A wealth of Stanford Basketball information can be accessed online at gostanford.com. Live internet radio broadcasts, a Gametracker featuring live in-game stats, news releases, up-to-date team and individual stats, player profiles, historical information and much more about Stanford Basketball and all Stanford Athletics teams is available via the internet at gostanford.com.

Directions/Parking: Most home Stanford Athletics events are held on campus in one of the facilities near the Stanford Athletics offices at 641 East Campus Drive (between Maples Pavilion and the Taube Family Tennis Stadium) in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center.

- Off Highway 101: Use the Embarcadero Road exit and head west on Embarcadero Road. After crossing El Camino Real, you will be on the Stanford campus and the road becomes Galvez Drive. Take your second left onto Campus Drive and the Stanford Athletics offices will be located about 1/8 of a mile on your left in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center.
- Off Interstate 280: Use the Page Mill Road exit and head east. Turn left onto El Camino Real and then left again onto Galvez Drive. Take second left onto Campus Drive and the Stanford Athletics offices will be located about 1/8 of a mile on your left in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center.
- Parking: There are several parking lots in the vicinity of the Stanford Athletics offices and facilities that are free of charge after 4:00 pm on weekdays and all day Saturday and Sunday. There is also visitor pay parking at the Trackhouse Lot on the corners of Campus and Galvez, as well as metered parking in several other nearby parking areas.

Gametracker/Live Stats: A live statistical account of every home baseball, basketball, football, softball, swimming and tennis contest is scheduled to be available online at www.gostanford.com. Additional home and away events may also be available. Check www.gostanford.com for schedules.

Interview Policy: Media members should inform the media relations contact which players are requested for postgame interviews. For postgame interviews with opponents, please contact the media relations contact representing the visiting team. For all other non-gameday Stanford interviews, please contact the media relations sports contact to arrange a convenient time for all parties.

Media Credentials: Requests for all media credentials should be addressed to Assistant Media Relations Director Brian Risso via e-mail (brisso@stanford.edu), fax (650-725-2957), or phone (650-723-4418) at least 48 hours prior to the event. Single sport season credentials will be available to media covering men's basketball, women's basketball or football on a regular basis and issued at the discretion of the media relations contact. Single-game credentials will also be available for those media members covering men's basketball, women's basketball or football occasionally, or for media of visiting teams in those sports. Requests will be mailed when time permits. Otherwise, credentials will be left in the Will Call booth at the northwest entrance of Maples Pavilion.

NBA Scouting Tickets: According to Pac-10 regulations, NBA professional scouts must purchase tickets for Stanford basketball games. Contact the Stanford ticket office at (650) 723-1021 or (800) STANFORD to purchase tickets for scouting purposes.

Photography Guidelines: All editorial photo requests are handled by David Gonzales, Director of Photography via e-mail at dgonzales@stanford.edu. The requestor shall forward the following information: requesting editor or writer's name and email address, organization or publication name, deadline information, and a sentence regarding the scope of the story. To request photo credentials see the Media Credentials section. The searchable, online photography archives are viewable at http://www.stanfordphoto.com. Advertising and other commercial or non-athletic photography projects require special permission from the Office of University Communications. Permission to shoot in interior spaces is required in all circumstances. This includes administration and office buildings, classrooms, laboratories, dormitories and residences. Also covered under this rule are inside dining areas, private or public.

Postgame Interviews: Approximately 10 minutes after each home game, head coach Trent Johnson and select requested players will be available for in the media workroom, which is on the floor level at the south end of Maples Pavilion. There will also be an opportunity for one-on-one interviews in certain circumstances. The visiting head coach will also be brought into the media workroom either just before or just after Johnson – depending upon the game's outcome and visiting team travel arrangements.

Practices: Please call the media relations office in advance to confirm practice times. Note that practice times are subject to change.

Press Conferences: Head coach Trent Johnson will hold a weekly press conference in the media workroom at Maples Pavilion during the season. Please contact Assistant Media Relations Director Brian Risso to confirm dates and times. Select players will also be available at the press conference. If Stanford holds a teleconference, the phone number is (650) 723-2400.

Press Services: Press releases, gameday programs, media guides, starting lineups and other relevant media materials will be provided to members of the media. An NCAA box score and play-by-play will be available approximately 10 minutes after the conclusion of each game. In addition, drinks and food (for selected teams and games) will be provided to credentialed members of the media.

Stanford on the Radio

KNTS 1220 AM is the radio home of Stanford men's basketball. Dave Flemming handles the play-by-play duties while John Platz provides analysis.

Flemming, who also serves as Stanford's play-by-play voice for football broadcasts, begins his first season with the men's basketball program. A 1998 Stanford graduate, Flemming has had a rapid rise in the broadcasting world and is currently in the midst of his fourth season on the San Francisco Giants broadcast team. He is still currently the youngest full-time broadcaster in Major League Baseball at the age of 31.

Flemming's career behind the microphone began when he was an undergraduate at Stanford on student radio station KZSU, broadcasting baseball, men's and women's basketball, and football games while also serving as Sports Director.

John Platz, a reserve guard on the Stanford men's basketball team from 1983-84, enters his 19th season as the color commentator.

Platz was the radio play-by-play voice of the NCAA champion Stanford baseball team during the 1988 and 1989 seasons, and he has also served as a fill-in Stanford football play-by-play announcer and football color commentator at various times since 1993.

A 1984 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Stanford with a degree in economics, Platz earned J.D. (law) and M.B.A. degrees at Stanford in 1989. He is currently Senior Counsel at Cisco Systems.

KZSU 90.1 FM serves as the student radio station home for all Stanford sports. Daniel Novinson (play-by-play) and Ben Spielberg (color) make up the broadcast team.

2007-08 OUTLOOK

STANFORD BASKETBALL

A solid mix of experienced veterans and talented underclassmen has the Stanford men's basketball program poised for a breakthrough campaign in 2007-08. The Cardinal returns 12 letterwinners and its entire starting lineup from last year's squad, which achieved its 14th consecutive postseason appearance.

Stanford is coming off an 18-13 overall campaign that ended with a first round loss to Louisville in the NCAA Tournament. The Cardinal posted a 10-8 record in Pac-10 play, finishing sixth overall in what was considered by many to be one of the strongest conferences in the country. In addition to an 8-2 start, Stanford cracked the national rankings in late January and recorded impressive wins over the likes of Texas Tech, Virginia, Washington State, Oregon and UCLA.

This year's club hopes to duplicate that success and build upon the tradition of a program that ranks as one of college basketball's finest.

And the pieces remain in place, with graduated seniors Carlton Weatherby and Chris Bobel representing the only departures.

Instead, all-conference selections Lawrence Hill and Brook Lopez will highlight a squad that hopes to challenge in the competitive Pac-10. With a total of seven upperclassmen leading the charge, the Cardinal appears ready to emerge as a contender. The national media has taken notice as well, with Stanford projected as a preseason top-25 program by numerous publications.

The following is a position-by-position breakdown of where the Cardinal stands entering the 2007-08 campaign.

Center

Fresh off an impressive rookie season, sophomore Robin Lopez returns to anchor the middle for the Cardinal. One of three players to start every game, the 7-foot Lopez averaged 7.5 points and 5.5 rebounds and proved to be an intimidating presence down low. His 73 blocked shots led the squad and ranked second only to Curtis Borchardt's 85 swats during the 2001-02 season.

"Robin was one of the best shot-blockers at his position in our conference," said head coach Trent Johnson. "Offensively, he continues to get better. The key for him will be to relax and stay consistent all year."

Senior Peter Prowitt provides additional leadership and depth for the Cardinal at this spot. Prowitt was used in 18 contests last year and averaged 1.2 points and 1.2 rebounds per game. His size at 6-10 and ability to defend will become valuable to the squad when Lopez is out of the lineup.

"If Peter is healthy, he can really help us," stated Johnson. "Peter gives us rebounding and a physical presence in the post."

Fellow senior Taj Finger, a 6-8 forward, can be shuffled into the rotation as well depending on the matchup. Finger played in all 31 contests as a reserve last year, averaging 3.9 points and 2.9 rebounds per games. One of the more consistent free throw shooters on the squad last year, Finger also blocked 15 shots.

"Taj provides defensive energy and he is a good teammate who understands his role," Johnson said. "It's his senior year and we need him to stay healthy and provide depth in the post."

Forwards

Sophomore Brook Lopez opened plenty of eyes with a tremendous rookie year that resulted in All-Pac-10 Honorable Mention and All-Pac-10 Freshman Team accolades. The 7-foot Lopez posted 12.6 points and 6.0 rebounds per game while shooting 49.6-percent from the field in addition to blocking 45 shots. After missing some time early in the year following surgery, Lopez quickly asserted himself as one of the Cardinal's most dangerous and versatile scoring threats.

"The sky is the limit for Brook," said Johnson. "Brook's approach to everything he does on and off the court must improve and if he can develop consistency in those areas, he has a chance to be a special player."

Junior Lawrence Hill, Stanford's other All-Pac-10 selection, will be counted on for additional production and versatility. Last year, Hill led the Cardinal in scoring (15.7 ppg), rebounding (6.0 rpg) and three-point field goal percentage (41.0) while starting every game. His 33 blocked shots and 22 steals provide a snapshot of what he can contribute on defense.

"Lawrence has improved from year to year more than any other player in the program," said Johnson. "However, he will not have the luxury of surprising anyone this year. I expect Lawrence to be someone that our opponents will have to be aware of at all times."

One of three seniors on this year's squad, Fred Washington is coming off a season in which he started a career-best 31 games. Washington averaged 8.2 points and 5.2 rebounds in 30.2 minutes of playing time last year. A 62.9-percent free throw shooter, Washington's 52.1 field goal percentage and 113 assists were team-bests. His ability to make an impact in all stat categories immensely helps the Cardinal.

"Fred did a little bit of everything for us last year," added Johnson. "He was instrumental and did all the little things for us such as rebounding, defense, etc. Fred is probably one of the most underrated players in the conference."

Sophomore Will Paul and freshman Josh Owens will see time off the bench. Paul participated in 17 games last year and averaged 5.7 minutes of playing time. The only freshman on this year's roster, Owens will be used in certain spots as he continues to make the transition from high school to Division 1.

"Will has the ability to play an important role for our team and we hope he works hard to maximize his potential," said Johnson. "Josh might remind Stanford fans of Justin Davis. He is an explosive player and his athleticism and quickness at the four position will help us out."

Guards

Junior Anthony Goods enjoyed a solid season for the Cardinal last year, averaging 12.8 points and 3.2 rebounds per game. Goods started 24 of the 25 games he played in and connected on a team-best 60 triples while dishing out 58 assists. The coaching staff is excited about the prospect of having Goods available for a full season.

"Anthony's injury hurt us last year more than any other injury," said Johnson. "He can play at the 1 or the 2, and he will look to build off an impressive sophomore year."

Sophomore Landry Fields has impressed early in the fall and should receive additional playing time as a result. He competed in 30 games last year- all off the bench. Fields averaged 4.2 points and 2.5 rebounds per game while showing touch from beyond the arc with 20 three-pointers. His size and athleticism make for an interesting matchup for opponents.

"Landry had a good summer and foreign tour, as he shot the ball well," noted Johnson. "He continues to grow and get stronger. We fully expect Landry to have a breakthrough year."

One constant on the floor last year at the guard spot was junior Mitch Johnson. Running the point in 31 games with 20 starts, Johnson followed up a terrific freshman campaign with a sophomore season that included 103 assists and a team-best 29 steals. He also averaged 4.3 points and 2.8 rebounds per game in 2006-07.

"Mitch will have the same role," said Johnson. "He will be our floor leader. Mitch enjoyed a good spring and summer, so we expect him to be solid once again."

Junior Kenny Brown played in 23 games last year off the bench and a similar role is envisioned this year. Brown averaged 3.8 points per game in just under 10 minutes of playing time per contest. Brown also knocked down 18 treys.

"Kenny is an good shooter and will play the 2," Johnson said. "He will provide us with defensive energy off the bench."

Sophomore Da'Veed Dildy saw playing time in 11 games last year and will continue to come off the bench.

"We moved Da'Veed from the 1 to the 2," said Johnson. "He got stronger in addition to being tough defensively and a good passer coming off the bench."

Sophomore Drew Shiller, a transfer from San Francisco, will also get an opportunity to share some minutes at the point guard position. Shiller did not play last year due to NCAA transfer rules. In his most recent season of 2005-06, Shiller averaged 4.4 points and 1.3 assists per game in 28 tilts with the Dons.

"Drew got an opportunity to play on the foreign tour after not playing basketball for a year," said Johnson. "He is a good shooter who gives us added depth in the backcourt."

STANFORD BASKETBALL

Trent Johnson

Anthony B. Joseph Director of Basketball
Boise State (1983)

In naming Trent Johnson as its 16th head coach in school history on May 25, 2004, Stanford found the perfect blend of character and ability to continue its dual mission of being one of the elite universities and basketball programs in the country.

Johnson's coaching acumen, recruiting savvy and personal integrity, combined with his familiarity of Stanford and its culture have made him the perfect fit to continue building upon Stanford's significant basketball legacy.

Highly-regarded nationally for his abilities and accomplishments, Johnson also fits the Stanford philosophy by structuring the program to proactively mentor, teach and develop his student-athletes in order to help them realize both their athletic and life goals.

Johnson, a Stanford assistant coach for three seasons from 1996-99, has made an immediate impact since returning to The Farm. He is the only head coach in school history to guide the Cardinal to the postseason in each of his first three seasons, with a 2005-06 NIT berth sandwiched between a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances.

