MPSF and NCAA Championships.

Stanford Scholarship Funding

Two sources provide scholarship funds for Stanford's student-athletes: the Athletic Department's scholarship endowment and the Buck/Cardinal Club. Together they provide over $12 million in financial aid for Stanford student-athletes.

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are large sums of money that have been invested in the University's endowment and generate significant interest income each year. A portion of the income is spent on student financial aid and the remainder is reinvested in the principal.

The following endowed scholarships, named for the donor or for whom the donor wishes to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 2004 women's water polo team:

- | | |
|---|------------------|
| The Walter L. Brandt Scholarship | Hannah Luber |
| The Murray and Alexia Draper Scholarship | Alison Gregorka |
| The Abbie Wood Fout Scholarship | Scotti Shafer |
| The Johnson Foundation Scholarship | Nancy El-Sakkary |
| The Monica Kitterman Shockro Scholarship | Kely Luber |
| The Lions Club Concours d'Elegance Scholarship | Laurel Champion |

Buck/Cardinal Club

$3 million is raised annually in scholarship funds through gifts from the Club's 6,000 members. Over 250 volunteers assist the Buck/Cardinal Club and the Athletic Department in their annual fund raising efforts.

Experience and Camaraderie Will Guide the Cardinal in 2005

Junior driver Scotti Shafer

Stanford head coach John Tanner, now in his eighth year on the Farm, enters the 2005 season with a similar goal for his team: to win the National Championship. "We finished last year at a very high level, and have a significant core of the team returning this season, including an exciting freshman class that will contribute immediately to the depth of our team," said Tanner. In 2004, the Cardinal had a 21-5 overall record and placed third at the NCAA Championships.

With 11 returning letterwinners, the Cardinal will have to work collectively to fill the shoes of last year's seniors; Shannon Avrett, Lauren Faust, and Wendy Watkins, a 2004 All-American and finalist for the Peter J. Cutino award. "We have a very close-knit team, and an extremely talented sophomore class who we expect to step up this year," said Tanner, who lost two starters in Faust and Watkins.

The 2005 Cardinal will be led by senior twins Kelty and Hannah Lubber. "The Lubbers' teamwork sets a great example for the team, and with their combined talent they are poised to make a valuable contribution to the success of the team," said Tanner. Not only are the sisters an experienced duo, but they are also team captains, along with junior Scotti Shafer. "We have tremendous leadership on this year's team," Tanner said.

Stanford's four talented freshmen come to the Farm with exceptional credentials and may be ready to play a prominent role in 2005. The class includes Jacquelyn Gauthier (Irvine, Calif.), Megan May (San Diego, Calif.), Megan Nesland (Long Beach, Calif.) and Jenna Scalmanini (Alamo, Calif.).

"We are the only MPSF team to qualify for all four NCAA tournaments, which shows our consistent quality of teamwork," noted Tanner. "We return a talented nucleus from last year's team and our incoming freshmen should give us the ability to compete for the NCAA Title." Stanford's tradition of excellence includes MPSF Champions in 2000, 2001, and 2003; NCAA Champions in 2002; and NCAA runners-up in 2001 and 2003.

Here's a close look at the team by position:

Goalkeeper:

Following Stanford's legacy of strong goalkeepers, sophomore Meridith McColl earned the starting position as a freshman, filling the considerable shoes of two-time Olympic team goalie Jackie Frank. "Like many of our past goalies, we can count on Meridith for a solid and reliable performance in the goal. She has definitely improved to be the cornerstone of our defense." Last year she averaged 5.7 saves per game out of a total of 137 saves. McColl is one of two goalies on the U.S. Junior team who will play in the Junior World Championships in Perth, Australia in January 2005.

Drivers:

"Our team has an exceptionally deep combination of powerful drivers who consistently execute key scoring opportunities in front of the goal," Tanner noted. Among the Cardinal's most experienced returning drivers are juniors Laurel Champion and Scotti Shafer, who bring their previous NCAA and international experience to the team's weaponry. "Laurel and Scotti are creative players who do a phenomenal job of recognizing when they can capitalize on a good play," said Tanner.

