Beavers look to carry momentum from finish of dual meet season into Pacific-10 Championships

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 26-MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27

Oregon State at Pacific-10 Championships; Stanford, Calif.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 26

Session I, 11 a.m.: Championship preliminary round, championship quarterfinals.
Session II, 6 p.m.: Championship semifinals, wrestleback preliminaries, wrestleback first round, wrestleback quarterfinals.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27

Session III, 11 a.m.: Wrestleback semifinals, third-place finals, fifth-place finals.
Session IV, 6 p.m.: Championship finals.

Oregon State finished off the regular season as one of the hottest wrestling teams in the Pacific-10, winning its final seven dual meets by an average margin of over 24 points per meet. Now the Beavers (13-2-1 overall, 8-1 Pac-10) will be looking to translate that momentum into success at the Pacific-10 Championships, which take place Sunday and Monday at Stanford's Maples Pavilion.

"This will be the toughest test for us this year, team-wise," OSU head coach Joe Wells said. "Not only individually in each weight class, but this has to be an entire team effort."

During OSU's seven-meet win streak to end the dual season, the Beavers won 53 of 67 matches wrestled (three were forfeited to OSU). In those 53 wins, Oregon State scored a pin, technical fall or major decision 25 times.

Those are the types of results the Beavers will need to win their first Pac-10 title since 1994.

"We have to have bonus points," Wells said. "We have to take advantage of every opportunity we have to add to our point total. Winning those preliminary rounds, winning fourth-place matches, scoring bonus points and adding to our scoring capability.

"It might be one of the closest scoring tournaments we've had in a long time, and the Pac-10 Championships have been pretty competitive the past four or five years."

Defending champion Arizona State, ranked 12th in this week's National Wrestling Coaches Association/InterMat national poll, is the favorite and Cal Poly, ranked 23rd, is also considered a contender. OSU is the only other Pac-10 school to receive votes in the final poll of the year but the Beavers didn't crack the top 25.

"Arizona State is the team to beat, and we're all going to have to work at it," Wells said. "Cal Poly is going to be a factor, Boise State will be a factor, Oregon will have some individuals who can play into that mix, and Stanford is going to be right there at home so they'll be fired up."

The top three finishers in each weight class, plus nine wild-card selections made by the conference coaches at the conclusion of the meet, will advance to the NCAA Championships.

The Pac-10 rankings list six wrestlers at each weight class, and OSU has seven wrestlers in the rankings. All of those are in the top four in their weight class, and six of them are in the top three.

This week's Pac-10 rankings have OSU 141-pounder Kyle Larson and 174-pounder Jeremy Larson both ranked first in their weight class; heavyweight Ty Watterson ranked second; 125-pounder Eric Stevenson, 157-pounder Tony Hook and 197-pounder Dan Pitsch ranked third; and 133-pounder Bobby Pfennigs ranked fourth.

The Pac-10 coaches will gather on Saturday to determine the final seedings for the meet.

Hook, Jeremy Larson and Watterson are the three Beavers in the national rankings heading into the postseason. Hook remained 16th in the NWCA/IM rankings this week; Larson slipped one place to 19th in the NWCA/IM rankings; and Watterson moved up one spot on both lists, to 17th in the NWCA/IM rankings and 14th in the Amateur Wrestling News rankings.

A number of Oregon State wrestlers go into the Pacific-10 Championships with impressive records over the final weeks of the dual meet season.

Beaver 141-pounder Kyle Larson has won 13 straight matches - scoring team bonus points for a pin, technical fall, major decision or forfeit four times - and has won 18 of his last 19 matches; his win streak is OSU's longest since 165-pounder Matt Ellis won 18 straight near the end of the 2004 season. On the season, Kyle Larson is 23-4 with three pins.

OSU 184-pounder Jeremy Larson has a win streak just one match shorter than his brother Kyle, having won 12 straight - including scoring team bonus points seven times - and he's won 16 of his last 17 matches. Jeremy Larson is 24-8 with one pin this season.

"Kyle and Jeremy just have to keep doing what they've been doing - wrestling steady and keeping the pressure on, taking them down and wrestling a complete match," Wells said. "And we have seven or eight guys who can win a title if they perform well."

At 157, Hook has won six matches in a row and 10 of his last 12, scoring team bonus points four times in that span, to push his record to 19-7 with five pins this season. His career record of 71-42 with 14 pins puts him in a tie for 40th place on OSU's all-time list of career wins leaders and in a tie for 50th place on OSU's all-time list of career pins leaders.

Beaver 133-pounder Pfennigs has won all eight of his matches since returning from an injury in mid-January, and he's scored team bonus points five times in that stretch. He's now 13-3 with four pins this season.

Stevenson, OSU's 125-pounder, leads the Beavers in wins this season at 27-7 with four pins. He's won seven straight matches and 11 of his last 12, picking up team bonus points five times in those dozen matches.

Oregon State heavyweight Watterson leads the team in pins, posting a 26-7 record with eight falls. He's also won seven straight matches and 11 of his last 12, with five of those matches earning team bonus points for OSU.

OSU 197-pounder Pitsch has won six of his last seven matches, scoring team bonus points four times, to improve to 15-9 with two pins this season. Beaver 149-pounder Orlando Perez has won four in a row, scoring team bonus points twice, and is 14-12 with one pin this season.