Prior to returning to Stanford, Johnson revitalized the program at Nevada during his five-year tenure from 1999-2004. During a memorable 2003-04 season, Johnson led Nevada to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen for the first time in school history as the Wolf Pack tied a school record with 25 wins (25-9). Nevada posted upset victories in the 2004 NCAA Tournament over Michigan State and Gonzaga before being edged by eventual national runner-up Georgia Tech in a regional semifinal game. Nevada also tied for a share of the WAC regular season crown for the first time in school history and captured the WAC Tournament Championship.

Last season's Cardinal squad reached the NCAA Tournament for the 15th time in school history and second in Johnson's tenure. Stanford finished 18-13 overall while taking sixth place overall with a 10-8 mark in arguably the nation's toughest conference. The Cardinal raced out to an 8-2 start and registered a number of quality wins over the likes of Oregon, Texas Tech, USC, Virginia (only loss at home) and Washington State. In addition to posting wins over five top-25 clubs, the biggest victory of the season took place at Maples Pavilion on Jan. 28, when Stanford overcame a 17-point first-half deficit and dispatched of No. 2 UCLA 75-68. Lawrence Hill represented the Cardinal on the All-Pac-10 squad while Brook Lopez enjoyed an impressive rookie season as he garnered All-Pac-10 Honorable Mention honors in addition to being named to the Pac-10 All-Freshman Team.

Johnson's 2005-06 club posted a 16-14 overall record and an 11-7 mark in conference play culminating with a postseason invite to the NIT. Johnson and his staff developed two players recognized as First Team All-Pac-10 honorees: Chris Hernandez and Matt Haryasz. In addition, Mitch Johnson was named Pac-10 All-Freshman Honorable Mention. During the season, Haryasz earned two Pac-10 Player of the Week accolades while Hernandez picked up another. On the academic front, Hernandez and Dan Grunfeld were tabbed First Team Pac-10 All-Academic selections while Taj Finger and Peter Prowitt were Second Team recipients. Grunfeld added to his academic honors when he was tabbed a CoSIDA/ESPN The Magazine Academic All-American.

In Johnson's first season on The Farm, he displayed his leadership and acumen in the face of adversity as Stanford dealt with a season-ending injury to its leading scorer while having only nine healthy players able to compete at the end of the year. Despite the obstacles, Johnson helped lead the Cardinal to its 11th consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance. With an 18-13 overall record and a third place finish at 11-7 in the Pac-10, Johnson mentored three players to All-Pac-10 honors: Chris Hernandez (First Team), Dan Grunfeld (First Team) and Matt Haryasz (Honorable Mention). Hernandez and Grunfeld were also honored as First Team NABC District-14 selections. In addition to the numerous accolades earned on the court, several student-athletes were recognized for their work in the classroom. Grunfeld was honored as a 2005 ESPN The Magazine Second Team Academic All-American selection while four of the five First Team Pac-10 All-Academic spots were awarded to Cardinal players (Grunfeld, Hernandez, Rob Little and Nick Robinson). Jason Haas was named a Second Team selection as well.

Trent Johnson is one of the top basketball coaches in the country. He is no stranger to success, having helped lead Stanford to its 14th consecutive postseason appearance and the Nevada Wolf Pack to the 2004 WAC Championship and the NCAA Sweet 16.

"Stanford represents a unique opportunity to develop truly gifted student-athletes at the highest level of competition. Stanford symbolizes the best of both worlds – academics and athletics – in a supportive setting that provides our guys with a special experience that will position them for life-long success."

Johnson displayed his coaching and recruiting expertise as he transformed a struggling Nevada program to a conference powerhouse and national contender. Prior to Johnson's arrival, Nevada had made just two NCAA Tournament appearances in school history and never won an NCAA Tournament game. His success included the recruitment and development of standouts Kirk Snyder and Nick Fazekas. Snyder, named the WAC Player of the Year and Honorable Mention All-American as a junior, was the 16th player chosen in the 2004 NBA Draft by the Utah Jazz and is now playing for the Houston Rockets. Fazekas, a three-time All-American and three-time WAC Player of the Year, was one three players in the country to average at least 20 points and 10 rebounds last year. He finished his career as Nevada's leading scorer and second-leading rebounder before being drafted by the Dallas Mavericks in the 2007 NBA Draft.

In 2002-03, CollegeInsider.com named Johnson the WAC Coach of the Year when the Wolf Pack received an NIT bid and finished with an 18-14 record. Johnson also guided Nevada to the championship game of the 2003 WAC Tournament.

Johnson's three prior seasons as an assistant coach at Stanford coincided with the start of one of the most successful runs in school history. The Cardinal made an appearance in the NCAA Final Four for the second time in school history (1997-98), reached the NCAA Sweet Sixteen (1996-97, 1997-98) and captured the Pac-10 title (1998-99), while chalking up a dominating 78-20 overall record.

During this time, Johnson contributed to the development and recruitment of some of Stanford's greatest players. Future NBAers Brevin Knight, Mark Madsen, Casey Jacobsen and Jarron and Jason Collins highlight this group.

Trent and Jackie Johnson

Before this three-year stint at Stanford, Johnson spent four years at as an assistant coach at Rice from 1992-96. During his tenure with the Owls, Rice made one of its few postseason appearances by playing in the NIT.

Johnson also served as an assistant coach at Washington from 1989-92. His 1991-92 recruiting class included two of the top five newcomers in the Pac-10, including Freshman of the Year Mark Pope.

Johnson began his Division 1 collegiate coaching career at Utah from 1986-89, where he established his reputation as a top recruiter. He signed Josh Grant, the 1990 WAC Most Valuable Player and Naismith Award finalist. He was also responsible for recruiting Jimmy Soto, a finalist for the Little Big Man Award. In addition, the Utes made two trips to the NIT during Johnson's three seasons in Salt Lake City.

Johnson also achieved a high level of success coaching at the high school level, serving as the head coach at Boise High School from 1980-85 and leading the team to the Idaho state title in 1980.

During his successful playing career at Boise State (1974-78), Johnson finished in the top-10 in scoring and rebounding. In his sophomore season (1975-76), the Broncos won the Big Sky Tournament and advanced to the NCAA Tournament. The following year (1976-77), Johnson was named Boise State's Most Improved Player and, as a senior, he was the team's Most Inspirational Player. Johnson also earned All-Big Sky honors in his final season in Boise. It also was at Boise State that Johnson established his long relationship with his former boss at Stanford, Mike Montgomery, who served as an assistant coach on the Broncos staff at the time. Johnson earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education from Boise State in 1983.

Johnson also played professionally for the Washington Lumberjacks of the Western Basketball League.

Johnson currently serves on the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) Special Committee on Recruiting and Access. This committee is comprised of a select group of prominent coaches who suggest ways to provide a more equitable and informational recruiting process for the potential student-athlete and to enhance the educational opportunities for student-athletes while in college.

Johnson and his wife, Jackie, have two children: a daughter, Tinishia, 24, and a son, Terry, 21.

Doug Oliver enters his second year as an assistant coach at Stanford. This is his second stint with the Cardinal, having served in the same capacity from 1986-1998.

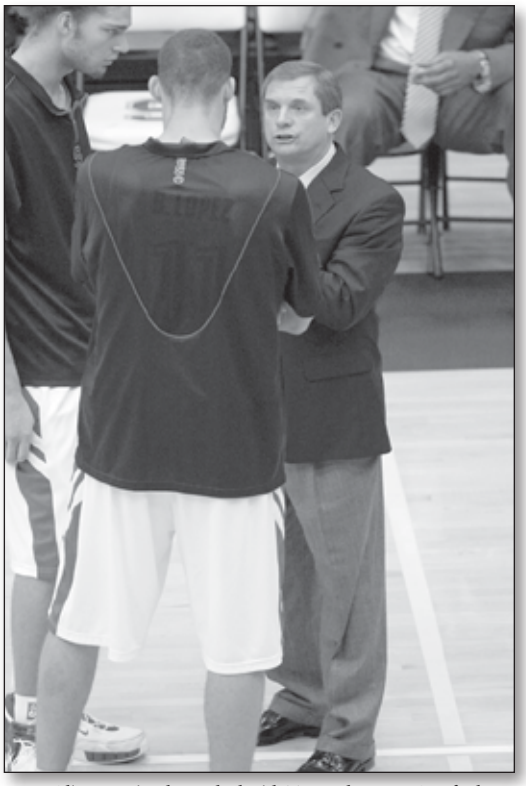

Oliver brings a wealth of experience with 34 years of coaching, including 27 in Division 1. The program's lead assistant, he made his return to The Farm last season and is responsible for the development of the Cardinal post players and team offensive strategy. Oliver's additional duties include scheduling and summer camps.

Prior to his second stint at Stanford, Oliver served as the head coach at Idaho State for eight years from 1998-2006. While at Idaho State, Oliver racked up the fifth most wins in program history and was the program's third-longest tenured coach. He led the Bengals to conference tournament semifinals and annually developed players who achieved all-conference honors and all-academic recognition. During the 2000-01 campaign, Idaho State won 10 conference games- the most for the school in Big Sky play in nearly 20 years.

Oliver previously spent 12 seasons as the top assistant at Stanford from 1986-1998. During that stretch, he worked with former head coach Mike Montgomery in turning the Cardinal into a perennial national contender. He was on staff with current head coach Trent Johnson in 1997-98 when the Cardinal advanced to the Final Four and finished with a 30-5 record.

While at Stanford, Oliver contributed to a total of 235 wins, including 124 victories in Pac-10 competition. During this time, Stanford qualified for the postseason 10 times, reaching the NCAA Tournament six times and qualifying for the NIT four years highlighted by the 1991 championship. Oliver coached Cardinal standouts such as Todd Lichti, Adam Keefe, Brevin Knight, Arthur Lee and Mark Madsen.

Before arriving at Stanford, Oliver had successful runs as an assistant coach at Utah and Boise State. While at Utah, he was part of the 1985-86 Ute team that finished 20-10 and claimed the WAC Championship and an NCAA Tournament berth.

Doug Oliver previously coached with Trent Johnson at Stanford when the Cardinal advanced to the 1998 NCAA Final Four.

At Boise State, Oliver replaced Mike Montgomery, who left to coach at Montana. Oliver served under Bus Connor and also coached Trent Johnson during his junior and senior years.

A San Jose native, Oliver began his coaching career at West Valley College and has been highly successful at the high school level with stops at Tulelake High School in California, Whitefish High School in Montana, Saratoga High School in Saratoga and Lynbrook High School in San Jose.

In addition, Oliver was named to the CollegeInsider.com Runway to the Fashion Four list of best-dressed coaches five times while at Idaho State.

Oliver received his B.S. in Physical Education from San Jose State in 1973.

Oliver and his wife, Debby, have four children and five grandchildren.

Cassidy, Debby, Doug and Roxy Oliver.

Donny Guerinoni begins his second year as an assistant coach at Stanford and fourth overall with the program.

After two years in a basketball operations role with the Cardinal program, Guerinoni was promoted to assistant coach last year. Guerinoni's responsibilities include recruiting, scouting and game preparation. In addition, he will focus on developing the guards in his role as their position coach.

Guerinoni has a strong history with head coach Trent Johnson, as he was Johnson's first recruit at Nevada. Johnson reached out to Guerinoni in 2004 by naming him to the Stanford coaching staff.

Prior to Stanford, Guerinoni served for two years as an assistant coach at his junior college alma mater, West Valley. During that time, Guerinoni worked under Danny Yoshikawa while attending graduate school at San Jose State.

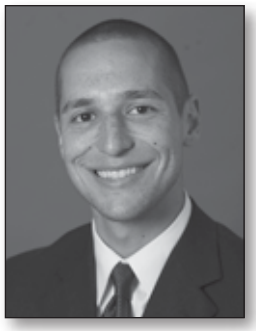

Donny Guerinoni enters his second year as an assistant coach.

A native of Sebastopol, Calif., Guerinoni earned league MVP and first team all-state honors while helping guide West Valley College to a pair of league championships under the tutelage of respected head coach Bob Burton.

At Nevada, Guerinoni was recognized as a WAC All-Academic selection and was the top three-point shooter for the Wolf Pack. Guerinoni's Wolf Pack career was highlighted by making seven of nine three-pointers in an 86-85 thriller against Montana on Nov. 25, 2000 – an effort that ranked as one of the top shooting performances in the country during that season.

Guerinoni received his B.A. in Business Marketing from Nevada in 2002.

Nick Robinson begins his second season as an assistant coach with the Cardinal.

One of the most respected players in recent Stanford basketball history, Robinson was promoted to an assistant coach in June 2006 after serving as the program's director of basketball operations.

Robinson is involved with recruiting, opponent scouting, game preparation and player development. In addition, he works as a position coach for the forwards.

During Robinson's playing days on The Farm, he was instrumental in guiding Stanford to an impressive 92-34 record, four trips to the NCAA Tournament, a Pac-10 title in 2003-04 and a No. 1 national ranking during the 2003-04 season. Known for his outstanding defensive play and leadership abilities, Robinson was named Best Defensive Player three times by his teammates.

A two-year starter for the Cardinal, Robinson's 107 career steals rank 11th-best in school history. He also served as a team captain for Stanford during his junior and senior seasons.

During the 2003-04 season, Robinson's game-winning shot against Arizona was nominated for the ESPY's "Best Moment" when he helped steal the ball, took two dribbles across half court and fired home a successful 35-foot three-point shot as time expired.

A native of Liberty, Mo., Robinson played in 110 games (67 as a starter) for the Cardinal from 2001-05 and displayed excellence on and off the court. Three times in his career, Robinson was named winner of the Howie Dallmar Coaches Award, presented to the Stanford student-athlete who displayed excellence on-and-off the court. He was also tabbed to the District VIII ESPN The Magazine University Division All-Academic First Team his senior year.

Nick Robinson is in his second season as an assistant coach under Trent Johnson.