"Scotti is a valuable player because she consistently finds ways to lose her defender on drives, and can be relied on for great counter-attack speed."

In 2004, the Cardinal had a 21-5 overall record, and a third-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

Senior two-meter Hannah Lubber

"Laurel does a great job of looking out for everyone on the perimeter and at two-meters. In that sense, she is a great team player for us," he said. Look for Champion and Shafer to create strategic and crafty moves both on the perimeter and in front of the goal this season.

Also contributing to Stanford's deep offense this year are freshmen Jacquelyn Gauthier, Megan May, Megan Nesland, and Jenna Scalmanini. "Jacquelyn is a dedicated player who we expect to contribute immediately, by creating plays and shooting from the perimeter. All four freshmen have the potential to develop into extremely versatile players for us," said Tanner.

Sophomore Katie Hansen, an experienced driver who is also on the U.S. Junior National team this year, shows creativeness in getting open on drives and has excellent game awareness. "Katie has a high percentage of goals and assists because she is continually looking for the open shot."

Two-Meter Players:

The bread-and-butter of two-meter offense and defense for the Cardinal are twins Hannah and Kelty Lubber. Hannah, who scored 28 goals last season, has "great intuition at two-meters, and is a regular scorer because of her strong two-meter play and her adeptness at capitalizing on 6-on-5 opportunities," said Tanner. Kelty, a defensive specialist at two-meters also adds a great deal of athleticism to the position. "Her explosiveness and long arms make her a very talented shot-blocker and tireless defender."

The team's top two-meter players include sophomore Christina Hewko, also a member of the U.S. Junior National Team, and junior Nancy El-Sakkary, former member of the Canadian Junior National Team. "Christina and Nancy gained a lot of experience last year and have become serious threats at two-meters," said Tanner.

Sophomore Alison Gregorka, member of the U.S. Junior National Team, sophomore Julia McKinney, and junior Val Riss, are expected to make significant contributions to the team's two-meter defense. "Alison has improved tremendously over the summer, and is a smart and confident player."

"Julia and Val are terrific players who provide a great deal of support for their teammates. They are crucial to the depth and utility of the team," he said.

Looking Ahead:

The 2005 Cardinal have an aggressive schedule that includes three multi-day tournaments, and match-ups with nearly every top-10 team in the nation. The season begins with a game against the University of Hawaii on February 11th, and is followed by a chance to challenge the nation's top teams at the Santa Barbara Tournament in late February.

"The games against UCLA and USC at home and against Cal in Berkeley will be very important games for getting into NCAAs and for seeding the MPSF Tournament," noted Tanner.

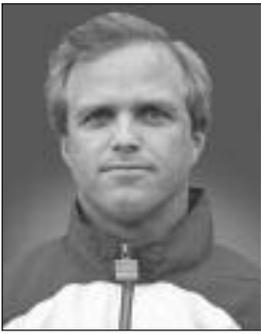

Cal will host the MPSF Championships at the end of April, and Michigan will host the NCAA Championships May13-15th in Ann Arbor.

"As always, we want to be a championship caliber team every day in how we practice, how we prepare for competition, and how we train. That never changes from year-to-year. The fun part is that we have no idea what the end result will be," said Tanner.

Stanford's tradition of excellence includes MPSF Champions in 2000, 2001, and 2003; NCAA Champions in 2002; and NCAA runners-up in 2001 and 2003.

John Tanner

Head Coach
Eighth Season

2003 MPSF Coach of the Year

2002 MPSF Coach of the Year

1998 MPSF Coach of the Year

John Tanner enters his eighth season at the helm of the Stanford women's water polo program. An experienced and enthusiastic coach, Tanner took on the developing program in 1997 and has since turned it into a nationally-ranked powerhouse that has produced one NCAA Championship, six U.S. National Team members, and four Olympians in the last four years. Tanner's squad has also competed in the NCAA Championship game in each of the first three years of the NCAA Tournament, and was ranked in the top three teams in the nation during each season since 1997.