Anthony Weber will be the Beavers' entrant at 165 pounds; he has a 12-6 record with two pins this season. Kyle Bressler will be the Beavers' 184-pounder, taking a record of 4-15 with one pin into the meet.

"We're going to have a large contingent of fans and parents come down to watch the guys," Wells said. "Stanford does an excellent job of hosting.

"It's going to be a great weekend, it's going to be fun. We just need to relax and have fun and enjoy the experience."

The last time around

OREGON STATE ALL-TIME AT CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIPS: In 83 seasons of varsity wrestling, Oregon State has won 44 team championships in the Northwest, Pacific Coast, Athletic Association of Western Universities, Pacific-8 and Pacific-10 conference meets. OSU has also won 200 individual conference titles in those meets. Oregon State's most recent team title was the 1994 Pacific-10 championship; its most recent individual title was Matt Ellis' Pac-10 crown at 165 pounds in 2004. The Beavers' record for most individual conference champs in a season is six, which was accomplished in 1962, 1966, 1973, 1977, 1978 and 1984.

At the 2005 Pacific-10 Championships at Cal Poly, Oregon State placed sixth. Beaver 165-pounder Matt Ellis and 174-pounder Jeremy Larson reached the championship finals before being defeated, while 157-pounder Tony Hook placed third; 141-pounder Tim Norman, 184-pounder Dan Pitsch and heavyweight Ty Watterson all placed fourth; and 125-pounder Eric Stevenson placed sixth.

Not so very long ago ...

OREGON STATE'S LATEST COMPETITION: Oregon State 133-pounder Bobby Pfennigs and 157-pounder Tony Hook recorded pins as the Beavers beat Oregon 32-7 in Pacific-10 wrestling the night of February 10 at Eugene. OSU also got major decisions from 174-pounder Jeremy Larson and 197-pounder Dan Pitsch as the Beavers wrapped up the regular season with their seventh straight dual meet win. A crowd of 804 saw OSU win its seventh straight Civil War, a streak dating back to the 2003 season. Oregon State won the first 5 matches of the night to take a 21-0 lead. It was the biggest margin of victory for either team in the Civil War series since OSU's 41-9 win in Corvallis in 1985, and it gave Oregon State a 103-24-2 edge in an all-time series that dates back to 1915.

Going to the Wells

OREGON STATE HEAD COACH JOE WELLS: Joe Wells, who is in his 14th season as Oregon State's head coach, has led the Beavers to a Pacific-10 title and 4 top-10 finishes at the NCAA Championships during his time at OSU.

The Beavers' 20-18 win over Oregon on December 9 was Wells' 150th dual meet win at OSU. Since taking over the Beaver program prior to the 1992-93 season, Wells is 161-94-3 for a winning percentage of .630.

The Beavers were Pacific-10 Conference champions under Wells in 1994 and he has twice been named the conference's Coach of the Year. OSU has finished in the top 10 at the NCAA Championships 4 times in Wells' tenure, placing second in 1995, fourth in 1994, eighth in 1996 and tying for ninth in 1998.

Under Wells, OSU has had 2 national champions, 17 All-Americans and 22 conference champions.

Wells was named the ASICS Oregon Wrestling Classic's Man of the Year for 1998 for his contributions to wrestling in the state.

Wells, who has coached numerous World Teams for the United States, is a 1972 Iowa graduate. He was a 2-time placer at the Big Ten meet and was the 1976 U.S. Wrestling Federation freestyle champ. He spent 17 seasons as an assistant coach at Iowa and Michigan before coming to Oregon State.

Challenge you to a dual

OREGON STATE THIRD IN ALL-TIME DUAL MEET WINS: OSU rates as one of the best dual meet teams in collegiate wrestling history. The Beavers were third in all-time dual meet wins among Division I schools going into the 2005-06 season. OSU currently has an all-time dual meet record of 895-286-26 and a .752 winning percentage.

OSU had an excellent dual meet season in 2005-06, going 13-2-1 overall and 8-1 in the Pacific-10; among their wins were victories over nationally ranked Hofstra and Cal Poly. The Beavers' 7 straight dual wins to end the season was their longest streak since they won 7 in a row at the end of the 2001 and start of the 2002 seasons. The last time OSU won that many in a row within one season was a 7-meet streak in 2000. OSU's dual meet winning percentage of .844 for the season was the Beavers' best since posting an .885 mark on an 11-1-1 record in 1992.

Gill's a thrill

OREGON STATE IN GILL COLISEUM: Oregon State has one of the finest homes in college wrestling, 10,400-seat Gill Coliseum. Now in their 50th season in Gill Coliseum, the Beavers have a home dual meet record of 369-73-6 in the arena for a winning percentage of .830.

OSU finished 6-0 at home this season, going 4-0 in Gill Coliseum and 2-0 in Truax Indoor Center. The Beavers' last unbeaten season at home had been an 8-0 campaign in 1994.

OSU moved its home wrestling meets into Gill Coliseum in 1956-57, when Dale Thomas became head coach. Since then, the arena has hosted conference championship meets 14 times, most recently in 2002, and it was the site of the NCAA Championships in 1961 and 1980.

That's pretty rank