Robinson, a three-time Pac-10 All-Academic selection, graduated from Stanford in 2005 with a master's degree in Sociology and a bachelor's degree in Political Science.

Robinson and his wife, Meagan, have one daughter, Annie Lee, who was born March 1, 2004.

Juan Pablo Reggiardo enters his fourth season as the strength and conditioning coach for the men's basketball and women's volleyball programs. Reggiardo designs and implements all aspects of the players' strength and speed development programs throughout the year in addition to overseeing their nutritional needs.

Reggiardo is also responsible for the training needs of the men's and women's sailing teams.

Prior to arriving at Stanford, Reggiardo served as Director of Athletics for the Riekes Center for Human Enhancement, a non-profit program for adolescents in Menlo Park.

At the Riekes Center, Reggiardo was responsible for overseeing the development of all of the programs within the athletic department, as well as directing its Pinnacle and Synergy programs, which serviced collegiate and professional athletes. Reggiardo worked at the Riekes Center since 1999 and served as Director of Athletics from 2002-2004.

Reggiardo received a B.S. in Physiological Sciences, with an emphasis in Exercise Physiology and Psychology, from Arizona in 1998. He is a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist through the National Strength and Conditioning Association, a United States Weightlifting Federation Certified Club Coach and a United States Track & Field Level 1 Coach.

Tomoo Yamada is currently in his fourth season as the athletic trainer for the men's basketball team and sixth overall at Stanford.

Yamada handles all the day-to-day medical needs of the men's basketball program. He also works with the men's golf program. Yamada began his career as an athletic trainer for two seasons at Santa Clara, where he worked with the women's soccer program during the 2001 NCAA Championship campaign.

Yamada received his Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training from Bridgewater State in Massachusetts in 1998. He also earned his Associate of Science degree from Vincennes University in Vincennes, Ind., in 1996. Upon finishing, he continued his education and received his Master of Science degree in Athletic Training and Sports Management from San Jose State in 2000.

Born in Tokyo, Japan, Yamada was previously a professional skier and ski instructor. He is also skilled in the fighting form of Gracie Jui Jitsu and has trained on the Shamrock Fighting Team. Yamada enjoys traveling, cooking and spending time with family and friends.

Yamada is married to the former Asako Suzuki. The couple has a daughter, Sophia, and resides in San Jose.

Chris Bobel

Video Coordinator/
Coaching Intern
Stanford (2007)

Chris Bobel begins his first season with the men's basketball program, serving as the team's Video Coordinator and Coaching Intern.

Bobel was a walk-on member of the Stanford men's basketball squad from 2006-2007, providing much enthusiasm, toughness and athleticism to the team. Bobel saw action in five contests off the bench last year, including a season-high five minutes against Denver on Nov. 25 as he knocked down a pair of free throws for his first collegiate points to go with two assists.

In his current role with the program, Bobel will coordinate film exchange and opponent scouting in addition to assisting with all other aspects of the Stanford men's basketball program.

"We are excited to have Chris join our staff," said head coach Trent Johnson. "He is an extremely hard worker who is familiar with our program. He approaches everything he does with a solid work ethic and that will help make him a tremendous asset to our coaching staff."

Prior to earning a jersey in his senior season with the Cardinal, Bobel served as the program's student recruiting coordinator during the 2005-06 campaign. Bobel was the head coach for the freshman team at Palo Alto High School and assisted with the varsity squad in 2004-05. In addition, he was an active and vocal member of the 6th Man Club during his first three years at Stanford.

A native of Palo Alto, Bobel is a 2002 graduate of Palo Alto High School. Bobel was a three-year letterwinner at Palo Alto High School, serving as the Vikings' captain during his junior and senior seasons. Bobel was a two-time SCVAL all-league selection and received the team's Most Inspirational and Coaches Award honors as a senior. Bobel averaged 12.0 points, 3.0 rebounds and 2.0 assists during his career.

George White

Director of External Relations
Harvard (1983)

George White enters his second season as the Director of External Relations for the men's basketball staff.

White is heavily involved with the marketing of the program including areas such as ticketing policy and promotion, community relations and fundraising and cultivation of key constituents. He also oversees the development and promotion of the Cage Club, 6th Man Club and all special events, as well as on and offline publications and initiatives.

White also coordinates interaction between the athletic and university administration and media and public relations. In addition to initiating the Career Development Program and lecturing at and assisting in the management of summer camps, he is involved with many operational aspects of the program.

White comes to The Farm from Rider University, where he served as an assistant coach in 2005-06. Before his stint at Rider, White spent two seasons as an assistant coach at Metropolitan State College, helping guide the Roadrunners to a No. 1 national ranking while reaching the NCAA Division II Final Four in 2004 and Elite Eight in 2005.

White also served as the head coach at Ursinus College, where he led the Bears to two consecutive playoff appearances. In his six seasons at the helm, four players scored over 1,000 career points, one earned All-America honors and all of his four-year players graduated.

A 1983 graduate of Harvard, White was a four-year letterwinner for the Crimson and served as team captain during his senior year. A two-year starter, White was named Harvard's Top Defensive Player.

A native of Philadelphia, Pa., White also served as an assistant coach at St. Joseph's University.

White has worked with the Denver Nuggets organization as Assistant to the President and scouted college players for the team. White also possesses significant management, marketing and finance experience outside of athletics.

Along with his wife, Barbara, White resides in San Mateo with their children, Hannah, Jacob and Dalton.

In June of 1934, the "Tiny Buck of the Month Club" was formed to raise the necessary funds from Stanford alumni and friends to pay the tuition costs for capable, worthy and needy student-athletes. As the Club's name implied, membership dues were one dollar per month and the word "tiny" was added to emphasize the modest amount and to honor head football coach, Claude "Tiny" Thornhill. The Club later shortened its name to the "Stanford Buck Club" and revised its initial membership dues requirement.

Until the mid-1970's, there were no athletic scholarships for women, nor was there any fundraising organization devoted to this purpose. To accomplish the task of raising scholarship funds for women, the Cardinal Club was formed in 1977-78.

Under the guidance of the Buck and Cardinal Club leadership, a merged Buck/Cardinal Club was formed in 1987 to raise funds for both men's and women's athletic scholarships. The new volunteer organization was built on the fine Buck and Cardinal Club traditions that served both organizations well.

In 2007, the Stanford Athletic Department provided full operating budgets to all 35 varsity sports. These budgets include all of the components necessary for our programs to compete at the Division I level. Because of this, none of our varsity sports will be required to fundraise for their basic operating budgets effective fiscal year 2008 (September 1, 2007).

These new budgets will be funded in large part by a more robust Buck/Cardinal Club, enabling our head coaches and their staffs to focus their time and energy on coaching and recruiting instead of fundraising for basic operating budgets. Our donors will receive Buck/Cardinal Club benefits commensurate with their generosity.

Under the new Stanford Athletics annual giving program, the Buck/Cardinal Club will not only include its great scholarship tradition, but also assist the department's coaches and staff in providing the resources needed to compete at the highest level of NCAA Division I athletics.

Instead of receiving solicitations from individual sports, donors and friends of Stanford Athletics will now receive a single solicitation from the Buck/Cardinal Club. By giving a gift to the Buck/Cardinal Club, the donor is giving both their favorite sport, and all of Stanford's varsity sports, the budget resources they need. Donors will also have the opportunity to let us know which sports are their favorites at the time of the donation, and sports will keep in touch with donors who specify interest in that specific program.

For more information on the Buck/Cardinal Club and giving to Stanford Athletics, please call (650) 724-9081 or visit www.gostanford.com/giving.

Stanford Athletic Scholarships

The following endowed athletic scholarships, named for the donor or for someone the donor wished to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 2007-08 men's basketball team. We thank our endowed scholarship donors for their outstanding support of Stanford Athletics.

The Shawn and Antoinette Addison Athletic Scholarship
The John Arrillaga Family Scholarships
The Tito and Cameron Bianchi Athletic Scholarship

WINNING
CARDINAL
STANFORD BASKETBALL

"... and here's Stanford, brilliantly coached, with a bunch of guys you can actually get to know after four years, always a good bet for the NCAA tournament, and everyone graduates. The very essence of the collegiate experience."
Bruce Jenkins, San Francisco Chronicle

First-team All-American Casey Jacobsen scored 49 points against Arizona State on January 31, 2002 – the second-highest scoring output in Stanford history.

Brevin Knight, one of the all-time great players in Stanford history, helped lead the Cardinal to three NCAA appearances and an NIT appearance. Knight ended his career as the school's career leader in assists and steals, and #4 in scoring.

Important Dates in Stanford Basketball History

February 14, 1918
Stanford scored its first victory over California, 22-18.

January 24, 1922
The Old Pavilion, predecessor of Maples Pavilion, was dedicated for basketball with a game against College of Pacific. Stanford won 30-21. At the time, it was the largest facility exclusively for basketball in the United States.

December 30, 1936
Hank Luisetti introduced the one-hand shot to the East Coast as Stanford defeated Long Island 45-31 before a crowd of 17,263 in New York's Madison Square Garden.

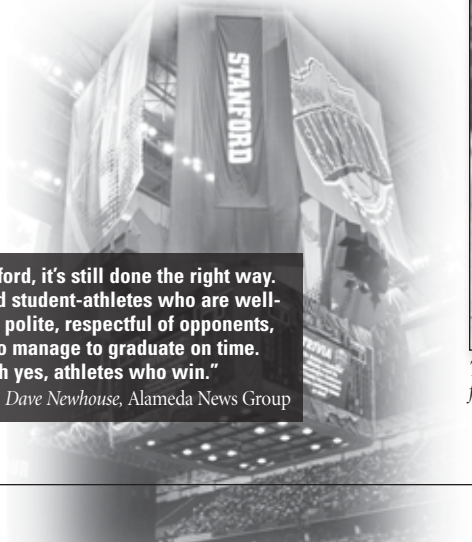

January 1, 1938
Hank Luisetti scored a school record 50 points against Duquesne in Cleveland, Ohio. Luisetti chalked up 23 field goals in the game, a school record. Both records remain the oldest in Stanford basketball history.

March 28, 1942
Stanford defeated Dartmouth 53-38 to win the NCAA championship. Howie Dallmar scored 15 points to win Most Valuable Player honors while Jack Dana scored 14 points.

Stanford Basketball Tradition
Championship History

15 NCAA Tournament appearances. 5 NIT berths. Trips to the Final Four, Elite Eight and Sweet 16 all in the past 10 years. 11 straight trips to the NCAA Tournament from 1995-2005. A history of producing All-Americans and NBA standouts. All of those accomplishments, along with a rich and storied tradition, place Stanford basketball among the nation's elite programs.

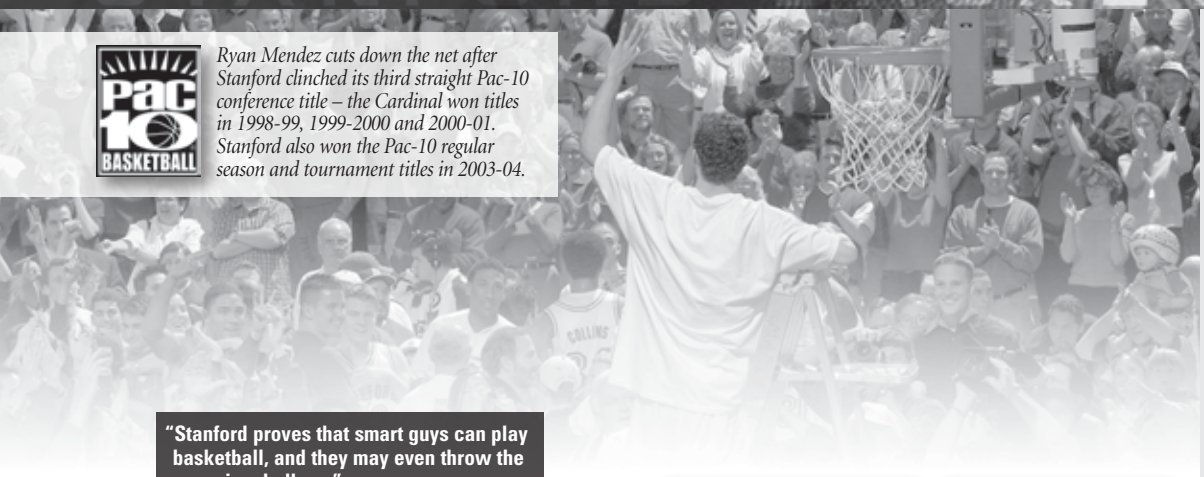

Stanford returned to the NCAA Tournament last season, making its first appearance in the Big Dance since the 2004-05 season. The Cardinal finished 18-13 overall after falling to Louisville 78-58 in the opening round.

"At Stanford, it's still done the right way. Talented student-athletes who are well-spoken, polite, respectful of opponents, and who manage to graduate on time. And – oh yes, athletes who win."
Dave Newhouse, Alameda News Group

Todd Lichti, Stanford's all-time leading scorer (2,336 points), was a four-time All Pac-10 selection.

Ryan Mendez cuts down the net after Stanford clinched its third straight Pac-10 conference title – the Cardinal won titles in 1998-99, 1999-2000 and 2000-01. Stanford also won the Pac-10 regular season and tournament titles in 2003-04.