Last season, Stanford earned third place at NCAAs, following a second-place finish at MPSFs. Posting a 21-5 overall record, the Cardinal was recognized not only for their superior athletic performance, but for their academic achievement as well. Three players were named All-American, and seven student-athletes were named MPSF Academic All-Conference and Academic All-Americans.

In 2003, Tanner was named the MPSF Coach of the Year for the second consecutive season after the Cardinal finished first in the MPSF Tournament and placed second in the NCAA Tournament. The Cardinal wrapped up the season with a 21-3 overall record with the help of MPSF Player of the Year Brenda Villa and Goalie of the Year Jackie Frank.

In 2002, he led the Cardinal to its first NCAA Championship and a 23-2 record. The Cardinal earned its first NCAA title after finishing second in 2001 and becoming the first-ever collegiate team to remain undefeated during the regular season, finishing with a 27-1 record overall. Tanner was named the MPSF Coach of the Year in 2002 for the most successful season in program history.

In his first year as head coach in 1998, Tanner led Stanford to a 29-6 record and a third place finish at the Collegiate National Championships. That same year, he was named MPSF Coach of the Year. In 1999, the team outdid their previous record by earning a 25-6 record and placed second at the Collegiate Nationals after falling to USC 7-6 in five overtimes in the Championship game. The 2000 Cardinal posted a record of 28-5 on its way to a third-place finish at the Collegiate Nationals, and boasted five All-Americans, four players named to Collegiate National All-Tournament teams, and eight Academic All-Americans.

A former Stanford water polo All-American himself, Tanner returned to his alma mater with a fortune of knowledge gained from years of coaching, both at the collegiate and international levels. Tanner has been involved with United States Water Polo in various capacities from 1988 to the present. He was the assistant coach of the U.S. Men's National Team that placed sixth at the 2000 Olympics in Sydney. He garnered the second world championship of his career in 1997 as the Americans captured the World Cup in Athens, Greece.

Tanner began his international coaching career in 1988 as a scout coach for the U.S. National "A" Team. In December of 1998, he was appointed as head coach of the U.S. National "B" Team, a position he held until early 1991. In March of 1991, he was named the assistant coach of the U.S. Olympic Team. He helped the U.S. squad capture gold at the 1991 World Cup and a fourth-place finish at the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona.

In 1980, while a student-athlete at Stanford, Tanner became involved with coaching when he served as the head coach at Menlo-Atherton High School for one season. He then coached Menlo School for the 1983 season. In 1984, he served as an assistant coach for the Stanford men's water polo team under his former coach Dante Dettamanti, when the team advanced to the NCAA title match and finished the year with a 25-5 mark.

Following the 1984 season, Tanner was hired as the head coach of the men's water polo team at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, California. In 1988, he was named the school's Director of Aquatics and the head coach of the men's swimming program, holding all three titles until his appointment at Stanford in 1996. His teams finished in the top 15 in the nation all of his 12 years and in the top 10 each of his last 10 years. He captured Big West Conference Coach-of-the-Year honors in 1991, and in 1993 his squad finished fifth at the NCAA Championships.

As the men's swimming coach at Pacific, he led the Tigers to a top 20 finish at the NCAA Tournament and coached Brad Schumacher, Pacific's first and only Olympic gold medalist in any sport. Tanner served as Schumacher's coach at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta, where he earned two gold medals as a member of the U.S. 4x100-meter and 4x200-meter free relay teams.

Originally recruited from Menlo-Atherton High School to swim at Stanford, Tanner instead played on the water polo team his freshman year, beginning a career (1978-82) that spanned three national championships and culminated in All-America honors his senior year. Tanner, a left-handed driver, started for the Cardinal in 1981 and helped lead Stanford to a perfect 31-0 record and its fourth national crown. The undefeated season was only the second in NCAA water polo history. Tanner ranked sixth on the team in goals in 1981, with 27, and garnered honorable mention All-America status. In 1982, he finished his career with a 48-goal performance, tying for second on the squad, and helped lead the Cardinal to a 27-5 record and its third-straight NCAA championship match appearance. Tanner was named to the NCAA All-Tournament Team, and, for his efforts throughout the season, earned All-America honors. He graduated in December 1982 with a bachelor's degree in political science.

