Stanford Stadium

"The Walk" – Stanford football players make their traditional pregame trek past cheering fans from the locker room to Stanford Stadium.

Super Bowl XIX – San Francisco vs. Miami

Home of Stanford Football

Stanford Stadium (85,500) is the largest privately owned college football facility in the United States. The Stadium has played host to Super Bowl XIX, Men's and Women's World Cup Soccer matches, Olympic Soccer competition, and countless college football games.

Set in a parklike setting among groves of eucalyptus and oak trees, the Stadium is a perfect setting for Football Saturdays, with fans tailgating and enjoying the pregame festivities prior to kickoff.

The Stadium will undergo major renovation following the 2005 season, which will make Stanford Stadium one of the premier college football facilities in the nation.

1994 World Cup Soccer – USA vs. Brazil

Stanford Stadium will receive more than just a facelift during its renovation. Nearly every part of the stadium will enjoy state-of-the-art updates and improvements.

Football Facilities

Stanford's Athletics facilities are perhaps the finest in collegiate athletics, and Stanford's football program is no exception.

The Stanford football program is housed in the spacious Arrillaga Family Sports Center, which includes administrative offices, meeting rooms, training facilities and even a full-sized basketball court. The football locker room is located on the ground floor, and an extensive weight training facility is located downstairs. The Arrillaga Family Sports Center also includes a restaurant and the Stanford Athletics Hall of Fame Room, with its impressive display of Stanford's 11 Directors' Cups and NCAA trophies.

The football practice fields are located directly across from the Arrillaga Family Sports Center, adjacent to the world-class Avery Aquatic Complex.

Stanford athletes enjoy access to the most modern and up-to-date equipment and technology available in the field of strength and conditioning.

Under the guidance of Head Strength Coach Ron Forbes, all Cardinal football players receive a personalized strength and conditioning program specifically designed to meet their individual needs and help them develop their full potential.

Each athlete has a comprehensive periodized exercise program to improve such athletic performance variables as strength, speed, acceleration, agility, muscular endurance, balance, coordination, flexibility and body composition.

Academic Support

Academics: Second to None

Football players complement their collegiate playing career with a prestigious Stanford education. Stanford University is consistently ranked as one of the best overall colleges in the nation. According to U.S. World and News Report in 2004, Stanford ranked:

- No. 5 University in the country
- No. 1 School of Education
- No. 2 Graduate School of Business
- No. 2 Engineering program
- No. 3 Law School

Recently, Black Enterprise ranked Stanford as the No. 7 University for African-American students.

Everyone at Stanford is committed to the full experience of a student-athlete. Each player has access to the Athletic Academic Resource Center (AARC). In the AARC, finding the balance between academics and athletics is key. Counselors and tutors work with student-athletes to make their academic lives as smooth as possible.

Stanford players earn meaningful degrees most often in four years. Athletes are also eligible to apply for a fifth year of study in order to pursue a Master's degree in many departments.

Life as a Cardinal

The Stanford Student

Student-athletes at Stanford have accepted the challenge of pursuing excellence both in the classroom and on the playing field. It is often said that Stanford offers the best of both worlds – top flight academics and unparalleled athletics.

Stanford's 6,500 undergraduates and 7,700 graduate students are distinguished by their initiative, love of learning and commitment to the larger world. Independent thinkers and relentlessly curious, students at Stanford bring passion and imagination to everything they do.

Stanford students work hard, and they play with equal energy and enthusiasm. From public service to performing arts, from intramural sports to student government, undergraduates take part in dozens of activities beyond the classroom.