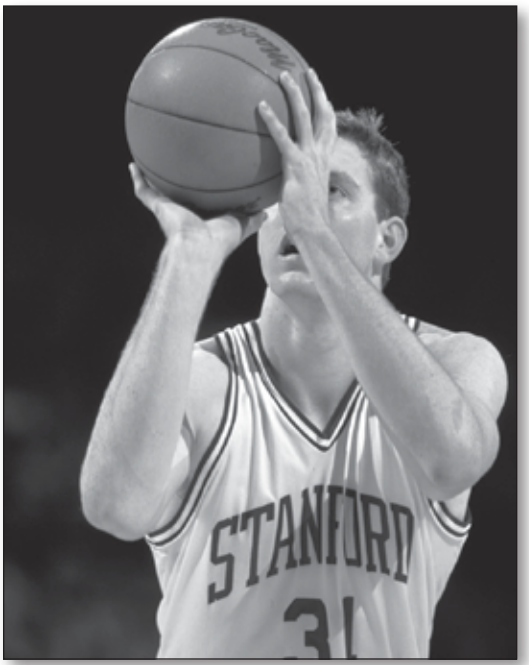

"Stanford proves that smart guys can play basketball, and they may even throw the occasional elbow."
Bill Coats, St. Louis Post-Dispatch

In 2005-06, Stanford was awarded a berth in the NIT for the first time since 1994. The Cardinal downed Virginia in the opening round before falling to host Missouri State in the second round.

The Cardinal participated in the NCAA Tournament for a school record 11th consecutive season in 2004-05. Stanford finished 18-13 overall, falling to Mississippi State in the first round.

In 2003-04, the Cardinal recorded its 11th straight winning season and won 26 games in a row to begin the year. Stanford set a school record with 17 conference wins, won the Pac-10 Tournament title and was ranked No. 1 for four weeks.

In 2002-03, Stanford finished 24-9 overall and placed second in the Pac-10 with a 14-4 mark. The Cardinal advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament and posted 20 or more wins for the ninth straight season.

Adam Keefe, who was named to five All-America teams during his senior session, is one of only four players in NCAA history to have a combination of 60 percent field goal accuracy, 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds. He is the only non seven-footer to accomplish that feat. The other three are Lew Alcindor, David Robinson and Patrick Ewing.

Josh Childress, a finalist for the 2004 John Wooden Award, appeared with the coaching legend on the cover of Sports Illustrated On Campus.

Included in that batch was a 82-77 victory over then-No. 1 Arizona to highlight the year.

Stanford's 2001-02 squad produced two NBA first round selections, Curtis Borchardt and Casey Jacobsen. The club finished 20-10 overall that season, reaching the NCAA Tournament second round.

Seven years ago in 2000-01, the Cardinal won a school record 31 games, advanced to the Elite Eight, won the Pac-10 title for a third straight season and was ranked among the nation's top-3 the entire year.

Eight years ago, the Cardinal claimed Pac-10 honors (along with Arizona), and for the first time in school history was ranked No. 1 in the nation.

During the 1998-99 campaign, the Cardinal captured the Pac-10 title, attained a No. 2 national ranking during the season, and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The 1997-98 season turned out to be one of the most memorable in program history. The Cardinal reached the NCAA Final Four in San Antonio, falling 86-85 in overtime to eventual national champion Kentucky in the semifinals.

Since 1990, Stanford has chalked up an impressive overall mark of 365-163. That includes a 200-47 ledger in games played at Maples Pavilion. Where the Cardinal once played in front of small crowds, it now routinely performs to a large contingent of Cardinal faithful. Every seat at Maples Pavilion has been sold out for years, and it is anticipated that all home games will again be sold out in 2007-08.

Stanford basketball has enjoyed many memorable moments in its history, coming in the form of signature victories or outstanding individual accomplishments.

According to Inside Sports Magazine College Basketball (Updated 1998 Edition), written by Mike Douchant, the first wire service poll wasn't conducted until the 1948-49 season by Associated Press. In an attempt to recognize some of the top teams before the 1948-49 season, Patrick M. Premo, an accounting professor at St. Bonaventure, analyzed every season since 1892-93. He looked at each team's opponents and final scores of each game that were available. Mr. Premo says he does not claim his polls are definitive, simply his opinion.*

Stanford Postseason Highlights

1941-42

Stanford captured the NCAA title behind All-Americans Jim Pollard and Howie Dallmar.

1987-88

Stanford returns to the postseason for the first time since its NCAA title year in 1942, getting past Long Beach State in the first round of the NIT before dropping a heartbreaker to Arkansas State, 60-59.

1988-89

Stanford advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in 47 years, but is upset in the first round by Siena.

1941-42

The regular lineup for Stanford's 1942 NCAA championship team was (l to r) Bill Cowden, Howie Dallmar, Ed Voss, Jim Pollard, Don Burness and head coach Everett Dean.

NCAA Champions, 28-4 Overall, 11-1 PCC

Stanford 53, Rice Institute 47, West Regional Semifinal, March 20, 1942, Kansas City, MO

Stanford 46, Colorado 35, West Regional Final, March 21, 1942, Kansas City, MO

Stanford 53, Dartmouth 38, National Championship game, March 28, 1942, Kansas City, MO

Stanford, coached by Everett Dean, captured the national title behind a pair of All-Americans, Jim Pollard and NCAA tournament MVP Howie Dallmar. Stanford defeated Rice Institute, 53-47, and then handed Colorado a 46-35 defeat to reach the final. Stanford won 53-38, as Dallmar scored 15 points and Jack Dana came off the bench to add 14. Pollard was ill and did not play in the championship game.

The game wasn't even broadcast live back to the Bay Area, but, instead, was recreated from wire reports by KSFO. The gate gross for the five nights of basketball in Kansas City was $23,500. Expenses, mostly for travel, were about $22,000. Of the remaining $1,500, half went to the NCAA. The other $750 was split eight ways among the eastern and western tourney teams. In the end, Stanford's share of the NCAA pot was $93.75.

The 1987-88 Stanford basketball team finished the season 21-12 and participated in the NIT, the first post-season appearance by a Stanford team since 1942.

NIT Tournament, 21-12 Overall, 11-7 Pac-10

Stanford 80, Long Beach State 77, First Round, March 17, 1988, Stanford, CA

Arkansas State 60, Stanford 59, Second Round, March 22, 1988, Stanford, CA

Stanford's first appearance in postseason play in 46 years proved to be successful as the Cardinal scored a 80-77 victory over Long Beach State at Maples Pavilion. Stanford shot 61-percent from the floor, and outrebounded the 49ers 38-19. Todd Lichti continued his All-America season with a season-high 34 points. Lichti hit 12 of 13 shots for 92-percent and added eight free throws in 10 attempts. Greg Butler added 16 points and six rebounds, while Howard Wright chipped in with 11 points and nine rebounds. Bryan McSweeney dished out eight assists.

However, Stanford's season ended as visiting Arkansas State scored a 60-59 victory. Once again, Lichti led Stanford with 23 points, hitting 8-of-12 shots from the floor. Terry Taylor scored 10 points and dished out nine assists, while Butler grabbed a team-high nine rebounds.

1988-89

The 1988-89 Stanford basketball team is regarded as one of the best teams in modern Cardinal history. The '88-89 team ranked 12th in the nation, finished the season 26-7, made the NCAA Tournament, and set or tied 27 Stanford, Maples Pavilion, team, individual and Pac-10 records. Three members of that team (Adam Keefe, Todd Lichti and Howard Wright) later played in the NBA, and a fourth player, Andrew Vlahov, played in the 1988, '92, '96 and 2000 Olympic Games for Australia.

NCAA Tournament, 26-7 Overall, 15-3 Pac-10

Siena 80, Stanford 78, East Regional, March 16, 1989, Greensboro, NC

Upsets prevail in the NCAA Tournament, and Siena College pulled off the upset in the first round with a 80-78 victory over Stanford in the East Regional in Greensboro, North Carolina. Stanford had been seeded third in the regional and Siena 14th. Freshman Adam Keefe came off the bench to score 22 points, including 12-of-13 from the free throw line. Todd Lichti scored 17 points and grabbed five rebounds.

1989-90

The 1989-90 Cardinal squad finished the season with an appearance in the NIT.

NIT Tournament, 18-12 overall, 9-9 Pac-10
Hawaii 69, Stanford 57, First Round,
March 15, 1990, Honolulu, HI

The Cardinal traveled to Honolulu to face a tough Hawai'i team from the WAC. The heat and humidity slowly tired the Cardinal and Hawai'i eventually walked away with a 69-57 victory. Adam Keefe scored a season-high 31 points, hitting 10-of-13 shots from the floor for 77-percent. Keefe added 10 rebounds in 39 minutes of play.

1990-91

The 1990-91 Stanford basketball team captured the NIT championship, only one of 14 schools in intercollegiate history to win both the NCAA and NIT titles.

Stanford 78, Oklahoma 72, Championship Game,
March 27, 1991, New York, NY

Stanford began its march to the NIT title with a convincing 93-86 victory over Houston. The team shot-60 percent from the floor and outrebounded the Cougars 37-26. Kenny Ammann hit for a game-high 29 points, including five three-pointers. Adam Keefe added 22 points and five rebounds, while Deshon Wingate connected for 12 points and 12 rebounds.

The Cardinal then hit the road for a game at Wisconsin. A hostile crowd of 11, 309 could not deter the Cardinal as Stanford posted an 80-72 triumph. Adam Keefe was unstoppable, scoring 33 points and collecting 14 rebounds. Ammann added 14 points, Wingate with 11 points and eight rebounds and Marcus Lollie came off the bench to score 10 points. Stanford hit 55-percent from the floor, and outrebounded the Badgers 30-20.

The road trip then extended to Carbondale where a full house witnessed a game between Stanford and Southern Illinois. The Cardinal scored a 78-68 victory over the Salukis and advanced to the NIT Final Four in New York City. Keefe again led Stanford with 24 points, eight rebounds, four steals and three blocks in 40 minutes of play. Wingate added 16 points and 11 boards, while Andrew Vlahov, who had missed the latter part of the regular season with a serious ankle injury, scored 14 points, grabbed seven rebounds, dished out three assists and blocked two shots. Stanford made 64-percent from the floor compared to 38-percent for Southern Illinois.

The NIT semifinals pitted Stanford against Massachusetts. Vlahov proved to be the key to victory as he hit 12-of-12 free throw attempts in a 73-71 Cardinal victory. Vlahov scored 20 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while teammate Keefe tallied 24 points.

The championship game saw Oklahoma and Stanford play before nearly 9,000 fans at Madison Square Garden. The Sooners led at the half 39-35 but Stanford came back in the second half to score a 78-72 decision. Ammann again was deadly from 3-point range, hitting five 3-pointers, in scoring 22 points. All five Stanford starters scored in double figures (Vlahov with 14, Wingate and John Patrick with 13 each, and Keefe with 12).

The 1991-92 Stanford basketball team returned to the NCAA Tournament and ended the season with 18 new school records.

Stanford was a No. 12 seed and faced No. 5 Alabama in a first round game at the Southeast Regional in Cincinnati. The Crimson Tide featured three future NBA players including Latrell Sprewell, Robert Horry and James Robinson. The game was close throughout but Sprewell collected five three-pointers en route to a 22-point game. Horry added 19 points and nine rebounds as Alabama scored an 80-75 victory. Adam Keefe scored 23 points and grabbed nine rebounds for the Cardinal, while Brent Williams added 22 points and seven boards.

1993-94

The 1993-94 Cardinal basketball team participated in post-season play (NIT) for the sixth time in the last seven years.

Stanford Postseason Highlights

1994-95

Stanford advances to the second round of the NCAA Tournament, dropping UNC Charlotte in an exciting come-from-behind victory. The Cardinal then faced a tough Massachusetts squad in the second round.

1995-96

For the second straight year, Stanford wins its opening NCAA Tournament game, and again faces Massachusetts. The nation's #1-seed had a tough time with the Cardinal, but eventually prevailed in the final seconds.

The 1994-95 Stanford basketball team returned to the NCAA Tournament and beat North Carolina-Charlotte in the first round, its first post-season NCAA win since 1942.

Stanford earned its first victory in the NCAA Tournament since 1942 when the No. 10 Cardinal defeated No. 7 UNC Charlotte 70-66, in a tense, hard-fought game. Dion Cross led Stanford with 17 points, including five 3-pointers. Center Tim Young added 14 points, eight rebounds and three blocks, while All-American guard Brevin Knight added 13 points and six assists. UNC Charlotte led by as many as nine points in the first half, but the Cardinal fought back to take a 30-26 lead at halftime. In the second half, Stanford led 44-37 but a 26-14 run by the 49ers gave UNC Charlotte a 63-58 lead with 4:46 to play. Stanford tied the game at 69-69, and a fast break basket by Bart Lammersen with 44 seconds to play and two free throws by David Harbour iced the victory.

In the second round, UMass dominated the game from start to finish as the Minutemen scored a 75-53 victory over Stanford. Four Massachusetts players scored in double figures, while Cross scored 14 points, Young added 13 and Knight chipped in with 10 for the Cardinal. Massachusetts led 43-23 at the half and led by as many as 27 points in the second half.

The 1995-96 Stanford basketball team, ranked as high as 15th in the nation, defeated Bradley and lost a close game to then #1 ranked UMass in the NCAA Tournament.

Stanford, a No. 9 seed, faced Bradley, a No. 8 seed. The Cardinal jumped to a 21-12 lead with 9:35 lead in the first half, and extended the lead to 33-18 with 3:44 left in the first half. The Cardinal eventually cruised to a 66-58 victory over the Braves. All-American guard Brevin Knight scored 26 points (10-for-10 from the free throw line), grabbed five rebounds, dished out four assists and stole two passes in 36 minutes of play. Dion Cross added 16 points, while Andy Poppink added 10 points and 17 rebounds.