In addition to coaching, Tanner has been a prominent member of several committees with United States Water Polo. He has served on the men's and women's National Team Head Coach Selection Committees, the Men's International/Olympic Committee and the National Coaches Committee. Tanner is also a member of the American Water Polo Coaches Association and United States Water Polo, Inc.

Susan Ortwein is in her eighth year as an assistant coach for the Stanford women's water polo program. In her seven years on The Farm, Ortwein has coached the Cardinal to a 152-22 overall record, one NCAA Championship title, two NCAA runner-up finishes, and three MPSF Championship titles. Last season, Stanford took third in the NCAA Tournament, placed second in the MPSF Tournament and completed a 21-5 overall record.

In her first year, the Cardinal went 29-6 on its way to a No. 2 national ranking and a third-place finish at Collegiate Nationals. In 1999, Stanford turned in a 25-6 season and concluded the year with second place at the National Collegiate Championship game after falling to USC 7-6 in five overtimes. In 2000, Stanford finished with a third-place finish at Collegiate National Championship and a 28-5 record. In 2001, the Cardinal finished with its best record in school history at 27-1 and became the first-ever collegiate team to remain undefeated during the regular season. In 2002, the Cardinal posted a 23-2 record en route to its first-ever NCAA Championship.

Ortwein has primary responsibility for coaching Cardinal goalkeepers and two-meter players. Last season, freshman two-meter player Christina Hewko and freshman goalie Meridith McColl were named to the MPSF All-Freshman team. Hewko also garnered All-American honors. In 2003, goalkeeper Jackie Frank was named NCAA Player of the Year and MPSF Goalie of the Year for the second consecutive season. Two-meter player Julie Gardner earned First-Team All-America and MPSF All-Conference honors.

As head coach of the Stanford Water Polo Foundation, Ortwein coached the team to the program's first National Championship in 2003 at Mission Viejo, Calif. Current student-athlete Laurel Champion and former Cardinal players Lauren Faust and Kate Pettit earned all-tournament team honors. Last year, the Stanford club team earned second-place at Senior Nationals, where current senior Kelty Luber was honored as Tournament MVP and fellow teammates Hannah Luber and Nancy El-Sakkary were named All-Americans. A total of four players were honored with selection to the All-Tournament team. At the 2004 Junior Nationals, the Stanford club team placed fourth, and also boasted the honor of having four players named to the All-Tournament team.

In 1998, Ortwein was named assistant coach of the U.S. National Team. In addition to her responsibilities at Stanford, she helped to prepare the U.S. women for the 2000 Olympic qualifying tournament in Italy. The 2000 Summer Olympics in Sydney, where the U.S. won the silver medal, marked the first time women's water polo had been in the Olympic games.

Ortwein, a former water polo and swimming standout in college, came to The Farm from the University of the Pacific, where she spent two years at the helm of the Tiger women's water polo program.

At Pacific in 1996, Ortwein became the head coach of the school's first women's water polo team. Successful in establishing a competitive program, she completed her final year (1997) by guiding the Tigers to a 10-14 record, doubling the win total of the inaugural campaign, thus establishing Pacific's place among the nation's top competitors.

Ortwein's coaching career began at her alma mater UC Santa Barbara. She served as a graduate assistant coach for the Gaucho swim team in 1990-91 and as a women's water polo assistant in 1992-93.

In college, Ortwein was one of the top water polo players in UCSB history. A four-time All-American, she was instrumental in two Gaucho national championships (1987 and 1989) and one runner-up finish (1988). She was also an accomplished swimmer, helping UCSB to the Big West Conference title all four years.

She continued her water polo career with the U.S. National Team upon graduation. A national team member in 1991-92, she helped lead the U.S. to a third-place finish at the 1991 FINA World Cup.

Ortwein, a San Diego native, earned a bachelor's degree in sociology from UC Santa Barbara in 1990 and a master's degree in sport science in 1997 from Pacific.