The next game pitted a rematch between Massachusetts and Stanford. This time, the game was much closer than a year before, and the game was not decided until the final seconds. Massachusetts was the No. 1 team at the time and raced to a 14-5 lead early in the game. However, Stanford took the lead at 22-20 on a Cross lay-up. Stanford took its biggest lead of the first half at 28-24 with 3:55 left, but the Minutemen took a 33-31 lead into the locker room. Massachusetts extended its lead to 66-53 with 7:04 to play. However, Stanford was not about to quit. Stanford gradually cut at the Massachusetts lead and with 54 seconds to play, the Cardinal was down 75-74. But the Minutemen scored the game's final points. Knight led Stanford with 27 points, nine assists, four rebounds and two steals in 39 minutes. Cross added 16, and Peter Sauer came off the bench to score 11 points and grab seven rebounds in 22 minutes of play. Marcus Camby led UMass with 20 points, eight rebounds and seven blocks.

Stanford reached the NCAA Sweet Sixteen for the first time in the school's history.

Stanford, seeded No. 6, opened the NCAA tournament with an 80-67 victory over Oklahoma in the West Regional in Tucson. The Sooners took their biggest lead of the game at 19-12 in the first half, but the Cardinal deadlocked the game at 33-33 at halftime. Kris Weems led Stanford with 20 points, while All-American guard Brevin Knight added 18 points, 10 assists, seven rebounds and two steals. Tim Young added 16 points and eight rebounds, while freshman Mark Madsen came off the bench to tally 12 points and nine rebounds.

Two days later, Stanford dominated play from start to finish in handing third-ranked Wake Forest a 72-66 loss. The Cardinal raced to a 16-5 lead in the first half, and led by as many as 16 points in the second half. Knight led Stanford scorers with 19 points, five assists and four steals. Arthur Lee added 14 points, four assists and three rebounds, while Peter Sauer hit some clutch shots near the end of the game, hitting for 14 points along with seven rebounds, two assists and two steals. Weems chipped in with 13 points, four rebounds and two assists.

Stanford then faced second-ranked Utah in the NCAA West Regional in San Jose. The Cardinal got off to a rocky start, missing 12 of its first 13 shots. That enabled Utah to grab a 16-4 lead with 8:09 in the first half. Utah led 37-21 with 17:23 left in the game before Stanford mounted a remarkable comeback. Knight performed his magic, hitting a leaning three-point shot with 11 seconds to play to tie the game at 67-67 and send the contest into overtime. However, Utah gradually pulled away and ended the Cardinal season. Knight finished the evening with 27 points and nine assists, while Young added 12 points and 15 rebounds.

Stanford played before 40,000 fans at the Alamodome in San Antonio, TX, at the 1998 Final Four.

1997-98

One of the best teams in school history, a high national ranking, excellent team chemistry, talent and depth characterized the 1997-98 Stanford basketball team. The Cardinal finished the year 30-5 and earned a trip to the NCAA Final Four. The 30 wins was one of 18 school, Maples or NCAA records that were broken or tied during the season.

In 1997-98, Stanford gained entry into the NCAA Tournament for a fourth straight season, its seventh trip overall and second trip to the Final Four.

In the first game at the Midwest Regional in Chicago, Mark Madsen's 17 rebounds helped the third-seeded Cardinal wear down the College of Charleston, 67-57. Stanford trailed by four points with just under seven minutes remaining and by one point, 54-53, with 4:30 left before Ryan Mendez hit consecutive three-pointers to help put Stanford in front 59-56 with 3:06 left, a margin they never relinquished. Madsen's work on the boards and his 16 points kept Stanford in the game until Mendez' two three-pointers.

In the next game, Stanford's inside front wall of Tim Young and Madsen wore down Western Michigan 83-65. Arthur Lee scored 24 points and dished out seven assists, while Young and Madsen each scored 19 points and combined for 23 rebounds. Stanford outrebounded Western Michigan 41-25. Stanford shot .566 from the floor, compared to .393 for Western Michigan.

The Midwest Regional then moved to St. Louis and behind the play of freshman Jarron Collins, Stanford scored a 67-59 victory over Purdue. Collins came off the bench to score 12 points and grab eleven rebounds. Collins turned the game in Stanford's favor with 10 points and seven rebounds in six minutes and 41 seconds of first half action. Collins hit an inside basket to give the Cardinal a 25-24 lead with 3:27 left in the first half, a lead it would never lose. Another Collins basket just before the first-half buzzer gave the Cardinal a 37-26 lead. David Moseley hit the biggest shot of the game, a three-pointer with 1:03 left. Purdue had cut Stanford's lead from eleven points to three, but Moseley hit the key three-pointer with four seconds on the shot clock. Madsen scored 15 points and added 13 rebounds.

The next game saw one of the great comebacks in any sport in Stanford history. The Cardinal was facing Rhode Island and attempting to reach the NCAA Final Four for the first time since 1942. With 59 seconds remaining, Stanford was down 71-68. Rhode Island made a free throw to go up 72-68. Then Lee fed Madsen with a lay-up with 40 seconds left. With Rhode Island holding a 74-70 lead (the Rams hit two more free throws) with 33 seconds left, Lee drove for a lay-up, scored and was fouled to cut the Rams lead to 74-72. The free throw was good. Then on the inbounds pass, Lee stripped the ball away from Rhode Island's Cuttino Mobley about 15 feet from the basket, knocking the ball to Madsen, who dunked the ball and was fouled. Madsen made the free throw that gave Stanford a 76-74 lead. Stanford upped the lead on a Kris Weems free throw and two by Lee, before the Rams hit a three-pointer to end the game. Lee's scoring, passing and defense led to 13 of Stanford's 14 points in the final minute. Lee was named MVP of the Midwest Regional.

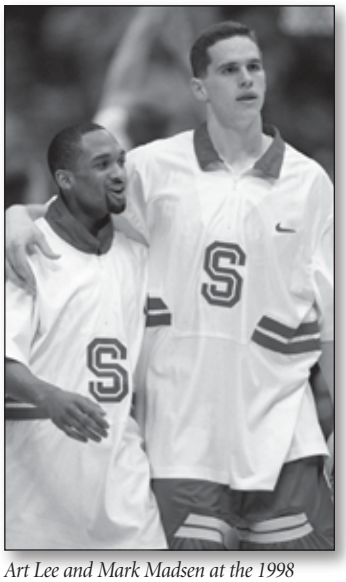

Stanford Postseason Highlights

1996-97

Stanford beat Oklahoma and faced the nation's top player in Tim Duncan, but the Cardinal prevailed over Wake Forest, 72-66. Stanford advanced to the Sweet Sixteen for the first time, facing No. 2 Utah in the West Regional. The game was tied through regulation, 67-67, but Utah ended Stanford's storybook season in overtime, 82-77.

1997-98

A truly memorable season as Stanford reached the NCAA Final Four for the first time since the 1941-42 season. The Cardinal defeated College of Charleston, Western Michigan, Purdue, and Rhode Island to reach the semifinals of the Final Four in San Antonio. Kentucky prevailed 86-85 in overtime in one of the most exciting postseason games in Stanford history.

Stanford Postseason Highlights

1999-00

Stanford reached the NCAA Tournament for the sixth straight season.

The victory sent Stanford to the NCAA Final Four in San Antonio, Texas, and a semifinal contest against Kentucky. In one of the most memorable games in Final Four history, Kentucky outlasted the Cardinal 86-85 in overtime. The Alamodome crowd of 40,509 gave both teams a standing ovation as they walked off the court. Stanford took a 13-3 lead in the first five minutes of the game and led throughout the first half. The Cardinal held a 37-32 edge at halftime.

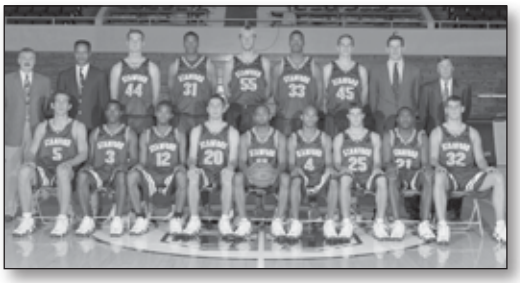

A three-point basket by Peter Sauer made the score 46-36, Stanford's biggest lead of the second half, and a three-pointer by Lee made it 49-40. Eight straight points by Kentucky cut the Cardinal lead to 49-48. The Wildcats took the lead for the first time at 54-53 with 10:04 left. Kentucky held a four-point lead (72-68) lead with 1:11 to go, but Madsen scored on an offensive rebound. Kentucky added a free throw, but Lee sent the game into overtime with a three-point basket with 24.6 seconds.

Stanford was down 78-73 early in overtime, and down by four with 15.4 seconds left, but Sauer nailed a three-pointer. Two missed free throws by Kentucky gave the ball back to Stanford, but a 65-foot shot by Sauer went wide and Kentucky advanced to the championship game against Utah.

Lee scored 26 points and dished out five assists, while Weems added 17, and Madsen chalked up eleven points and 16 rebounds.

Lee was named to the Final Four All-Tournament team.

1998-99

The 1998-99 Stanford basketball team captured the Pac-10 championship, the school's first title since the 1962-63 season. The Cardinal advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

In 1998-99, Stanford marched into the NCAA Tournament for a fifth straight season, and its eighth trip overall.

The Cardinal gained its highest seed ever at No. 2 and a berth in the West Regional in Seattle. In its first game, Stanford opened tournament play with a 69-57 victory over Alcorn State at Key Arena. The Cardinal started fast, building a 21-7 lead, and held a 40-26 halftime lead. But the Braves of Alcorn State mounted a gradual comeback in the second half, tying the game at 55-55 with 4:11 to play. But six free throws in the final 2:38 by All-American guard Arthur Lee helped carry the Cardinal to victory. All-American forward Mark Madsen tallied a career-high 23 points along with 13 rebounds. Peter Sauer added 12 points, seven rebounds and two steals, while Kris Weems dished out a career-high eight assists. Stanford outrebounded the Braves, 45-23.

For only the second time, Stanford and Gonzaga met on the court, and the Cardinal season ended in the second round of the NCAA Tournament as the tenth-seeded Bulldogs scored a 82-74 victory before a crowd of 15,187. Stanford led only once in the game, 1-0, with 18:33 left in the first half. From there, Gonzaga dominated play, hitting 11-of-20 three-point attempts, including 7-of-12 in the first half. The Bulldogs gained their biggest lead in the first half, 23-10, but Stanford cut the margin to 34-30 at halftime. A Gonzaga three-pointer to start the second half gave the WCC school a seven-point lead. Stanford gradually cut the lead, and even tied the game at 49-49 with 11:18 to play. But Gonzaga went on an 18-8 run in the next 7:14 to ice the game. The Cardinal backcourt of Lee and Weems combined for 42 points (24 points for Lee, 18 for Weems), while Madsen hit his fourth straight double-double with 15 points and 14 rebounds.

Stanford, seeded No. 1, scored a 84-65 victory over South Carolina State at the South Regional at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center. The Cardinal broke the school record for best three-point shooting percentage in an NCAA Tournament game, shooting .565 from three-point range (13-for-23). Stanford also broke the school record in NCAA Tournament play by sinking 13 three-point field goals. Five Cardinal players scored in double figures, led by freshman Casey Jacobsen with 18 points. All-American Mark Madsen added his seventh double-double of the season with 14 points and 13 rebounds. The Cardinal jumped to a 7-0 lead and later increased the margin to 23 points at 44-21 with 2:43 in the first half. Stanford continued the upward surge in the second half, building up a 33-point margin at 79-46 with 4:39 left in the game.

Stanford's season came to an end as eighth-ranked North Carolina posted a 60-53 in the second round of the NCAA Tournament. The Cardinal could not get on track from three-point territory, hitting only 6-of-22 shots from behind the arc. Overall, the Cardinal shot .345 from the field. Despite the shooting woes, Stanford held a 27-20 lead with 2:17 left in the first half, but North Carolina scored a critical eight straight points to take a one-point halftime lead at 28-27. The Tar Heels continued their hot run to start the second half, taking a 34-27 lead with 17:47 remaining. It was the biggest lead of the game for North Carolina. Stanford mounted a comeback, assuming a 47-43 lead with 8:20 to play, but North Carolina scored 10 straight points to take a 53-47 lead. David Moseley led the Cardinal attack with 17 points, while Ryan Mendez came off the bench to score 12 points (4-for-4 from the floor, 2-for-2 from three-point territory).

Maryland 87, Stanford 73, West Regional
March 24, 2001, Anaheim, CA

Based on its season record and a first place title in the Pac-10, Stanford earned a No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament. The Cardinal, ranked second in the national polls, opened NCAA Tournament play with a convincing 89-60 victory over UNC Greensboro at the West Regional in San Diego. Center Jason Collins scored 25 points, grabbed eight rebounds and blocked three shots to lead the Cardinal attack. Stanford shot .609 from the floor, and outrebounded the Spartans 33-28. It was the seventh straight season that the Cardinal had won its opening round game of the NCAA Tournament. Stanford recorded its widest margin of victory in an NCAA Tournament game. The Cardinal led by as many as 31 points in the second half.

The competition got a bit tougher in the second round of the NCAA Tournament as the Cardinal faced one of the best players in the country, Marvin O'Connor of St. Joseph's. Stanford made all 10 of its free throws in the final 45.1 seconds, six by Jarron Collins and four by Ryan Mendez, to score a dramatic 90-83 victory over St. Joseph's. Jason Collins scored 22 points and Casey Jacobsen added 21. Stanford set a school record for most points in an NCAA Tournament game with 90. The Cardinal also set a school standard in NCAA Tournament games with free throws made (31) and attempted (37). O'Connor proved to be an excellent player scoring 37 points in 35 minutes of play, hitting 15-of-20 shots. Stanford led 56-46 with 13:20 to play, but St. Joseph's outscored the Cardinal 13-2 in the next 2:19 to take a 59-58 lead. St. Joseph's led by as much as five points, 67-62, with 8:01 to play. But Stanford mounted a comeback, and took a 73-72 lead with 5:34 to play. St. Joseph's then took a 74-73 lead, but Stanford took the lead for good, 76-74, on a three-pointer by Michael McDonald with 4:56 to play.

Stanford then traveled to Anaheim for the next series of games at the West Regional. The Cardinal battled back from a four-point halftime deficit to post a 78-65 victory over the Cincinnati Bearcats to advance to the NCAA Elite Eight. The Cardinal shot .652 in the second half to outscore Cincinnati 44-27. Overall, Stanford shot a school record NCAA Tournament game .628 from the floor. It was also Stanford's best shooting effort of the season. Ryan Mendez hit a three-pointer to start the second half, and Casey Jacobsen and the Collins Twins combined for Stanford's next ten points to take a 47-42 lead. A 15-4 run later in the second half broke the game open. Jacobsen scored a season-high 27 points.

Stanford's magical season came to an end as Maryland played perhaps its finest game of the season to upset the Cardinal 87-73. Maryland hit 69-percent from three-point territory (9-for-13) and 58-percent overall to help seal defeat for the Cardinal. Stanford and Maryland were tied 25-25 with 5:46 in the first half, but the Terrapins outscored the Cardinal 17-7 to take a 42-32 halftime lead. The Cardinal scored the first seven points of the second half to cut the Maryland lead to 42-39. But Maryland answered by outscoring Stanford 14-2 to take a 56-41 lead with 13:40 to play. Four Cardinal players scored in double figures led by Ryan Mendez with 18 points.

The 2001-02 Stanford basketball team finished tied for second place in the Pac-10 and advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the eighth straight year.

Stanford, seeded eighth, opened the NCAA Tournament with an 84-68 victory over ninth-seeded Western Kentucky before a crowd of 26,612, the third largest crowd to watch a Stanford basketball game. All-American Curtis Borchardt recorded his 16th double-double of the year with 19 points, 12 rebounds, along with five blocks. All-American Casey Jacobsen added 17 points, six rebounds and four assists in 36 minutes. The Hilltoppers took a quick 3-0 lead to start the game, but Stanford took at 4-3 lead at 17:52 and never trailed again. A 14-point halftime lead, 36-22, expanded to as many as 17 points, 78-61, with 1:02 to play. Stanford's victory was the eighth straight year that the Cardinal won its opening round NCAA Tournament game.

Stanford's second round game proved to be much tougher. Second-ranked and top-seeded Kansas jumped to a 15-0 lead to start the game and never looked back in defeating the 24th-ranked Cardinal, 86-63, at the Midwest Regional. A crowd of 31,484 (the second largest crowd to ever watch a Stanford basketball team play) watched as the Jayhawks held Stanford scoreless until 15:28 on a Curtis Borchardt dunk. The Cardinal cut Kansas' margin to nine points with 14:20 in the first half, but Kansas then took complete control, outscoring the Cardinal 33-20 to take a 48-26 halftime lead. The second half was much more competitive as Stanford and Kansas combined for 75 points with the Jayhawks holding a 38-37 second half advantage. Casey Jacobsen scored 24 points to lead both teams in scoring. Borchardt recorded his 17th double-double of the season with 13 points and eleven rebounds.

Stanford, seeded fourth, reached the second round of the 2003 NCAA Tournament with a 77-69 victory over San Diego at the South Regional. Josh Childress recorded his 11th double-double of the season with 22 points, 11 rebounds, five assists and four blocks in 36 minutes. Three other Cardinal starters scored in double figures: Julius Barnes (18), Matt Lottich (17) and Rob Little (12). Stanford jumped to a 9-0 lead to start the game, and advanced the lead to 16-2 with 14:37 in the first half. The Cardinal then extended the lead to a game-high 19 points (29-10) with 9:00 in the first half. San Diego then mounted a comeback, outscoring the Cardinal 22-6 to make the score 35-32 in favor of Stanford at halftime. The Cardinal continued to lead throughout much of the second half. Stanford's largest lead of the second half was nine points with 15:44 to play. San Diego again mounted a comeback and outscored the Cardinal 26-16 to take a 62-61 lead with 5:55 to play. It was San Diego's first lead of the game. With San Diego holding a 66-63 lead with 3:41 to play, Barnes hit four free throws in a 27-second span to give Stanford a 67-66 lead, a lead the Cardinal would not relinquish.

Stanford ended the 2002-03 season with an 85-74 loss to Connecticut in the second round of the NCAA South Regional. Stanford led the Huskies 44-40 at halftime but a 45-30 edge for Connecticut in the second half proved to be Stanford's downfall. Julius Barnes ended his Cardinal career with a team-high 22 points, 16 of them in the first half. Barnes hit 7-of-14 shots, including five from three-point range. Justin Davis added a double-double with 19 points and ten rebounds. Connecticut led by as many as five points in the first ten minutes of the game, building a 23-18 advantage with 11:10. But Stanford pushed ahead at 26-25 with 7:56 in the first half on a three-pointer by Matt Lottich. Stanford's last lead of the game was 54-53 at 14:14 before the Huskies took the lead for good.

The 2003-04 Stanford basketball team was ranked No.1 in the nation for four weeks, chalked up a 30-2 record and won the Pac-10 title with a school record 17 conference wins.

NCAA Tournament, 30-2 overall, 17-1 Pac-10

Stanford 71, Texas-San Antonio 45, West Regional
March 18, 2004, Seattle, WA
Alabama 70, Stanford 67, West Regional
March 20, 2004, Seattle, WA

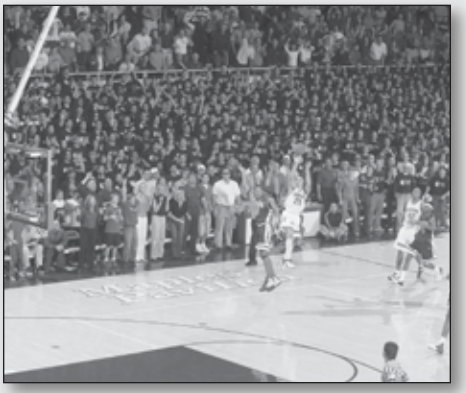

Stanford, seeded No. 1 in the Phoenix Regional, began the 2004 NCAA Tournament with a 71-45 victory over Texas-San Antonio. After trailing 2-0 to start the game, Stanford scored nine straight points and the Cardinal never trailed the rest of the game. After the Roadrunners cut the lead to 9-6 with 14:54 left in the first half, Stanford went on a 19-6 run to take its biggest lead of the first half 28-12 with 7:27 left. Leading 42-29 with 14:56 left in the game, Texas-San Antonio cut the Stanford lead to 44-38 with 12:15 left. Stanford then scored 14 straight points and a 19-1 run over a span of 9:01 to increase its lead to 63-39 with 5:04 remaining. All-America candidate Josh Childress scored 10 of his 26 points and added five rebounds during Stanford's scoring spurt. Stanford extended the lead to its biggest margin of the game, 67-40, with 1:43 remaining. Childress scored 26 points (9-for-15 from the floor, 6-for-6 from the free throw line) along with nine rebounds, three assists, three steals and two blocks. Matt Haryasz added 10 points and five rebounds off the bench. Stanford shot 50-percent from the floor and the Cardinal defense held Texas-San Antonio to only 24-percent shooting.

Stanford's season came to an end in the second round of the NCAA Tournament (Phoenix Regional) with a 70-67 loss to eighth-seeded Alabama. The Cardinal outrebounded the Crimson Tide 49-29, made 26 field goal attempts compared to 16 for Alabama and knocked down three more three-pointers. But it was at the free throw line that Alabama proved to be the winners. Alabama made 33-of-44 free throw attempts while Stanford shot only 11 attempts, making eight. Neither team enjoyed more than a five-point lead in the first half until the 1:59 mark when Stanford jumped to a 39-32 lead. A five-point Crimson Tide run made the score 39-37 Stanford at halftime. Stanford held the Crimson Tide to only one field goal in 17 attempts to start the second half. That helped the Cardinal build a 53-40 lead

Evolution of a "SportsCenter Moment"

With time running out against upset-minded Arizona, and the score tied 77-77 in a nationally-televised game in 2004, the moment began: Nick Robinson grabbed a loose ball on defense.

Robinson only has time to get barely across half court. From 35-feet out, he launches a running shot as time expires …

… for a game-winning three-pointer. The fans rush the court to congratulate Robinson and the Cardinal. The event is nominated as one of the "Moments" of the Year at ESPN's ESPY Awards.

with 7:40 left in the game. But the Crimson Tide rallied with a 16-0 run. Alabama gradually expanded its lead to 67-59 with 29 seconds remaining. A three-pointer by Matt Lottich cut the margin to 67-62 with 25 seconds left, but three free throws by Alabama offset a lay-up by Justin Davis and a three-pointer by Lottich near the end of the game. Davis led the Cardinal with 15 points and 11 rebounds.

2004-05

The 2004-05 Stanford basketball team finished with an 18-13 overall record and a third place finish in the Pac-10, ending the season with just nine healthy players in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

NCAA Tournament, 18-13 overall, 11-7 Pac-10
Mississippi State 93, Stanford 70, Austin Regional
March 18, 2005, Charlotte, NC

Stanford, seeded No. 8 in the Austin Regional, fell to No. 9 seed Mississippi State, 93-70, in the first round of the 2005 NCAA Tournament. The game opened as if it would be a battle of big men, with Rob Little scoring Stanford's first eight points and Mississippi State pounding the ball inside to Lawrence Roberts. But when Little went to the bench with two fouls midway through the period, the Cardinal had to push the ball out to the perimeter. Matt Haryasz and Chris Hernandez used long jumpers and backdoor cuts to the basket to open up a 12-point lead. But the Bulldogs began hitting from the outside – making four 3-pointers in the final 5:08, including three straight in a 17-4 run to close the half and take a 44-43 lead into the break. Stanford struggled with its long-range shots, missing the first five 3-pointers it attempted in the second half. It allowed the Bulldogs to open up their lead to 63-53 with 11:21 to play. The Bulldogs pulled away from there, handing Stanford the loss. Chris Hernandez led Stanford with 17 points. Rob Little and Matt Haryasz had 14 each and Fred Washington finished with 12.

2005-06

The 2005-06 Stanford basketball team finished with a 16-14 overall record and advanced to the postseason for the 13th straight season.

NIT Tournament, 16-14 overall, 11-7 Pac-10
Stanford 65, Virginia 49
March 14, 2006, Stanford, CA
Missouri State 76, Stanford 67
March 17, 2006, Springfield, MO

Stanford, a seven-seed, hosted Virginia, an eighth seed, in the opening round of the NIT. The Cardinal made its fifth overall NIT appearance and first since 1993-94. Chris Hernandez had 14 points in Stanford's easy 65-49 victory while Dan Grunfeld added 12 points and Matt Haryasz had 10 points and seven rebounds for the Cardinal. Stanford dominated Virginia throughout, leading by as much as 19 en route to its most lopsided win since a 58-34 victory over Princeton on Dec. 21. The Cardinal forced Virginia into 15 turnovers while holding the Cavaliers to a season-low in points. The Cardinal shot 57.1-percent from the floor in the first half and 49-percent for the game. Nine different players scored for Stanford, eight in the first half when the Cardinal jumped to a 36-23 lead. The win advanced Stanford to a first-round game at Missouri State. The Bears proved to be too much for the Cardinal to handle as Blake Ahearn and Deke Thompson scored 19 points each to lead Missouri State to a 76-67 win. Stanford took its first lead at 55-53 thanks to a pair of free throws by Peter Prowitt with 10:01 left and extended the advantage to four points less than 2 minutes later. Missouri State blew a 21-point lead in the first half, but used a 13-4 run to lead 66-61 with 2:40 remaining. The Bears closed out the game with eight straight free throws to keep Stanford at bay. Matt Haryasz had 15 for Stanford. Lawrence Hill added 13, and Prowitt and Chris Hernandez had 11 each.

2006-07

The 2006-07 Stanford basketball team wrapped up the year with an 18-13 overall record and reached the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2005.

NCAA Tournament, 18-13 overall, 10-8 Pac-10
Louisville 78, Stanford 58, San Antonio Regional
March 15, 2005, Lexington, KY

Stanford was tabbed No. 11 seed while Louisville entered as a No. 6. Playing less than 80 miles from its campus on the home court of archrival Kentucky, Louisville received 16 points from both Edgar Sosa and David Padgett to rout Stanford 78-58 in the opening round of the South Regional. Louisville bolted to a 41-13 lead and took a 46-20 edge into the break. Brook Lopez was impressive with a team-high 18 points and seven rebounds for the Cardinal, playing 33 minutes. Lawrence Hill chipped in with 10 points while Landry Fields and Kenny Brown each added eight for the Cardinal, which shot 41.2-percent and held a 37-26 advantage on the boards. Stanford had to travel more than 2,400 miles across the country and was playing at 9:30 a.m. PDT. The Cardinal never found its footing against Louisville's aggressive full-court pressure and turned the ball over 21 times. Louisville was able to score inside after Robin Lopez was in foul trouble early in the contest.

One of the best environments for college basketball is Maples Pavilion. Built in 1969, Maples Pavilion has been host to several of the top collegiate games in the nation.

Maples Pavilion, which underwent a $26-million renovation that was completed in 2004-05, is ushering in a new era of great basketball that benefits both student-athletes and fans alike. Maples Pavilion serves as home for not only Stanford's men's and women's basketball teams, but the women's volleyball program as well.

The renovation, financed entirely through private donations, enhances the college athletic experience for both the student-athletes and the fans. It includes a new covered 29,000 square foot concourse around the exterior of the seating area, state-of-the-art concession and restroom facilities with speaker systems, in addition to a new four-sided, state-of-the-art, center-hung scoreboard with video and replay capability. The concourse is physically separated from the original building. The gap between the original building and the new concourse was done for two reasons; first to preserve the integrity of the architectural design and secondly to create an open garden feel that is present throughout buildings on the Stanford campus. The renovation also includes new playing court floor, upgraded locker rooms, student-athlete lounges, a state-of-the-art strength and conditioning room and training room, a news media center, and new meeting rooms.