Headlines From Athens

Game-high Three Goals from Ellen Estes Lifts Team USA to 6-5 Win over Australia

U.S. center Ellen Estes (Novato, CA/Stanford) gave her all. It took three goals from the veteran Olympian to propel the U.S. women to bronze, beating Australia 6-5.

"I was just thinking about what I could do to help the team," Estes said of her three-goal performance. "I was trying to perform in my role...trying to do everything possible to make sure we won the game."

Team USA Guarantees a Play for a Medal with 8-4 Win; Jackie Frank Tallies 14 Saves in Goal

Jackie Frank, 2004 Olympian.

U.S. goalie Jackie Frank (Long Beach, CA/Stanford) had a phenomenal game in the cage, racking up a whopping 14 saves for Team USA. The 14-save performance stands as Frank's highest total in goal for Team USA in major competition since notching 14 in a semifinal win over Canada at the 2002 World Cup in Perth, Australia.

"Jackie played well the entire game. We never expect to come into these games and get the kinds of leads that we have." U.S. Head Coach Guy Baker said.

USA Women Blow Past Greece in Pre-Olympic Contest, 10-3

Dingeldein went crosscage, bar-in to snag a 5-2 advantage for the U.S. women two minutes away from halftime.

Villa, Dingeldein, and Estes each scored two goals in the win for the U.S., contributing 60% of Team USA's goals. Frank had five saves in two quarters of play in the cage.

Brenda Villa Leads Team USA with Four Goals to Slip Past Hungary in Olympic Opener, 7-6

"Brenda's first goal set the tone," Baker said. "In the first game of any tournament there's going to be nerves. You start to settle down after the tournament gets going, but I think she was a good example. She's been playing at such a high level consistently for such a long time. I think that she may have been the best player in the world this year."

Margie Dingeldein, 2004 Olympian.

Team USA relied on the sure hands of Villa once again during a 6-on-5 situation in which a block by Villa prevented a goal by Hungary.

Stanford players accounted for 14 of the 31 goals scored by team USA, and averaged 4.7 goals each, as compared to 2.8 goals per player for the team as a whole. Stanford athletes played 20:25 on average per game, almost 3 quarters of each game. As a team, USA players averaged just over 15 minutes per game.

Stanford University captured its 10th consecutive United States Sports Academy NCAA Division I Directors' Cup in 2003-04, which is presented annually by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) to the best overall collegiate athletic program in the country.

The Cardinal clinched the Directors' Cup with a total of 1337.3 points, surpassing runner-up Michigan by 111 points. Stanford won its 10th straight Directors' Cup on the strength of three national championships (men's cross country, women's cross country and women's tennis), a total of 13 teams finishing among the top five in national competition, and 21 teams placing in the top 10.

Stanford teams placing in the Top 10 were men's cross country (1st), women's cross country (1st), women's tennis (1st), men's water polo (2nd), men's swimming (2nd), women's gymnastics (3rd), softball (tie, 3rd), women's water polo (3rd), men's gymnastics (4th), synchronized swimming (4th), women's basketball (tie, 5th), women's swimming (5th), men's tennis (tie, 5th), women's track (6th), women's indoor track (7th), women's sailing (7th), lightweight crew (8th), women's volleyball (tie, 9th), men's fencing (10th), women's fencing (10th) and coed sailing (10th).

Developed as a joint effort between USA Today and NACDA, the Directors' Cup program is the only all-sports competition that recognizes the institution in each of the four categories with the best overall athletics program.

Stanford Athletics Home of Champions

Two-time Olympic water polo player Brenda Villa was nominated as a finalist for Sportswoman of the Year in 2004 by the Women's Sports Foundation.

Home of Champions." Those are the bywords for the Stanford University Athletic Department.

And for good reason. No athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished since the 1980s. NCAA team champions. NCAA individual champions. Olympic medalists. Stanford University athletes have been all over the world capturing championships.