The seating configuration features a new lower seating bowl that takes the place of the old floor and loge sections. The new lower seating level includes padded stadium seats that replace the wood bleachers in the old floor setup. With the upgraded facilities and the improved seating area at floor level, the home team and fans experience the best playing atmosphere in the Pac-10.

In the last several years, Maples Pavilion has become one of the hottest environments for college basketball.

"Maples Pavilion has become one of the West's most notorious pits," wrote Arizona Republic sports columnist Greg Hansen. "The Maples Pavilion crowd has a unique feature or two. They are, oh, maybe 3 1/2 inches from the court … And the raucous Stanford pep band makes it impossible to carry on a conversation."

Stanford played its first game in Maples Pavilion on Jan. 3, 1969, losing to BYU 95-89. The following night, Stanford beat the Cougars 94-78. The formal dedication game was Mar. 1, 1969, as Stanford dropped a 75-66 decision to USC.

The 7,233-seat structure serves the entire university as a multi-purpose facility. It was originally built at a cost of $3.3 million. It was named after its principal donor, the late Roscoe Maples, a member of the 1904 Stanford class.

The pavilion is utilized throughout the year by university staff and students for recreational and intramural purposes. During the winter academic quarter, Maples is used continually used for noontime recreational basketball, men's and women's varsity basketball practice, and intramurals during the evening hours.

In addition to intercollegiate competition, physical education classes are held in Maples Pavilion. The pavilion is also used for banquets and lectures.

"One of the best things about Maples Pavilion is the Sixth Man Club and their support of our team. It's a great feeling to hit the court and hear our fans."
Stanford guard Mitch Johnson

Sixth Man Club

The Sixth Man Club

During the 1993-94 campaign, enthusiasm reached another high level with the introduction of the Cardinal Sixth Man Club, the brainchild of the Stanford sports marketing department. For $10, a student would get a Cardinal Sixth Man T-shirt, center seats at all Stanford home games and free food before the game at a Palo Alto sports restaurant.

When the Sixth Man Club first started, only 30 students signed on. How times have changed. From 30 members, the club grew to 100, then 350. Last year, approximately 2,000 students signed on with the Sixth Man Club.

The Stanford Sixth Man Club is now the official student fan club for Stanford men's basketball. The Sixth Man Club is nationally recognized as one of the top students sections. In addition to making Maples one of the most intimidating arenas in the nation, the Sixth Man Club has become one of the most popular activities for Stanford Students.

Arizona head coach Lute Olson says Maples Pavilion is a tough environment for visiting teams because of the Sixth Man Club.

"It's a tremendous home court advantage," says Olson. "The students are real close to the floor, and they have a real effect. I'd say Stanford is right up there among the toughest places to play."

The Sixth Man Alumni

To continue its goal of having the best student fan club in the nation, Stanford men's basketball has created the Sixth Man Alumni program. Sixth Man Alumni will have exclusive access to a special allotment of tickets. With Maples Pavilion long sold out for men's basketball games, head coach Trent Johnson wanted to be able to offer a limited number of tickets to former Sixth Man Club Members.

"The Sixth Man Club has always meant a lot to Stanford Basketball," said Johnson. "The former Sixth Man members were great fans while they were Stanford students and we wanted to be able to get our best fans back in Maples."

Sixth Man Alumni Club and Lucile Packard Children's Hospital

The Stanford men's basketball program and the Sixth Man Club have adopted Lucile Packard Children's Hospital as one of its priority charities. A special version of the Sixth Man Club shirt can be purchased by the general public at http://store.stanford.edu/6thman. Proceeds benefit the Lucile Packard Children's Hospital at Stanford.

H.W. Maloney

Harry Maloney was Stanford's first basketball coach (1913-1915).

Harry Maloney coached six different sports at Stanford over a period of 30 years. Maloney coached basketball for two seasons, soccer for 29 years, fencing for 22, and boxing for 19. At one time or another, he also served as head coach of track, wrestling and rugby, director of minor sports, and athletic trainer.

M.C. (Bob) Evans

Bob Evans coached Stanford to its first Pacific Coast Conference championship in 1920.

Bob Evans took over as basketball coach during the 1918-19 campaign, and also doubled as the head football coach. This was not uncommon in those days. Although he was replaced by Walter Powell as football coach, Evans remained as basketball coach in 1920 and guided Stanford to its first Pacific Coast Conference championship.

Walter Powell

Walter Powell earned the distinction of coaching the basketball team to its first national ranking.

Like Bob Evans, Walter Powell doubled as head basketball and football coach. Powell guided Stanford to the school's best record up to that time. His squad was ranked eighth in the nation by the Premo Power Poll, representing the first time in program history that a Stanford basketball team was ranked.

Andy Kerr

Andy Kerr chalked up a record of 42-18 as head basketball coach and 11-7 as football coach.

Andy Kerr became the fourth straight man to coach both basketball and football on The Farm. Kerr would later complete a 26-year career in football at four schools (Stanford, Washington & Jefferson, Colgate, Lebanon Valley), and later was inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame.

E.P. (Husky) Hunt

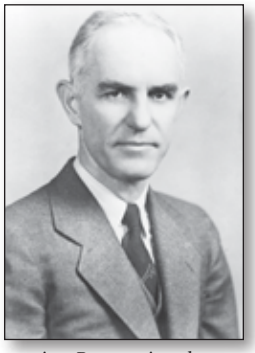

Husky Hunt not only coached basketball at Stanford, but his responsibilities included assistant football coach, head wrestling coach and head gymnastics coach.

Husky Hunt served in more different capacities at Stanford over a period of nearly 35 years than any other man, with the exception of Harry Maloney. Between 1922 and 1955, Hunt served in such capacities as head basketball coach, assistant football coach, head wrestling coach and head gymnastics coach.

John W. Bunn

John Bunn coached at Stanford from 1931-38. His 1936-37 team finished the season with a 25-2 record and was voted national champions by the Helms Foundation.

Athletic Director Al Masters contacted Phog Allen, the famous coach at Kansas, and asked whom he would recommend for the new basketball coach at Stanford. Allen recommended John Bunn, who had played and coached under Allen at Kansas. Bunn coached Stanford for eight seasons, including the 1936-37 team that was named national champion by the Helms Foundation. He also coached the great Hank Luisetti for three seasons on the varsity level. After the 1937-38 campaign, Bunn resigned to accept President Ray Lyman Wilbur's appointment as Dean of Men at Stanford.

Everett S. Dean

Everett Dean, who coached at Stanford from 1939-51, led Stanford to the 1942 NCAA championship title. Dean is the only unbeaten coach in NCAA Tournament history, compiling a 3-0 record in the 1942 tourney. Dean also is the only coach in NCAA history to win a College World Series baseball game for the same school (1953).

Stanford tabbed Everett Dean as its new coach. Dean had previously been head coach of basketball and baseball at Indiana since 1925. In 1942, Stanford produced one of its greatest teams, chalking up a 28-4 record and winning the NCAA title. In 1950, Dean also was named baseball coach and held both jobs for two seasons. Dean was inducted into both the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame and the College Baseball Hall of Fame. Dean also wrote two books in the 1940's, "Indiana Basketball" and "Progressive Basketball".

Special thanks to noted ABA expert Jonathan Singer in researching Stanford players in the American Basketball Association.

Jason Collins helped pace the New Jersey Nets to the 2002 and 2003 NBA finals during his first two seasons in the league.

Josh Childress gained second-team All-Rookie honors in 2004-05.

Jarron Collins is a solid inside threat with the Utah Jazz.

Stanford on National Teams

Not only has Stanford been a national collegiate force in basketball, but Cardinal players have been a part of several U.S. National teams and their success.

Four former Stanford players have played in the Olympics. Ron Tomsic (1952-55) and Jim Walsh (1950-52) were members of the gold medal winning 1956 U.S. Olympic team that also included Bill Russell and K.C. Jones. Tomsic averaged 11.1 points per game in eight contests and was the team's third-leading scorer while Walsh averaged 9.1 ppg in eight games. Walsh scored 14 points in the 89-55 gold medal victory over Russia. Carlos Bea (1954-56) was the starting center on the Cuban Olympic team at the Helsinki Games in 1952. Andrew Vlahov (1988-91) was a member of the 1988, 1992,1996 and 2000 Australian Olympic teams.

Brook and Robin Lopez participated in the 2005 USA Basketball Men's Youth Development Festival. Robin was a member of the Blue Team that won a silver medal while Brook competed on the Red Team that captured bronze.

In 2005, Chris Hernandez and Matt Haryasz played on the USA National team that captured the gold medal at the World University Games. In 2003, Josh Childress played on the United States team at the Pan Am Games.

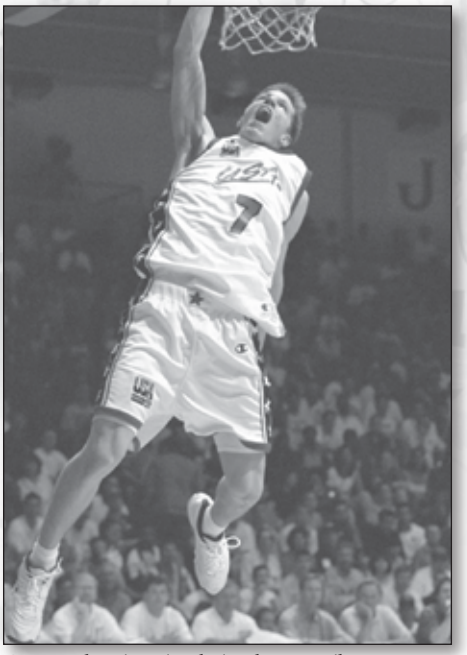

During the summer of 2000, Casey Jacobsen played on the USA Select Team. Jacobsen also earned a spot on the USA Men's Junior World Championship team that won the silver medal at the FIBA Junior World Championships in Portugal. Jacobsen also was a member of the 1999 USA Basketball Men's Junior Select National Team that claimed a 107-95 victory against an International Select Team in the Fifth Annual Nike Hoop Summit.

Brevin Knight was a member of several U.S. National teams.

In 1998, Jacobsen was a member of the gold medal winning USA Basketball Men's World Youth Games Team, which totaled a 6-0 record in Moscow, Russia. Jacobsen paced the U.S. in scoring (24.0 ppg) and ranked second in rebounds (7.0 rpg) and assists (5.5 apg). Jacobsen was a member of the silver medal winning West team at the 1998 USA Basketball Men's Youth Development Festival.

In 2000, Josh Childress and Chris Hernandez earned a silver medal as a member of the 2000 USA Basketball Men's Youth Development Festival West Team. One year earlier, Teyo Johnson earned a silver medal as a member of the USA Basketball Men's Youth Development Festival West Team.

In 1998, Curtis Borchardt was a member of the silver medal winning USA Basketball Men's Youth Development Festival Team. In 1996, Brevin Knight and Tim Young helped the USA Men's 22-and-Under Select Team to the gold medal at the COPABA 22-and-Under Tournament in Puerto Rico.

Adam Keefe was a starter on the 1991 USA Pan American Games Team that won the bronze medal in Cuba and Mark Madsen earned gold with the 1999 USA World University Games Team in Palma de Mallorca, Spain. Additionally, Tim Young captured gold as a member of the 1994 USA Junior World Championship Qualifying and 1996 22-and-Under World Championship Qualifying teams, and was a member of the 1995 USA Junior World Championship Team that finished in seventh place.

Rich Kelley was on the 1974 USA World Championship Team that earned the bronze medal.

And since 1988, several Stanford players have been invited to tryout for the U.S. National Team.

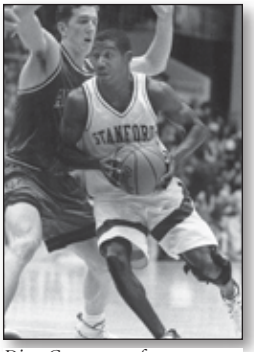

Matt Haryasz and Chris Hernandez celebrate after winning the gold medal at the 2005 World University Games.

Todd Lichti is one of only four players in conference history to be named to the All-Pac-10 team four times.

Kimberly Belton is one of Stanford's great players of the modern era. Belton is the school's third all-time rebounder and sixth all-time scorer.

Adam Keefe averaged a Stanford single-season record 25.3 points per game in 1991-92.