The statistics speak for themselves: Stanford University has won 72 NCAA team championships since 1980, the most in the nation; Cardinal athletes have won 49 NCAA championships since 1990 – again the most in the nation. Stanford has brought home 27 NCAA championship trophies the past seven years, including an unprecedented six NCAA team titles in 1996-97. In 1991-92, Stanford athletes took home 29 individual NCAA titles – an NCAA record. Cardinal athletes won 21 individual championships during the 1992-93 season, the second most in history.

Even more impressive is Stanford's string of 10 consecutive United States Sports Academy Directors' Cup titles (1995-04). The award honors the nation's top overall athletic program and with nine straight #1 finishes, it's no wonder Stanford is considered the dominant athletic program in the nation.

Stanford captured its 10th straight Directors' Cup in 2003-04 with 1337.25 points, winning the honor by 111 points over second place Michigan. The Cardinal won a total of three NCAA team crowns with championships in men's and women's cross country and women's tennis and had top-five finishes in men's water polo, women's basketball, men's swimming, women's swimming, men's gymnastics, women's gymnastics, synchronized swimming, softball, men's tennis and women's water polo.

A total of 13 Stanford teams finished among the nation's Top Five and 21 among the Top 10. The Cardinal also picked up eight individual NCAA titles and 11 team conference championships in 2003-04.

Stanford captured its 10th straight Directors' Cup in 2003-04 with 1337.25 points, winning the honor by 111 points over second place Michigan. Tiger Woods is one of the PGA's most successful golfers with victories in all four Major events.

Stanford has now won at least one NCAA team championship for 28 straight years. Cardinal teams have also won four or more NCAA team titles in a single year nine times, an NCAA best.

All totaled, Stanford has won 99 collegiate team titles (89 NCAA championships) and 386 NCAA individual titles. Cardinal women have won an NCAA-best 32 team championships while men's teams have captured 57 NCAA team titles, third best in the nation. Overall, Stanford's 89 NCAA team championships rank second in the nation.

In the last 11 years (since 1993-94), Stanford has claimed 39 national team championships and 35 NCAA team titles – the best in the country.

During the 2002-03 campaign, Stanford teams captured two NCAA team championships, 14 conference titles and had 24 teams finish among the nation's top-10 as it won its ninth straight Directors' Cup by a wide margin over Texas.

Stanford was equally impressive in 2001-02, winning four NCAA team championships and the Directors' Cup once again. The Cardinal took home national titles in women's volleyball, men's water polo, women's water polo and women's tennis, placed 11 teams in the top-five and 21 in the top-10.

In 1999-2000, Stanford's football team won the Pacific-10 Conference championship and played in the Rose Bowl for the first time in 28 years, while the men's basketball team earned a No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament, tied for the conference title, finished 27-4 overall and held the nation's No. 1 ranking during the season. The Cardinal baseball team followed by sharing the Pac-10 crown and advancing to the College World Series, marking the first time in history that a school won Pac-10 championships in football, men's basketball and baseball in the same year.

Stanford has also enjoyed unequalled success in Olympic competition.

At the 2004 Olympics, Stanford's athletes and coaches competed at the site of the original Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. Stanford was represented by 42 affiliates, bringing home a total of 17 medals. If Stanford were a country, it would have placed 16th in the medal count with 3 gold, 7 silver, and 7 bronze medals.

At the 2000 Summer Games in Sydney, Australia, Stanford University was represented by a total of 34 athletes and coaches. The Cardinal contingent won a total of 10 medals – four gold, three silver and three bronze.

At the 1996 Games in Atlanta, Stanford placed 49 coaches and athletes on Olympic Teams, including three head United States Olympic coaches (Tara VanDerveer, women's basketball; Richard Quick, women's swimming; Skip Kenney, men's swimming). Stanford athletes accounted for 16 gold medals, one silver and one bronze in Atlanta.

At the 1992 Games in Barcelona, Cardinal athletes earned 19 medals – 10 gold, four silver and five bronze. Thirty-eight Stanford-affiliated athletes and coaches participated in Barcelona while 41 members of the Cardinal family took part in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea.

National titles have become quite commonplace in the Stanford Athletic Department. In 1996-97, Cardinal teams set an NCAA record by winning six NCAA team championships in a single academic year: men's and women's cross country, men's and women's volleyball and men's and women's tennis. Nine other teams finished in the Top Four nationally, including second place finishes in women's swimming, men's swimming, men's water polo and women's synchronized swimming. Stanford also posted third place finishes in women's basketball, baseball and fencing, as well as fourth place finishes in women's golf and women's water polo.

The 1997-98 school year saw Stanford win six national team titles in men's cross country, women's volleyball, men's swimming, women's swimming and men's tennis along with a U.S. Collegiate title in synchronized swimming. Also, 14 teams finished among the nation's Top Five, 19 in the Top 10 and 22 in the Top 20. Other teams finishing among the Top Five nationally included men's basketball, which made its first Final Four appearance in 56 years, women's tennis, men's water polo, women's water polo and fencing.

During the 1998-99 campaign, Stanford won one NCAA team title in women's tennis and one U.S. Collegiate Championship in synchronized swimming while seven teams placed second in the nation. In 1999-2000, Stanford won two NCAA team championships (men's tennis, men's track and field) and placed second nationally in six other sports. The 2000-01 campaign saw the Cardinal win one NCAA championship (women's tennis) and have 15 other teams place among the nation's top five.

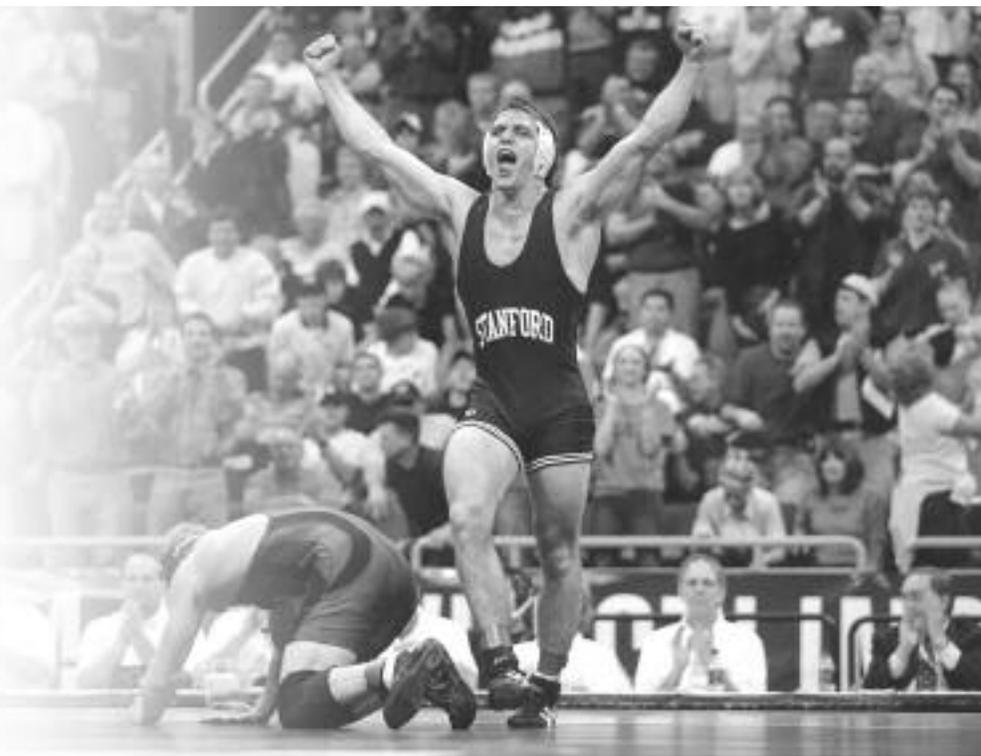

Stanford has won 160 conference or regional titles since 1991, again the best in the country. Cardinal teams won a record 18 conference or regional championships in '98-99 - by far the best performance of any school in the nation.

Not only has the Cardinal won an NCAA record six NCAA team championships in a single season (1996-97), but it has also won five NCAA titles in a single year on three occasions: 1991-92, '94-95 and '97-98. Cardinal teams have won four championships in a single academic year on five occasions: 1985-86, '86-87, '92-93, '93-94 and 2001-02.