STANFORD BASKETBALL

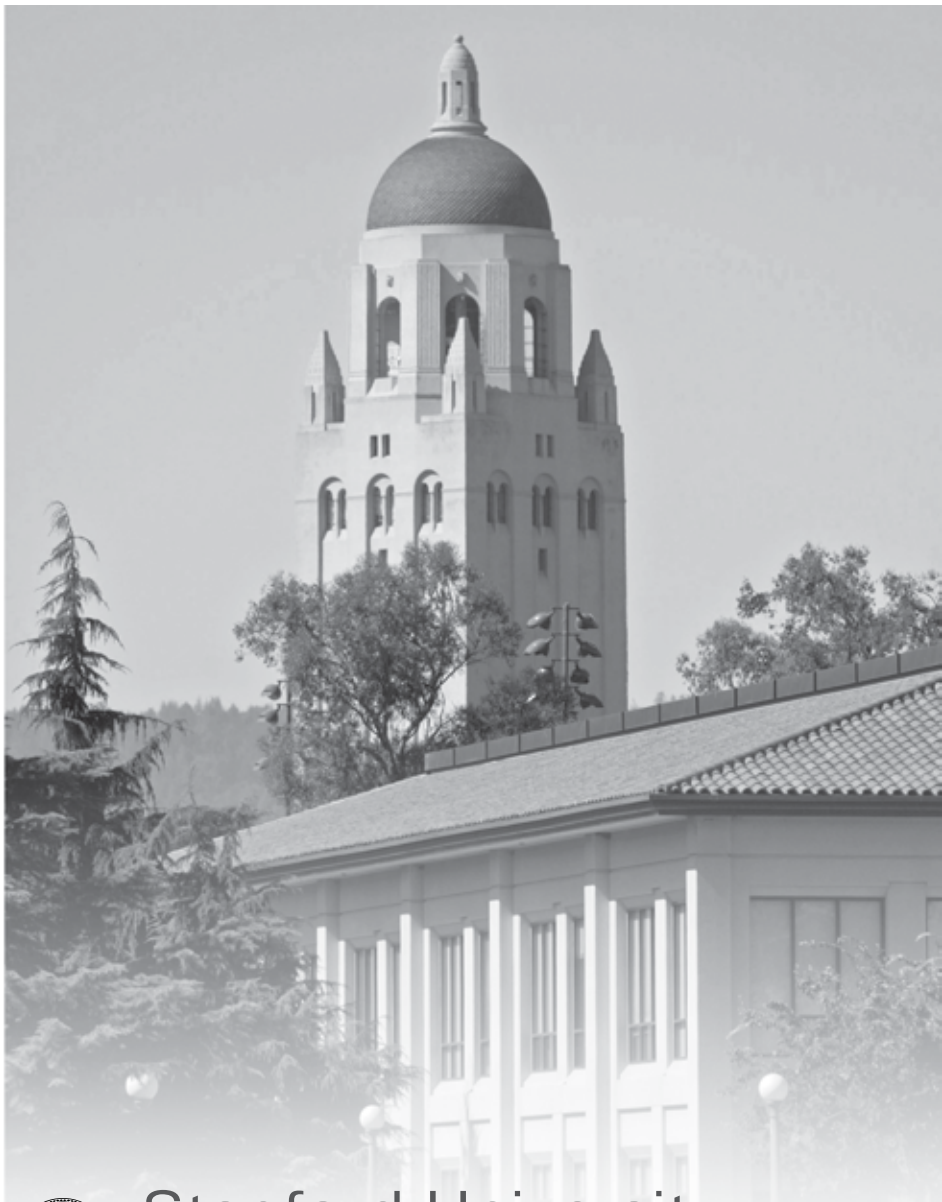

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold of greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Millions of volumes are housed in many libraries throughout the campus.

Stanford University
The University at a Glance

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

Nearly 116 years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanford's generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is less than hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few minutes north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, tremendous sports and recreation facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Australia, Beijing, Berlin, Cape Town, Florence, Kyoto, Madrid, Moscow, Oxford, Paris, and Santiago.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers just over 1,800 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. As of the June of 2007, the faculty included 18 Nobel Laureates, four Pulitzer Prize winners, 24 MacArthur Fellows, 21 recipients of the National Medal of Science, three National Medley of Technology recipients, 228 members of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 135 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 83 National Academy of Engineering members, 29 members of the National Academy of Education, seven Wolf Foundation Prize winners, seven winners of the Koret Foundation Prize and three Presidential Medal of Freedom winners. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently 14881 students, of which 6689 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. A little more than 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 68 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, approximately 55 percent are African American, Asian American, International, Mexican American, Native American, Native Hawaiian or Other Hispanic in ethnicity. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class with 89% of those admitted finishing in the top 10% of their high school class. Ninety-four Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 74 have been selected Marshall Award winners, and 49 have been chosen Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in many community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 36 Division I varsity sports (15 men, 20 women, 1 co-ed). Of Stanford's 94 NCAA titles (107 national), 54 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games, 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney, and 43 Stanford associates competed at the 2004 Games in Athens. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, ". . . Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care."

Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day . . . At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research."

Much of the campus enjoys a park-like setting.

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,180 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

On-campus housing includes dormitories, apartments, co-ops and fraternities (above).

Stanford University captured its 13th consecutive NCAA Division I Directors' Cup in 2006-07. The award is presented annually by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) to the best overall collegiate athletic program in the country.

The Cardinal won three national team champions in 2006-07 (women's cross country, men's golf, synchronized swimming), while a total of 15 teams finished among the Top Five nationally and 22 teams placed in the Top 10.

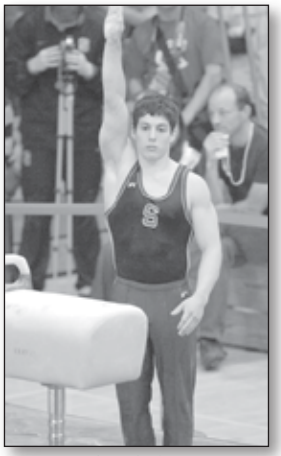

The 18 teams that joined the three national champions in the country's Top 10 were men's swimming and diving (2nd), women's volleyball (2nd), women's water polo (2nd), men's rowing (2nd-T), men's gymnastics (3rd), women's sailing (3rd), women's tennis (3rd-T), men's cross country (4th), men's indoor track and field (4th), women's swimming and diving (4th), women's golf (5th), women's gymnastics (5th), women's lightweight rowing (5th), women's indoor track and field (6th), co-ed fencing (9th), women's soccer (9th-T), women's rowing (10th), men's outdoor track and field (10th-T) and women's outdoor track and field (10th-T).

Developed as a joint effort between USA Today and NACDA, the U.S. Sports Academy Directors' Cup is the only all-sports competition that recognizes the institution that best maintains a broad-based program, achieving success in many sports, both men's and women's, in which all sports that the NCAA offers a championship, along with Division I-A football, and all student-athletes that compete in those sports, are treated equally.

National Titles
Stanford's Champions

NCAA championships are commonplace at Stanford University. Stanford teams have won NCAA championships at an unprecedented rate, including a national-best 77 since 1980 and 54 since 1990. Stanford has won at least one NCAA team championship for 31 consecutive years and has won at least four national titles in a single season nine times – again an NCAA best.

Eight different Stanford teams have won at least five national titles, including men's tennis (18), women's tennis (16), men's water polo (11), women's swimming and diving (9), men's swimming and diving (8), men's golf (8), women's volleyball (6) and synchronized swimming (5). A total of 19 Stanford teams have won at least one national championship.

Stanford Athletics has won 107 national championships. In NCAA competition, Cardinal teams have won 94 team titles, including 58 men's championships and an NCAA-best 36 women's titles.

Bob Bowlsby

The Jaquish & Kenninger Director of Athletics

Bob Bowlsby was named as Stanford's sixth Athletic Director on April 25, 2006.

Bob Bowlsby, one of the most respected and admired athletic administrators in the nation during his nearly 15 years at the helm of the University of Iowa's athletic program, was named the Jaquish & Kenninger Director of Athletics at Stanford University on April 25, 2006. He took over the reigns of the Cardinal athletic department on July 10, 2006.

Bowlsby gained a national reputation for his skill and integrity in running one of the country's most ambitious and successful Division I-A athletics programs. When Stanford went in search of a replacement for Ted Leland, Bowlsby's name immediately went to the top of the list.

"Bob Bowlsby represents the best professional and personal values when it comes to student-athletes," said Stanford University Provost John Etchemendy, chair of the search committee. "He understands that the success of an athletics program is not simply measured in wins and losses, but in the academic achievements and character of the young women and men who work so hard on the field and in the classroom."

As Stanford's sixth athletic director, Bowlsby succeeds Ted Leland (1991-2005), Andy Geiger (1979-90), Joe Ruetz (1972-78), Chuck Taylor (1963-71) and Al Masters (1925-63). Bowlsby directs a department that includes 35 intercollegiate varsity teams – 15 men's, 19 women's and one coed – plus the physical education department, intramurals, club sports, open recreation and the Stanford Golf Course. The department has an annual budget of approximately $75 million and a staff of over 225.

In its first year with Bowlsby at the helm, Stanford captured the Directors' Cup, emblematic of the top overall athletic program in the country, for the 13th consecutive year, won three national championships and had 15 teams finish in the Top 10 nationally. Bowlsby also spearheaded the opening of the New Stanford Stadium.

Throughout his career, Bowlsby (born January 10, 1952) has emerged as a national leader in intercollegiate and amateur athletics. He was named in February, 2007, to the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors.

He has previously served as President of the NCAA Division I-A Athletic Directors' Association (2002-03), Chair of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee for two years (2003-05) and a committee member for five years, Chair of the Big Ten Administrator's Council (2002-04) and Chair of the NCAA Management Council.

Bowlsby was appointed by President George Bush as a member of the Commission on Opportunities in Athletics in 2002-03. The committee was led by U.S. Secretary of Education Rod Paige.

Bowlsby was elected chair of the NCAA Olympic Sports Liaison Committee and represented the NCAA as one of two voting members on the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors. He served as a member of the NCAA/U.S. Olympic Committee Task Force chaired by Cedric Dempsey and George Steinbrenner.

In addition, Bowlsby served as chair of the NCAA Wrestling Committee and has served on NCAA committees on Financial Aid and Amateurism, the Special Committee to Review Amateurism Issues and the Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Athletics.

Bowlsby has also served as an Executive Committee member with both the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Division I-A Athletic Directors Association and served as President of the I-A organization for two years.

During ceremonies at the recently remodeled Stanford Stadium, Bob Bowlsby accepts the Directors' Cup, which Stanford has recently captured for the 13th consecutive year.

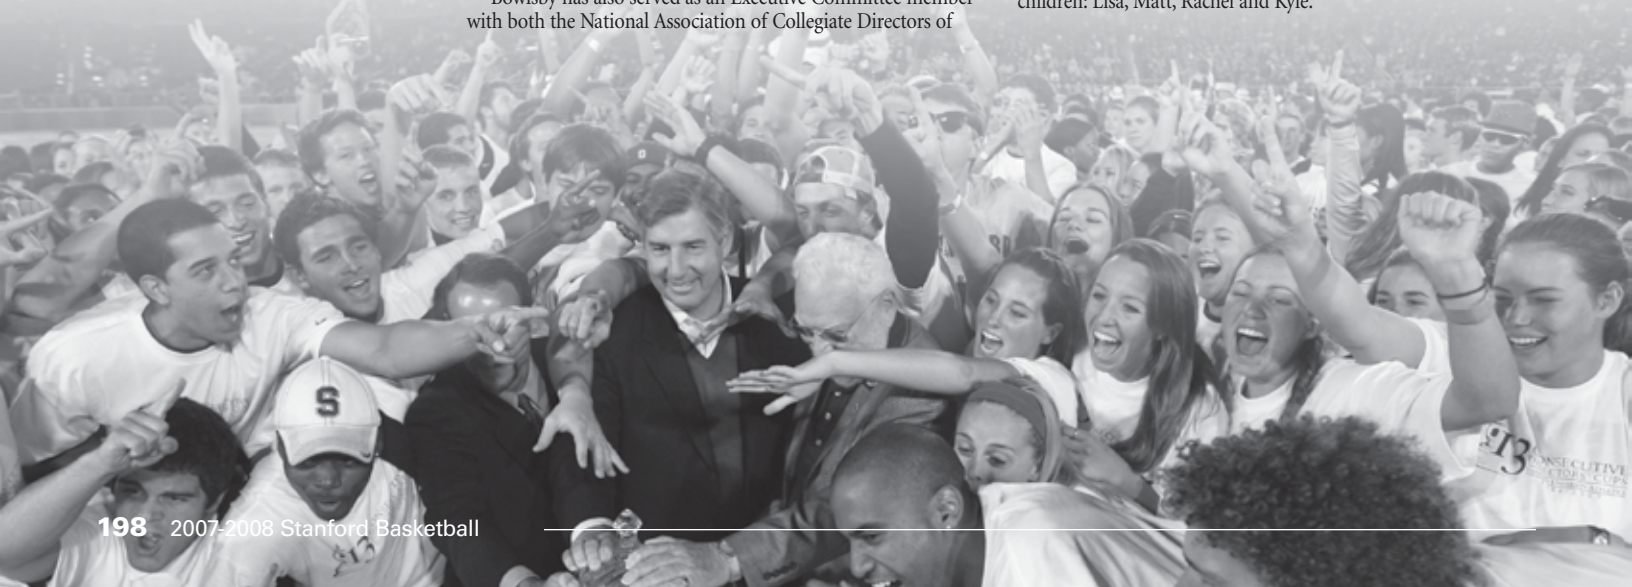

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) named Bowlsby in 2001-02 as Central Region Athletic Director of the Year and Sports Business Journal selected him from the four regional award winners as the National Athletics Director of the Year. The award highlights the efforts of the athletic directors for their commitment and positive contributions to campuses and their surrounding communities.

As the chief administrator for Iowa's athletic department from 1991-2006, Bowlsby earned a reputation as one of the most admired, energetic and ambitious athletic administrators in the nation. Bowlsby guided and supervised the merger of the Hawkeye's women's and men's athletics departments while enabling Iowa to maintain its standing as one of the most visible and successful Division I athletic programs.

Under his leadership, Iowa enjoyed unprecedented success and growth in the area of fund raising and facilities. Bowlsby and the UI Development staff put in place $25 million in endowments to help support Hawkeye student-athlete scholarship aid. In addition, he managed the planning and construction of $120 million in facility projects on campus, including an $87 million renovation to Kinnick Stadium.

A native of Waterloo, Iowa, Bowlsby became Iowa's 10th Athletic Director in June, 1991, after serving in the same role at the University of Northern Iowa since 1984.

Bowlsby earned his Bachelors degree from Moorhead State University (Minnesota) in 1975 and his Masters degree from the University of Iowa in 1978. He and his wife, Candice, have four children: Lisa, Matt, Rachel and Kyle.