Stanford has simply dominated in several sports. Under head coach Dick Gould, the Cardinal men's tennis team has won 17 NCAA titles while the women's team has hauled in 14 national titles, including 10 under former head coach Frank Brennan and three in the last four years under current coach Lele Forood. The men's swimming program has won eight NCAA team championships, seven under current head coach Skip Kenney while the men's water polo team has captured 11 national titles.

The Cardinal women's swimming team has won nine national titles, seven under current head coach Richard Quick. Quick has been the head coach for the United States Olympic Swimming teams in 1988 (Seoul), 1996 (Atlanta) and 2000 (Sydney.) Tara VanDerveer, the 1996 United States Olympic Head Women's Basketball Coach, has led the Cardinal to two NCAA championships and five appearances in the Final Four.

Baseball coach Mark Marquess, who was the head coach of the gold medal winning 1988 United States Olympic baseball team, led the Cardinal to back-to-back College World Series titles in 1987 and '88. Former men's gymnastics coach Sadao Hamada led the Cardinal to three NCAA championships, current men's volleyball coach Don Shaw guided the Stanford women's volleyball program to four NCAA titles in the 1990s and current head women's volleyball coach John Dunning guided the Cardinal to an NCAA title in his first season in 2001 and a second in 2004. Former men's golf coach Wally Goodwin led his team to the NCAA title in 1994, the first men's golf title at Stanford since 1953. Former Director of Track Vin Lananna joined the championship parade in 1996 by leading both his men's and women's cross country teams to national titles. He came back in 1997 to lead his men's cross country team to another NCAA title and in 2000, his men's track and field team won the first national championship in track at Stanford since 1934. Lananna also led the men's cross country program to the 2003 NCAA Championship.

Olympic gold medalists are numerous on The Farm. Former Cardinal standout Bob Mathias won back-to-back Olympic decathlon gold medals in 1948 and '52 while swimmers Pablo Morales, Jenny Thompson, Summer Sanders, Janet Evans and Misty Hyman have become household names in the swimming world.

Morales, who helped Stanford win three straight NCAA team championships (1985-87), won three medals at the '84 Games in Los Angeles (one gold, two silver) and two more gold medals at the '92 Games in Barcelona. Evans won three golds in the '88 Games in Seoul and one gold and one silver in Barcelona, while Sanders won four medals in Barcelona; two gold, one silver and one bronze. Thompson is the most decorated athlete in Olympic history with eight gold medals, a silver and a bronze. Hyman added her name to the list of Stanford swimming greats by winning the 2000 Olympic Gold Medal in the 200 meter butterfly to pull off one of the biggest upsets of the Sydney Olympiad.

Some of the great student-athletes in Stanford history include Tiger Woods and Tom Watson (golf), John McEnroe, Roscoe Tanner and Tim Mayotte (men's tennis), Kim Oden and Kristin Klein (women's volleyball), Kristin Folk (basketball/volleyball), Jack McDowell and Mike Mussina (baseball), Julie Foudy (women's soccer), Hank Luisetti, Brevin Knight and Mark Madsen (men's basketball), Jennifer Azzi and Kate Starbird (women's basketball), Jim Plunkett, John Elway and Troy Walters (football), Debi Thomas (figure skating), Eric Heiden (speed skating) and the great Ernie Nevers (football), to name a few.

It's no wonder Stanford University is often referred to as the "NCAA's Champion of Champions."

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Stanford University The University at a Glance

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is an hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few miles north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, sports facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Paris, Kyoto, Santiago, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, and Moscow.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers approximately 1,700 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. It includes 17 Nobel laureates, 4 Pulitzer Prize winners, 21 National Medal of Science winners, 124 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 219 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 83 members of the National Academy of Engineering, and 24 members of the National Academy of Education. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Seventy-six Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars and 52 have been named Marshall Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 34 Division I varsity sports – equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 98 national team titles, 48 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games and 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney – by far the most of any university in the nation. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care." Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day ... At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research."

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.
